SUGAR QUOTAS FOR PUERTO RICO

NOTICE OF HEARING AND DESIGNATION OF PRESIDING OFFICERS

Pursuant to the authority contained in Section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1937 (Public No. 414, 75th Congress) and on the basis of the information now before me, I, H. A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, do hereby find that the allotment of the 1938 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for shipment to the continental United States (including the portion which may be filled by direct-consumption sugar, pursuant to section 207 (b) of the said act) and the 1938 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for local consumption, established pursuant to sections 202 and 203, respectively, of the said act, is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and importation of such sugar, and hereby give notice that a public hearing will be held at Washington, D. C., in the auditorium of the United States Department of Agriculture, on January 14, 1938, at 10 a. m.

The purpose of such hearing is to receive evidence to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to make a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the above-mentioned quotas among persons who market sugar locally in Puerto Rico and those who bring Puerto Rican sugar (including direct-consumption sugar) into the continental United States, and such other evidence as may be pertinent to the exercise of the powers vested in the Secretary of Agriculture under section 205 (a) of the said act.

Mr. Robert B. Tyler and Mr. John C. Bagwell are hereby designated as presiding officers to conduct either jointly or severally the foregoing hearing.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 31st day of December 1937. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

Secretary of Agriculture.

1937 AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM

SOUTHERN REGION, BULLETIN 101

Amendment 18

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture under Section 8 of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, Southern Region Bulletin 101, as amended, is hereby further amended by deleting practice number 51, section 85, and substituting in lieu thereof the following practice number 51:

Practices and Conditions

Practice Number 51. Reseeding by deferred grazing.—For withholding twenty-five percent (25%) of the ranch from grazing for a period of 6 months, beginning May 1, 1937, or beginning with the start of forage growth in the spring of 1937, except that credit for this practice may be given where the State committee finds, after considering all available facts and the recommendation of the county committee, that reseeding has been accomplished even though the grazing has been deferred less than 6 months but more than 165 calendar days from May 1, 1937, or the start of forage growth. (If grazing is deferred on less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the ranch, a proportionate payment will be made.) Payment will not be made for this practice if the operator permits the remainder of the range land on the ranch to be over-grazed to an extent that causes deterioration of such range land.
Rate: One-third (⅓) of the range building allowance.

The provisions of this Amendment 18 shall be effective as of October 14, 1937, so as to be covered by the provisions of the "Order Increasing the Allowances, Deductions, and Rates of Payment Under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program in the East Central, Northeast, North Central, Southern, and Western Regions" issued by the Secretary of Agriculture on October 14, 1937.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION.

ADOPTION OF RULE UNDER PUBLIC UTILITY HOLDING COMPANY ACT

Acting pursuant to the authority granted by the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, and particularly Sections 11 (f) and 20 (a) thereof, and finding such action necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors and consumers, and to carry out the purposes of said Act, the Securities and Exchange Commission hereby adoptes Rule 11F-1 to read as follows:

RULE 11F-1. APPLICATIONS FOR APPROVAL OF REORGANIZATION PLANS

(a) Any person proposing to submit to a court of the United States (in any proceeding whether under section 11 or otherwise) a reorganization plan for a registered holding company or any subsidiary company thereof, shall, prior to submission of such plan to the court, file with the Commission an application for approval of such plan. Such application may be filed by any person having a bona fide interest (as defined in paragraph (e) of Rule 12E-1) in such reorganization and may be combined with any application or declaration with respect to such reorganization filed pursuant to any requirement of section 11 (g) or 12 (e) of the Act or of any rule thereunder.

(b) Each such application shall comply with the provisions of rule 2 as to number of copies, form, and execution.

(c) Each such application shall contain the statements prescribed by rule 12E-4 with respect to applications for reports on plans.

(d) If the plan proposed includes acquisition of assets or securities or issuance of securities, the application, in addition to other appropriate matters, shall include the information required by sections 6 (b), or 7, or 10 and the rules, regulations and forms thereunder. The Commission, at the time when it issues its order approving or withholding approval of the plan, will determine whether or not the requirements of said sections are satisfied, subject, however, to retention of jurisdiction as provided in paragraph (e) hereof. If it is not feasible to set forth in such application, as initially filed, all the terms and conditions of any such transaction, or definitive documents and specifications with respect thereto, or for all of the persons required by any such rule or form or provision of the Act to join in applications thereunder, to join in such application, such matters, together with such definitive documents and specifications, may be supplied and such persons may so join by amendment. Such amendment may be filed either prior or subsequent to the order of the Commission approving such plan, but shall be filed prior to the carrying out of any such act or transaction proposed in such plan. In the case of any person so joining by amendment in an application with respect to a plan theretofore filed by any other person, such amendment shall specify the extent to which the person executing such amendment ratifies and adopts the statements contained in the application as theretofore filed or amended.

(e) Notwithstanding that the Commission shall have approved any plan of reorganization, it shall, however, retain jurisdiction to consider any amendments filed subsequent to such approval pursuant to paragraph (d) of this rule, or any amendments modifying the plan. In the case of amendments not substantially modifying the plan as approved by the Commission or only submitting definitive documents and specifications pursuant to the requirements of said paragraph (d), the Commission's inquiry shall be limited to whether or not any matter not theretofore passed upon by it is appropriate to carry out the provisions of the plan as theretofore approved and consistent with the requirements of the Act.

(f) Any proceeding upon any amendment within the scope of paragraph (d) or (e) of this rule shall be deemed to be supplementary to, and a part of, the proceedings initiated by the filing of an application for the approval of such plan. Unless otherwise required by order of the Commission, notice of such supplementary proceedings need not be given to any person who has not theretofore entered his appearance in the proceedings with respect to such plan.

WAPATO IRRIGATION PROJECT, WASHINGTON

ORDER FIXING OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE CHARGES

DECEMBER 10, 1937.

In compliance with the provisions of the Act of August 1, 1914 (38 Stat., 582-583) the operation and maintenance charges for assessable lands under the Wapato Project for the calendar year 1938 and subsequent years until further notice, are hereby fixed as follows:

1. Minimum Charges. For all tracts in noncontiguous single ownership $5.00
2. Flat Rate. Upon all farm units or tracts, for each assessable acre 1.30
3. Storage Operation and Maintenance. For all lands with a storage water right, known as "B" lands, in addition to other charges ..... .30

Time of payment.—The charges as herein fixed shall become due April 1, and are payable on or before that date.

To all such charges assessed against owners of patent in fee lands or lessees paying Project direct, remaining unpaid on July 1, following, there shall be added a penalty of one-half of 1 per cent for each month or fraction of month from the due date of April 1, until the charges are paid.

Conditions of payment.—No water shall be delivered to:

1. Patent in fee landowners, until all irrigation charges both for construction cost repayment and for operation and maintenance, assessed against their lands, together with any penalties that may have accrued, have been paid in full.

2. Indians farming their own land, until the charges are paid to the Indian Irrigation Service, as required in this order of patent in fee owners, or the Superintendent of the reservation shall have issued a certificate to the Project Engineer, certifying that the Indian will pay such charges through the Superintendent or that the Indian is financially unable to pay the charge.

3. Lessees of trust Indian lands, until lessees shall have paid as required in the order of patent in fee owners. Or, in cases where the terms of the lease provide that the landowner shall pay the operation and maintenance charges from the lease rental, no water shall be delivered until the Superintendent of the reservation shall have furnished the Project Engineer a certificate stating that the lessee has fully complied with the terms of the lease.

Maximum delivery on bench lands.—To protect adjoining lands against seepage and erosion by the excessive use of water on tracts located in the so-called bench areas, the maximum delivery of water is fixed at four and one-half acre feet per acre.

Assessable lands.—The following lands of the Wapato Project will be assessable under this order:

All Indian trust (A or B) land, designated as assessable by the Secretary of the Interior, except land which has not heretofore been cultivated, if in the opinion of the Project Engineer the cost of preparing such land for irrigation is so high as to preclude its being leased for agricultural purposes.

All Indian trust (A or B) land, not designated as assessable by the Secretary of the Interior, for which application is made for water or on which water had been charged during the preceding year on the project books.

All patent in fee land covered by a water right contract, except land that because of inadequate drainage is no longer productive. The adequacy of the drainage is to be determined by the Project Engineer.

In all cases where a landowner refuses or fails to clean waste ditches, the Project Engineer is hereby authorized to have such ditches cleaned and include the cost of such cleaning in the operation and maintenance assessments against the land benefited, provided that before such cleaning shall be done by the Project Engineer the landowner shall first be duly notified of his failure and of the necessity for action by the Project Engineer.

Any patent in fee land, in the discretion of the Project Engineer, on which a water right contract has been applied for or is being amended, upon the payment of charges; without prejudice to the rejection or approval of such contract.

Water for leaching alkali.—Water may be delivered for leaching purposes, without the payment of operation and maintenance charges, to any Indian trust land or patent in fee land covered by water right contract, which because of inadequate drainage facilities in the past has become impregnated with alkali to such an extent as to become nonproductive, provided the land has been classed as irrigable. In the case of patent in fee land all assessments on account of construction cost repayment, must be paid before water may be delivered.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

IN THE MATTER OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES FOR THE TOILET BRUSH MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

Due proceedings having been had under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the Act of Congress approved September 26, 1914 (38 Stat. 717),

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I which have been approved by the Commission in this proceeding be, and the same are, hereby promulgated for the Toilet Brush Manufacturing Industry.

TRADE PRACTICE RULES, TOILET BRUSH MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote fair competitive conditions in the interest of the industry and the public. They are not to be used, directly or indirectly, as part of or in connection with any combination or agreement to fix prices, or for the suppression of competition, or otherwise to unreasonably restrain trade.

Group I

The unfair trade practices which are embraced in Group I rules are considered to be unfair methods of competition or other illegal practices prohibited, within the purview of the Federal Government, by acts of Congress as construed in the decisions of the Federal Trade Commission or the courts; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use of such unlawful practices in or directly affecting interstate commerce.

RULE 1. Misbranding.—The false or deceptive marking or branding of products of the industry for the purpose or with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public with respect to the grade, quality, quantity, use, size, material, content, origin, preparation, manufacture or distribution of such products, or in any other material respect, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 2. Misrepresentation or concealment as to foreign handles or blocks.—(a) The passing off, selling or offering for sale of tooth brushes, hair brushes, or other toilet brushes made from imported handles or blocks on which the identification mark of the country of origin has been omitted or has been obliterated or concealed in the fabrication of the finished article, which brushes have been marked, stamped or branded in such manner as to mislead or deceive purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public into the erroneous belief that said brushes have been manufactured wholly within the United States, or that said brushes have been manufactured wholly from materials produced in the United States, is an unfair trade practice.

(b) In the case of tooth brushes, hair brushes, or other toilet brushes manufactured in the United States with handles or blocks made in and imported from a foreign country, nothing in these rules shall prohibit branding or marking the handles or blocks of such brushes, or the cartons thereof, with the words or letters 'Brush Made in U. S. A." or words, letters or phrases of like import, provided such mark or brand contain or be immediately accompanied by words, letters or phrases which are of at least equal prominence and conspicuousness and which truthfully and unequivocally disclose the fact that such handles or blocks have been manufactured or produced in, or imported from, the foreign country wherein such handles or blocks have been manufactured or produced, such as, for example: "Handle from England", "Block from England", "Handle from France", "Block from France", "Handle from Japan", "Block from Japan", or branding or marking with words of like import.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION.

United States of America—Before the Securities and Exchange Commission

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the City of Washington, D. C., on the 30th day of December, A. D. 1937.

[File No. 54-1]

IN THE MATTER OF AMERICAN WATER WORKS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY, INCORPORATED

FINDINGS AND ORDER

For the reasons indicated in the foregoing opinion,[1] and based upon the record in this matter, the Commission makes the following findings:

1. The Commission finds that the public-utility subsidiaries of the applicant constitute a single integrated public-utility system.

2. The Commission finds that the retention by applicant of the water properties (other than those controlled through American Communities Company) and the coal and appliance businesses of the applicant is reasonably incidental and economically appropriate to the operation of the applicant's integrated public-utility system.

3. The Commission reserves its decision with respect to applicant's retention of its interest in American Communities Company system to afford an opportunity to effectuate the elimination of American Communities Company as an intermediate company, and the recapitalization or reorganization of its System and an increase of applicant's equity therein.

4. The Commission finds that the applicant's retention of its interest in its electric railway, bus transportation and bridge businesses is appropriate in the public interest and is not presently detrimental to the proper functioning of applicant's integrated public-utility system, provided that without first obtaining the express approval of this Commission the applicant shall not expand its transportation interests, except to the extent necessary to furnish adequate service in the territory now being served or to substitute bus transportation necessitated by the abandonment of electric railway service.

5. The Commission finds that the applicant's interests in its agricultural properties in California and in the Woodbridge Building Corporation are not reasonably incidental or economically necessary or appropriate to its utility operations. (Applicant, however, will be given a reasonable period of time to dispose of these interests.)

6. The Commission finds that the distribution of voting power in the applicant and its subsidiaries, especially in the event of nonpayment of preferred stock dividends, is not fair and equitable. (The applicant will be given a reasonable period of time to effect appropriate changes in that respect.)

7. The Commission finds that, upon the consummation of the simplification plan under consideration, the corporate structure of the applicant's System, except as relates to distribution of voting power, will, subject to the approval of a plan to simplify and reorganize the American Communities Company system and to increase applicant's equity therein, conform to the requirements of Section 11 (b) (2).

8. The Commission reserves jurisdiction to approve or disapprove the amount at which the securities and assets of the constituent companies in the system are carried on the books of such companies, either pursuant to the Commission's accounting rules or otherwise.

9. The Commission at this time does not pass upon any method of financing.

And to that effect it is so ordered.

By the Commission.

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Washington, D. C., on the 30th day of December, A. D. 1937.

TO DETERMINE WHETHER GERALD M. LOEB AND GORDON B. CRARY, INDIVIDUALLY AND AS PARTNERS OF E. F. HUTTON & CO., AND H. TERRY MORRISON SHOULD BE SUSPENDED OR EXPELLED FROM MEMBERSHIP ON CERTAIN NATIONAL SECURITIES EXCHANGES

ORDER FOR HEARING

I

It appearing to the Commission:

That Gerald M. Loeb and Gordon B. Crary are now, and at all times hereinafter mentioned were, partners of E. F. Hutton & Co., a partnership, and, as such, members (as defined in Section 3 (a) (3) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) of the New York Stock Exchange, the New York Curb Exchange, The Board of Trade of the City of Chicago, and the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, all national securities exchanges registered pursuant to Section 6 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; and

That H. Terry Morrison is now, and at all times hereinafter mentioned was, a member (as defined in Section 3 (a) (3) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) of the New York Stock Exchange; and

II

It appearing to the Commission:

That at all times hereinafter mentioned there were issued and outstanding approximately 228,237 shares of capital stock, without par value, of Auburn Automobile Co., all of which were registered pursuant to Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 on the New York Stock Exchange (such security being hereinafter referred to as "Auburn stock", and the New York Stock Exchange being hereinafter referred to as "the exchange"); and

That, as respondents well knew, on October 1, 1935, Cord Corporation owned 43,218 shares of Auburn stock, or approximately 19% of such stock outstanding, and at all times herein mentioned E. L. Cord (hereinafter referred to as "Cord"), an official of Cord Corporation and Chairman of the Board of Auburn Automobile Co., dominated Cord Corporation; and

That, as respondents well knew, on October 19, 1935 Cord Corporation underwrote a proposed offering by Auburn Automobile Co. of $2,809,125, principal amount of Three Year 4¾% Debentures, convertible into Auburn stock at the rate of $50 per share; and

That, as respondents well knew, after the expiration on December 24, 1935 of the subscription rights of stockholders of Auburn Automobile Co., Cord Corporation, pursuant to its underwriting commitment, purchased $1,925,912.50 principal amount of the debentures; and in January and February, 1936 sold $60,000.00 of these debentures to E. F. Hutton & Co., and $30,000.00 of these debentures to respondent Crary; and

III

The Commission having reason to believe that during the period beginning on or about December 26, 1935 and continuing to on or about March 12, 1936, respondents by the use of the mails and means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce, and of the facilities of the exchange, directly and indirectly effected, alone and with other persons, series of transactions in Auburn stock, creating actual and apparent active trading in such security and raising the price thereof, for the purpose of inducing the purchase thereof by others, contrary to the provisions of Section 9 (a) (2) and Section 20 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; and

IV

The Commission having reason to believe with reference to the particulars of the violations hereinbefore charged in Paragraph III hereof:

That, during the period and for the purpose described in Paragraph III hereof, pursuant to a common scheme and plan devised by them on or before December 26, 1935 to create actual and apparent active trading in, and raise the price of, Auburn stock on the exchange, respondents, directly and indirectly effected on the exchange purchases of approximately 69,400 shares of Auburn stock, or approximately 29% of the total volume of approximately 238,300 shares traded on the exchange during such period, of which 12,300 shares were purchased by respondents for Cord Corporation and 57,100 shares for other accounts, which purchases created actual and apparent active trading in such security on the exchange and raised the price thereof, contributing substantially to the increase in price from $38 per share at the close of the market on December 24, 1935 to a high of $54¼ per share on March 5, 1936; and

That in furtherance of said scheme and plan, respondents, during the period and for the purpose aforesaid, among other things:

(a) In the exercise of discretion conferred upon them in connection with orders given by Cord to purchase Auburn stock for the account of Cord Corporation, effected transactions at or towards the close of the market as well as at other times significant to specialists, floor brokers and traders, professional speculators and tape readers, which transactions created both actual and apparent active trading in and raised the price of such security on the exchange;

(b) Effected, directly for their own and for controlled and discretionary accounts, and indirectly for the accounts of persons whose purchases they induced, purchases of Auburn stock on the exchange which created both actual and apparent active trading in and raised the price of the security on the exchange;

(c) From time to time in effecting transactions for Cord Corporation and for others, as hereinbefore alleged, purchased Auburn stock on the exchange at prices higher than any at which the stock previously had sold during the said period between December 26, 1935 and March 12, 1936; and from time to time in effecting transactions for Cord Corporation and for others, as hereinbefore alleged, checked price recessions in Auburn stock and again raised the price of the stock from the points to which it had receded to the levels to which respondents previously had raised it;

(d) Induced and effected numerous purchases of Auburn stock on the exchange by the dissemination, throughout the United States and in foreign countries, of extravagant statements concerning the prospects for sensational profits by Auburn Automobile Co., and concerning the likelihood of a spectacular price advance in Auburn stock; and

V

The Commission being of the opinion that pursuant to Section 19 (a) (3) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, a hearing should be held to determine whether the charges hereinabove made are true, and whether Gerald M. Loeb and Gordon B. Crary should be suspended for a period not exceeding twelve months or expelled from membership on the New York Stock Exchange, the New York Curb Exchange, The Board of Trade of the City of Chicago, and the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, or from membership on any of such exchanges; and whether H. Terry Morrison should be suspended for a period not exceeding twelve months or expelled from membership on the New York Stock Exchange;

It is therefore ordered, That a public hearing be held for such purpose before the officer of the Commission herein designated beginning on the 31st day of January, 1938, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 1778 Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., and to continue thereafter at such times and places as said officer may determine; and

It is further ordered, That for the purpose of such proceeding, Edward C. Johnson, an officer of the Commission, be and he is hereby designated and empowered to administer oaths and affirmations, subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance, take testimony and to require the production of any books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, or other records deemed relevant or material to the inquiry and to perform all other duties in connection therewith authorized by law.

By the Commission.

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress approved October 15, 1914, entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies and for other purposes" as amended by an Act of Congress approved June 19, 1936, entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies and for other purposes' approved October 15, 1914 as amended (U. S. C. title 15, Sec. 13) and for other purposes," the Federal Trade Commission on January 13, 1937, issued and served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with violating the provisions of Subsection C of Section 2 of the said Act as amended. After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of respondents' answers thereto, the taking of testimony and other evidence herein was waived by a stipulation entered into on November 5, 1937, between W. T. Kelley, Chief Counsel for the Commission and Grosvenor Calkins, Attorney for Charles F. Baker & Co., Inc., F. L. Degener, Jr., Attorney for Keystone Emery Mills, and Felix H. Levy, Attorney for all the other above-named respondents, which stipulation was thereafter duly approved by the Commission and filed in the office of the Commission. Said stipulation was so executed in conformity with and as supplemental to a certain stipulation entered into between the said parties above named on April 27, 1937. By the terms of the stipulations above referred to and in the answers to the complaint filed herein respondents admitted certain facts alleged in said complaint and certain other facts then before the Commission in this and another proceeding (respondents reserved, however, the right to contest this proceeding upon any review before the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals or the U. S. Supreme Court with respect to any conclusions of fact or conclusions of law drawn herein by the Commission), and by said stipulations respondents agreed that the Commission might proceed to dispose of this proceeding on the record. And a final hearing before the Commission on the said record, briefs in support of the complaint and in opposition thereto, and oral arguments of counsel aforesaid, having been waived by the stipulations aforesaid, and the Commission having considered the record and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public, and makes this its findings as to the facts and its conclusion drawn therefrom:

PAR. 4. Respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., is engaged in the business of selling a market information service and also purchasing services to over 300 distributing concerns scattered over the United States, who are principally wholesalers of automobile, electrical, radio, mill, machine, plumbing, steam and hardware supplies. These distributing concerns are located in many cities in forty-two States of the United States, and in the District of Columbia, Canada and Haiti. Respondents named in Paragraph Two hereof are among the distributing concerns purchasing the market information service and the purchasing services of respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., and they are representative members of the entire group, insofar as the practices charged in the complaint are concerned. This group will hereafter be referred to as buyers. In making available and providing its purchasing services to the said buyers, the respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., agrees to and does purchase merchandise for said buyers from several hundred individual manufacturers, processors, importers or producers who are scattered over the United States. Respondent manufacturers, processors and producers named in Paragraph Three hereof are representative of this entire group, all of whom in making sales to the buyers above mentioned through respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., use the same methods as the named respondents. This group will hereafter be referred to as sellers.

PAR. 5. Respondent sellers are engaged in selling commodities in the course of interstate commerce. Respondent buyers are engaged in purchasing commodities in the course of interstate commerce. Respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., transmits orders for merchandise from respondent buyers to respondent sellers, as a result of which commodities are shipped from sellers to buyers usually from one State to another. All of said respondents are engaged in interstate commerce in participating in the commercial transactions hereafter more specifically described.

PAR. 6. Respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. was incorporated under the laws of the State of New York on July 19, 1905, and has a branch office in Chicago, Illinois. It has a force of several salesmen who habitually travel throughout the United States to solicit distributing concerns to purchase the Oliver market information service and purchasing services. These men at times also contact manufacturers and processors. It also has a number of buyers and assistant buyers who place orders for Oliver subscribers and who contact manufacturers, processors and producers on behalf of Oliver clients. Respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., often examines and tests the wares of such manufacturers and producers and gets descriptions of goods and prices, which information is sent to the Oliver subscribers. Oliver also furnishes to said buyers a loose-leaf price book containing price lists on, and sources of supply from which can be obtained, the majority of the types of commodities purchased and resold by said buyers, which said loose-leaf price book Oliver keeps current by the issuance of revised sheets from time to time as market prices and sources of supply change. It is in a favorable position to furnish accurate, constant, regular and reliable market information service. It handles, through its buying operations, the goods upon which it reports to its clients. Among its employees are specialists who have devoted many years to their respective lines of merchandise and who are in constant contact with the markets in performing their duties with said respondent.

PAR. 7. The Oliver Brothers, Inc. subscribers severally employ Oliver at a stipulated monthly sum ranging from $25.00 upward. This employment is evidenced by a contract between Oliver and the subscriber which is in the following form:

OLIVER BROTHERS, INC.
Per ----------

No subscriber has any exclusive right to the Oliver services, but they are sold to any wholesaler who wants them, subject only to the requirement that he have good credit rating. The Oliver services are quite often bought by several dealers in the same line in the same town. Oliver yearly buys for its subscribers from said sellers several million dollars worth of commodities for resale by the buyers and as a result of said purchases such merchandise is shipped and transported from the state in which the same is located when the order is placed into and through other states of the United States, where they are delivered to purchasers who are Oliver subscribers. Oliver receives daily from its subscribers approximately one hundred orders. When a subscriber forwards an order to Oliver, usually at a specified price, Oliver transmits the order to the seller. The seller ships the product direct to the buyer, in most cases billing the buyer at the price specified in the order. The buyer in most cases makes payment direct to the seller. The seller then sends a commission or brokerage on the transaction and Oliver pays this to the buyer or credits it to his account. If a buyer fails to name the purchase price, he expects to get the last price quoted by Oliver in its bulletins, or a lower price. If Oliver finds that the market has advanced he communicates with the buyer and confirms the order at the new price before transmitting it to the seller. The buyer in some cases names the seller whose products are wanted, but in some cases he relies upon Oliver to transmit the order to some producer who will supply goods of the quality and standard required.

PAR. 8. All respondent sellers have made sales of commodities in interstate commerce through Oliver Brothers, Inc. to respondent buyers and other Oliver buyers and have paid brokerage fees on such transactions to respondent Oliver Brothers Inc., which brokerage fees were later paid over or credited by respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. to the particular respondent buyer or other buyer. Respondent Keystone Emery Mills, after the service of the complaint herein, discontinued the practice of paying Oliver Brothers, Inc. brokerage on sales made to the Oliver buyers through Oliver Brothers, Inc. All of the respondent sellers at the time of payment of brokerage fees to respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. had knowledge of the fact that Oliver Brothers, Inc. paid such fees over to the buyer placing the order and to whom the goods were shipped.

PAR. 9. The sellers from whom respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. buys for its clients pay to Oliver brokerage fees at the same rate that they pay other brokers who sell goods for them. This rate ranges from 1% to 10%, but being usually from 2½ to 5%, of the invoice price of the commodities sold. It is a matter of common knowledge in the trade that Oliver Brothers, Inc. receives these fees for the use of its subscribers and pays them over in their entirety to the buyers. Respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. receives and accepts these brokerage fees for the use and benefit of its subscribers and does not claim any right, title or interest in such fees. The buyers receive and accept these brokerage fees from respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. and know that they are to receive them at the time they place orders for merchandise for execution by Oliver. The Oliver buyers, by reason of the fact that they receive the brokerage fees paid to Oliver, get a lower price on commodities, purchased through Oliver from the sellers than other buyers who are not members of the Oliver organization get on similar goods in like quantity bought direct from said sellers.

PAR. 10. In all of the purchasing transactions which the respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. executes for its buyers, Oliver Brothers, Inc. is the agent and representative of the buyer, and acts in fact for such buyer and in his behalf, and is subject to his control, insofar as such purchasing transaction is concerned. Said respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. in such purchasing transactions is neither the agent nor representative of the seller nor does it act for or in behalf or is it under the control of such seller. Such services as respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. may render to the seller in selling his commodities are incidental to the particular purchase and sale transaction, and if any services are so rendered by Oliver in connection with the sale or purchase of such commodities, such services are donated by Oliver Brothers, Inc. to the seller. There is not, in fact, any payment of brokerage commissions made by any of respondent sellers to respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., which is not intended for the buyer and which does not reach the buyer. Such brokerage commissions, being intended for the buyers, are not in fact paid in satisfaction of any contractual or other indebtedness due from the seller to respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. for services rendered, or otherwise. These payments, in effect, are actually made from the seller to the buyer and the buyer receives a discount in price equivalent to the brokerage fee paid to him. Respondent buyers render no service to respondent sellers in connection with the purchase of commodities through respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. Respondent buyers render no service to respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. in connection with the purchase of goods, wares and merchandise made for them by said respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc.

PAR. 11. The contract between respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. and its subscribers is construed by the parties thereto as being a contract for the sale and purchase of the Oliver market information service with a privilege extended to the buyers of using the Oliver purchasing services at their option. The buyers pay the monthly fee stipulated in the contract for the market information service. The buyers exercise their option to use the purchasing services of Oliver Brothers, Inc. in order to secure a discount in price from the current market price and the buyers when purchasing commodities through Oliver compute the net price at which the purchase is made as being the quoted price less the fee or commission paid by the seller as brokerage to Oliver and by Oliver transmitted to them. The buyers, in their bookkeeping, do not treat the brokerage fees and commission received from respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. as being an offset to the monthly fee paid by them to Oliver. The amount of the monthly fee paid by the buyers to Oliver is fixed at the time the contract is made, but the amount of the brokerage fees and commissions which may be received by a given buyer from the utilization of the Oliver purchasing services is unknown and incapable of ascertainment at the time the contract is entered into.

PAR. 12. All payments of brokerage fees made by respondents as hereinabove set forth are made as a part of a general plan or scheme which contemplates and results in payment of brokerage fees from the seller to the buyer through the respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., and which enables the buyers to secure discounts in price from the sellers under the guise of brokerage payments.

CONCLUSION

The Commission concludes that the respondents Globe Crayon Company, Inc., E. V. Crandall Oil & Putty Manufacturing Company, Inc., Charles F. Baker & Company, Inc., Keystone Emery Mills and James Corner & Sons, have violated and are violating Subsection C, Section 2 of the Clayton Act as amended, by paying fees and commissions as brokerage to respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., in the sale of commodities to respondent buyers and other buyers, with knowledge of the fact that such fees and commissions were and are intended to be and were and are being paid over by said respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc., to said buyers.

The Commission further concludes that respondents W. D. Allen Manufacturing Company, Black Hardware Company, Jacobi Hardware Company, Matthews & Boucher, Charlotte Supply Company and Virginia-Carolina Hardware Company have violated and are violating the provisions of Subsection C, Section 2 of the said statute, by receiving and accepting fees and commissions paid as brokerage by said respondent sellers and other sellers, in connection with the purchase of commodities by said buyers through respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc.

The Commission further concludes that respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. has violated and is violating the provisions of Subsection C, Section 2 of said statute, by receiving such fees and commissions as brokerage from respondent sellers and transmitting and paying over the same to respondent buyers; further, that said respondent Oliver Brothers, Inc. is the instrumentality and means by which respondent sellers unlawfully are enabled to make payment of such fees and commissions as brokerage to respondent buyers, and by which respondent buyers are enabled to receive and accept the same.

The Commission further concludes that the violations of said statute referred to are in pursuance of a general plan and scheme whereby fees and commissions paid by the sellers are made available to and transmitted to the buyers.

By the Commission.

IN THE MATTER OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES FOR THE HOUSE DRESS AND WASH FROCK MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

Due proceedings having been had under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the Act of Congress approved September 26, 1914 (38 Stat. 717),

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I which have been approved by the Commission in this proceeding and the rules in Group II which have been received by the Commission as expressions of the industry be, and the same are, hereby promulgated for the House Dress and Wash Frock Manufacturing Industry.

TRADE PRACTICE RULES, HOUSE DRESS AND WASH FROCK MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote fair competitive conditions in the interest of the industry and the public. They are not to be used, directly or indirectly, as part of or in connection with any combination or agreement to fix prices, or for the suppression of competition, or otherwise to unreasonably restrain trade.

Group I

The unfair trade practices which are embraced in Group I rules are considered to be unfair methods of competition or other illegal practices prohibited, within the purview of the Federal Government, by acts of Congress as construed in the decisions of the Federal Trade Commission or the courts; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use of such unlawful practices in or directly affecting interstate commerce.

RULE 1. Making, or causing to be made or published, directly or indirectly, any false, untrue or deceptive statement or representation, by way of advertisement or otherwise, concerning the grade, quality, quantity, substance, character, nature, origin, size, serviceability, color, color fastness, workmanship, washability, fiber content or identification, shrinkage properties, manufacture or distribution of any product of the industry, or in any other material respect, with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 2. The false or deceptive marking or branding of products of the industry for the purpose or with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public with respect to the grade, quality, quantity, substance, character, nature, origin, size, serviceability, color, color fastness, workmanship, washability, fiber content or identification, shrinkage properties, manufacture or distribution of such products, or in any other material respect, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 3. The defamation of competitors by falsely imputing to them dishonorable conduct, inability to perform contracts, questionable credit standing, or by other false representations, or the false disparagement of the grade, quality or manufacture of the products of competitors, or of their business methods, selling prices, values, credit terms, policies or services, with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 4. Wilfully enticing away the employees of competitors, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring or embarrassing competitors in their businesses, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 5. Wilfully inducing or attempting to induce the breach of existing contract or contracts between competitors and their customers or their suppliers by any false or deceptive means whatsoever, or wilfully interfering with or obstructing the performance of any such contractual duties or services by any such means, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring or prejudicing competitors in their businesses, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 6. The practice of selling industry products below the seller's cost, with the intent and with the effect of injuring a competitor and where the effect may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly or unreasonably restrain trade, is an unfair trade practice; all elements recognized by good accounting practice as proper elements of such cost shall be included in determining cost under this rule.

RULE 7. Securing information from competitors concerning their businesses by false or misleading statements or representations or by false impersonation of one in authority and the wrongful use thereof to unduly hinder or stifle the competition of such competitors is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 8. Directly or indirectly to give, or permit to be given, or offer to give, money or anything of value to agents, employees or representatives of customers or prospective customers, or to agents, employees or representatives of competitors' customers or prospective customers, without the knowledge of their employers or principals, as an inducement to influence their employers or principals to purchase or contract to purchase industry products from the maker of such gift or offer, or to influence such employers or principals to refrain from dealing or contracting to deal with competitors, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 9. Withholding from or inserting in invoices any statements or information by reason of which omission or insertion a false record is made, wholly or in part, of the transactions represented on the face of such invoices, with the purpose or effect of thereby misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 10. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to use the practice of shipping goods on consignment or pretended consignment for the purpose and with the effect of artificially clogging trade outlets and unduly restricting competitors' use of said trade outlets in getting their goods to consumers through regular channels of distribution, or with such purpose to entirely close said trade outlets to such competitors so as to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly or to unreasonably restrain trade: Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed or used as restricting or preventing consignment shipping or marketing of commodities in good faith and without artificial interference with competitors' use of the usual channels of distribution in such manner as thereby to suppress competition or restrain trade.

RULE 11. (a) Prohibited discriminatory rebates, refunds, discounts, credits and other price differentials.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to grant or allow, secretly or openly, directly or indirectly, any rebate, refund, discount, credit or other price differential, where such rebate, refund, discount, credit or other price differential effects a discrimination in price between different purchasers of goods of like grade and quality and where either or any of the purchases involved therein are in commerce[1] and where the effect thereof may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce[1] or to injure, destroy or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination or with customers of either of them: Provided, however—

(1) That the goods involved in any such transaction are sold for use, consumption or resale within any place under the jurisdiction of the United States;

(2) That nothing herein contained shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered;

(3) That nothing herein contained shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares or merchandise in commerce[1] from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade;

(4) That nothing herein contained shall prevent price changes from time to time where made in response to changing conditions affecting either (a) the market for the goods concerned, or (b) the marketability of the goods, such as, but not limited to, actual or imminent deterioration of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the goods concerned.

(b) Prohibited brokerages and commissions.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(c) Prohibited advertising or promotional allowances, etc.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to pay or contract for the payment of advertising or promotional allowances or any other thing of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such member in the course of such commerce as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale or offering for sale of any products or commodities manufactured, sold, or offered for sale by such member, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products or commodities.

(d) Prohibited discriminatory services or facilities.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of a commodity bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish or by furnishing, or by contributing to the furnishing of, any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale or offering for sale of such commodity so purchased upon terms not accorded to all purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(e) Illegal price discrimination.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry or other person engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to discriminate in price in any other respect contrary to Section 2 of the Clayton Act as amended by the Act of Congress approved June 19, 1936 (Public No. 692, 74th Congress), or knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by such section as amended.

RULE 12. Discriminatory returns.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry, engaged in commerce,[1] to discriminate in favor of one customer-purchaser against another customer-purchaser of dresses, bought from such member of the industry for resale, by contracting to furnish or furnishing in connection therewith, upon terms not accorded to all customer-purchasers on proportionally equal terms, the service or facility whereby such favored purchaser is accorded the privilege of returning dresses so purchased and receiving therefor credit or refund of purchase price: Provided, however, nothing in any of the rules herein shall prohibit or be used to prevent the return of merchandise by purchaser, for credit or refund of purchase price, when and because such merchandise has not been properly labeled by the seller as to fiber content, or has been otherwise falsely or deceptively labeled or represented, or when and because such merchandise is defective in material, workmanship or in any other respect contrary to warranty or purchase contract.

[1] As herein used, the word "commerce" means trade or commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State, Territory or foreign nation, or between any insular possessions or other places under the jurisdiction of the United States, or between any such possession or place and any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation, or within the District of Columbia or any Territory or any insular possession or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States: Provided, That this shall not apply to the Philippine Islands.

Group II

The trade practices embraced in these Group II rules are considered to be conducive to sound business methods and are to be encouraged and promoted individually or through voluntary cooperation exercised in accordance with existing law. Nonobservance of such rules does not, per se, constitute violation of law. However, the failure to observe them under certain circumstances may result in an unfair method of competition contrary to law. In such event, a corrective proceeding may be instituted by the Commission as in the case of a violation of Group I rules.

RULE A. In view of the fact that certain fabric may be damaged or destroyed by contact with certain types of deodorants or depilatories, the industry recommends that in the case of garments made of such fabric a tag or label be placed thereon by the manufacturer informing the purchasing public of such fact and of the desirability of avoiding contact between the fabric and such deodorants or depilatories which will damage or destroy the fabric.

RULE B. Return of merchandise—Expression of industry.—The practice, by members of the industry, of selling merchandise and later permitting the purchaser to return it for credit or refund of purchase price, without just cause, creates waste and loss, increases the cost of doing business to the detriment of both the industry and the public and is condemned by the industry, subject, however, to requirements and limitations set forth in the provisions of Rule 12 of Group I, herein.

RULE C. The industry approves the practice of handling business disputes between members of the industry and their customers in a fair and reasonable manner, coupled with a spirit of moderation and good will, and every effort should be made by the disputants themselves to compose their differences. If unable to do so they should, if possible, submit these disputes to arbitration.

RULE D. Contracts are business obligations which should be performed in letter and in spirit. The repudiation of contracts by sellers on a rising market or by buyers on a declining market is condemned by the industry.

RULE E. The industry recommends that truthful and accurate descriptions of the washability, color fastness, and shrinkage properties of fabrics used be attached to the dress or frock or be printed on the labels used by members of the industry on such dresses or frocks.

By the Commission.

IN THE MATTER OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES FOR THE POPULAR PRICED DRESS MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

Due proceedings having been had under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the Act of Congress approved September 26, 1914 (38 Stat. 717),

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I which have been approved by the Commission in this proceeding and the rules in Group II which have been received by the Commission as expressions of the industry be, and the same are, hereby promulgated for the Popular Priced Dress Manufacturing Industry.

TRADE PRACTICE RULES, POPULAR PRICED DRESS MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote fair competitive conditions in the interest of the industry and the public. They are not to be used, directly or indirectly, as part of or in connection with any combination or agreement to fix prices, or for the suppression of competition, or otherwise to unreasonably restrain trade.

Group I

The unfair trade practices which are embraced in Group I rules are considered to be unfair methods of competition or other illegal practices prohibited, within the purview of the Federal Government, by acts of Congress as construed in the decisions of the Federal Trade Commission or the courts; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use of such unlawful practices in or directly affecting interstate commerce.

RULE 1. Wilfully inducing or attempting to induce the breach of existing contract or contracts between competitors and their customers or their suppliers by any false or deceptive means whatsoever, or wilfully interfering with or obstructing the performance of any such contractual duties or services by any such means, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring or prejudicing competitors in their businesses, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 2. The defamation of competitors by falsely imputing to them dishonorable conduct, inability to perform contracts, questionable credit standing, or by other false representations, or the false disparagement of the grade, quality or manufacture of the products of competitors, or of their business methods, selling prices, values, credit terms, policies or services, with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 3. Making, or causing to be made or published, directly or indirectly, any false, untrue or deceptive statement or representation, by way of advertisement or otherwise, concerning the grade, quality, quantity, substance, character, nature, origin, size, or preparation of any product of the industry, or in any other material respect, with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 4. Wilfully enticing away the employees of competitors, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring or embarrassing competitors in their businesses, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 5. (a) Prohibited discriminatory rebates, refunds, discounts, credits and other price differentials.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to grant or allow, secretly or openly, directly or indirectly, any rebate, refund, discount, credit or other price differential, where such rebate, refund, discount, credit or other price differential effects a discrimination in price between different purchasers of goods of like grade and quality and where either or any of the purchases involved therein are in commerce[1] and where the effect thereof may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce[1] or to injure, destroy or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination or with customers of either of them: Provided, however—

(1) That the goods involved in any such transaction are sold for use, consumption or resale within any place under the jurisdiction of the United States;

(2) That nothing herein contained shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered;

(3) That nothing herein contained shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares or merchandise in commerce[1] from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade;

(4) That nothing herein contained shall prevent price changes from time to time where made in response to changing conditions affecting either (a) the market for the goods concerned, or (b) the marketability of the goods, such as, but not limited to, actual or imminent deterioration of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the goods concerned.

(b) Prohibited brokerages and commissions.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(c) Prohibited advertising or promotional allowances, etc.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to pay or contract for the payment of advertising or promotional allowances or any other thing of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such member in the course of such commerce as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale or offering for sale of any products or commodities manufactured, sold, or offered for sale by such member, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products or commodities.

(d) Prohibited discriminatory services or facilities.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of a commodity bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish or by furnishing, or by contributing to the furnishing of, any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale or offering for sale of such commodity so purchased upon terms not accorded to all purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(e) Illegal price discrimination.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry or other person engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to discriminate in price in any other respect contrary to Section 2 of the Clayton Act as amended by the Act of Congress approved June 19, 1936 (Public No. 692, 74th Congress), or knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by such section as amended.

RULE 6. Discriminatory returns.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry, engaged in commerce,[1] to discriminate in favor of one customer-purchaser against another customer-purchaser of dresses, bought from such member of the industry for resale, by contracting to furnish or furnishing in connection therewith, upon terms not accorded to all customer-purchasers on proportionally equal terms, the service or facility whereby such favored purchaser is accorded the privilege of returning dresses so purchased and receiving therefor credit or refund of purchase price: Provided, however, nothing in any of the rules herein shall prohibit or be used to prevent the return of merchandise by purchaser, for credit or refund of purchase price, when and because such merchandise has not been properly labeled by the seller as to fiber content, or has been otherwise falsely or deceptively labeled or represented, or when and because such merchandise is defective in material, workmanship or in any other respect contrary to warranty or purchase contract.

RULE 7. The practice of selling industry products below the seller's cost, with the intent and with the effect of injuring a competitor and where the effect may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly or unreasonably restrain trade, is an unfair trade practice; all elements recognized by good accounting practice as proper elements of such cost shall be included in determining cost under this rule.

RULE 8. Directly or indirectly to give, or permit to be given or offer to give, money or anything of value to agents, employees or representatives of customers or prospective customers, or to agents, employees or representatives of competitors' customers or prospective customers, without the knowledge of their employers or principals, as an inducement to influence their employers or principals to purchase or contract to purchase industry products from the maker of such gift or offer, or to influence such employers or principals to refrain from dealing or contracting to deal with competitors, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 9. The imitation or simulation of the trade-marks, trade names, labels or brands of competitors, with the purpose or with the tendency and capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 10. Securing information from competitors concerning their businesses by false or misleading statements or representations or by false impersonation of one in authority, and the wrongful use thereof to unduly hinder or stifle the competition of such competitors, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 11. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to use the practice of shipping goods on consignment or pretended consignment for the purpose and with the effect of artificially clogging trade outlets and unduly restricting competitors' use of said trade outlets in getting their goods to consumers through regular channels of distribution, or with such purpose to entirely close said trade outlets to such competitors so as to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly or to unreasonably restrain trade: Provided, however, That nothing herein shall be construed or used as restricting or preventing consignment shipping or marketing of commodities in good faith and without artificial interference with competitors' use of the usual channels of distribution in such manner as thereby to suppress competition or restrain trade.

RULE 12. Withholding from or inserting in invoices any statements or information by reason of which omission or insertion a false record is made, wholly or in part, of the transactions represented on the face of such invoices, with the purpose or effect of thereby misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

Group II

The trade practices embraced in these Group II rules are considered to be conducive to sound business methods and are to be encouraged and promoted individually or through voluntary cooperation exercised in accordance with existing law. Nonobservance of such rules does not, per se, constitute violation of law. However, the failure to observe them under certain circumstances may result in an unfair method of competition contrary to law. In such event, a corrective proceeding may be instituted by the Commission as in the case of a violation of Group I rules.

[1] As herein used, the word "commerce" means trade or commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State, Territory or foreign nation, or between any insular possessions or other places under the jurisdiction of the United States, or between any such possession or place and any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation, or within the District of Columbia or any Territory or any insular possession or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States: Provided, That this shall not apply to the Philippine Islands.

RULE A. Return of merchandise—Expression of industry.—The practice, by members of the industry, of selling merchandise and later permitting the purchaser to return it for credit or refund of purchase price, without just cause, creates waste and loss, increases the cost of doing business to the detriment of both the industry and the public and is condemned by the industry, subject, however, to requirements and limitations set forth in the provisions of Rule 6 of Group I, herein.

RULE B. Contracts are business obligations which should be performed in letter and in spirit. The repudiation of contracts by sellers on a rising market or by buyers on a declining market is condemned by the industry.

RULE C. In the interest of consumer protection, the industry records itself as favoring, and recommends, the practice of members making fair and truthful disclosure, in their advertisements, labels, or other available means, of the fiber content of their garments.

RULE D. The industry records its approval of distributing information covering delinquent and slow accounts in so far as it may be lawfully done.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD.

REGULATIONS COVERING THE PREPARATION OF EMPLOYERS' REPORTS OF MONTHLY COMPENSATION OF EMPLOYEES AND REGISTRATION OF EMPLOYEES SUBJECT TO THE RAILROAD RETIREMENT ACT

The following regulations will, upon the effective dates, supersede all other instructions on the same subjects previously issued by the Railroad Retirement Board. Section A, "Preparation of Employers' Reports of Monthly Compensation of Employees," will become effective with the quarterly period ending March 31, 1938. Section B, "Registration of Employees Subject to the Railroad Retirement Act," will become effective as of January 1, 1938.

SECTION A

Preparation of Employers' Reports of Monthly Compensation of Employees

To facilitate administration of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, and in order to make possible compliance with Section 8 thereof, it is necessary that a record be maintained by the Railroad Retirement Board showing the monthly earnings of each individual for employment covered by the Act in any calendar month subsequent to December 31, 1936.

The Board desires to cooperate with the employers in every way possible, subject to limitations imposed by available funds for administrative purposes, in order to reduce to a minimum the cost of reporting compensation. The Board may accept punched tabulating cards in substitution of report forms hereinafter prescribed.[1] The Board cannot permit substitution of report forms which would materially increase the cost of recording, or provide for reporting at longer intervals than those prescribed herein for regular reports.

Unless otherwise specifically agreed heretofore or hereafter, in writing approved by the Director of the Bureau of Accounts of the Railroad Retirement Board, every employer as defined in and subject to the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 shall forward to the Board on or before the expiration of thirty days after the close of each quarter ending March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31, of each year a report of compensation earned by each employee for service during each month of such quarter. Generally, an individual is an employee if he is in the service of one or more employers. An individual is in the service of an employer if he is subject to the continuing authority of the employer to supervise and direct the manner in which he renders services for compensation. Questions may arise as to whether or not specific individuals such as doctors, lawyers, and other professional people may be employees or independent contractors. In such cases a letter should be forwarded to the Board giving full particulars and a determination will be made with respect to each individual based on the particular facts of the case. The report of compensation of employees shall consist of:

1. Form BA-3, "Report of Compensation of Employees for 3 Months Ended ---------- 193--."

2. Form BA-4 (Revised December 31, 1937), "Report of Compensation Adjustments for the 3 Months Ended ---------- 193--."

3. Form BA-5 (Revised December 31, 1937), "Summary Report of Compensation of Employees for the 3 Months Ended ---------- 193 ---."

A brief description of the items for which provision is made follows:

1. Employer.—The corporate name of the employer shall be shown on each sheet of the report.

2. Employer number.—The identification number assigned by the Railroad Retirement Board to the employer shall be shown on each sheet of the report.

3. Employee account number.—The 9-digit number assigned either by the Social Security Board or the Railroad Retirement Board and shown on the employee's account number card shall be shown. If, at the time of preparing the report there are employees to whom account numbers have not been assigned, but for whom Forms CER–1 have been forwarded to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C., such employees should be reported on Form BA–3 in the regular manner except that the "Account Number" column should be left blank. These employees should then be re-listed on a separate BA–3 made up in duplicate, leaving the "Account Number" column blank and reporting to the right of the name in the remaining columns the notation "CER–1 submitted on _____," (Date) together with the Sheet Number and Line Number on which the employee is reported on the regular Form BA–3. An employer who regularly assigns account numbers should show no employees without account numbers except those individuals who applied for a number while working for another employer but who never received one, or who lost their original number and do not recall it. In both cases Forms CER–1 should have been forwarded to this Bureau with the proper explanation on line 14.

4. Employee name.—The last name, or surname, of the employee shall be shown in full as it appears on the account number card, together with the first name or initials. The order in which this information is shown is optional with the employer and may follow the method used in preparation of his payroll. The Board prefers the surname first, followed by either the first name and middle initial, or by both initials.

5. I. C. C. occupation classification.—The number of the occupation classification to be shown on each quarterly report shall be that to which the employee is assigned in reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission during the first month in which the individual was employed in each reporting period. No employee should be reported under more than one occupation classification on any one quarterly report. In assigning the occupation classification code the predominant type of service rendered should govern. Since certain employers do not submit a "Monthly Report of Employees, Service and Compensation" to the Interstate Commerce Commission they may not be familiar with the I. C. C. Occupation Classification. For the benefit of these employers excerpts from the complete "List of Occupations of Positions in Each Reporting Division" for those divisions which appear to be applicable to the employees of such employers are shown hereunder together with explanatory notes:

(a) Compensation for employees in I. C. C. Occupation Classification 1, Executives, Officials and Staff Assistants, and 2, Division Officers, Assistants, and Staff Assistants, which exceeds $300 in any one month may be reported on the basis of total compensation or $300, unless such employees receive compensation from two or more employers, in which case the full amount of the compensation received from the reporting employer should be shown. (See Adjustments, paragraph 7.)

(b) Compensation for employees whose earnings are carried on weekly payrolls, provided such payrolls are required by State laws, shall include the total compensation received for all payroll weeks, all or a major portion of which falls within a particular calendar month, except that compensation earned in one calendar year shall not be reported as compensation earned in another calendar year, further provided that:

(1) The total compensation of any individual for a four-week month shall not exceed $275, or

(2) The total compensation of any individual for a five-week month shall not exceed $300, or

(3) No amount shall be reported as compensation for a particular calendar month which represents the only earnings of a particular individual in another calendar month.

All compensation for employees whose earnings are carried on weekly payrolls, the total of which exceeds $275 in any four-week month, or $300 in any five-week month, and: Amounts, the inclusion of which as a part of the compensation for a particular month would affect the service months creditable, shall be separated and allocated to the calendar month in which earned and shall be reported in accordance with the general instructions applicable to all employers.

The total amount earned in the service of the reporting employer by an employee who concurrently performs compensated service for two or more employers under the Act shall be reported on Form BA–3 regardless of occupation classification. If the total earnings of an individual from all employers under the Act exceed $300, adjustment should be made on Form BA–4 to reduce the creditable earnings and to increase the non-creditable earnings in such manner as to accomplish a net of creditable earnings equivalent to the proportion of $300 that the amount of total earnings from the reporting employer bears to the total earnings from all employers under the Act. If the total earned by such an employee from the reporting employer exceeds $300, the amount in excess of $300 should be included on Form BA–5 as the amount of compensation reported in excess of $300 for any individual in any one month.

If an employee is paid for all service by a single employer who is reimbursed for a portion of those earnings by another employer, the employee shall be considered as the employee of the employer initially making the payment of earnings for the purposes of reports herein required.

It is the intent of instructions concerning the reporting of adjustments that any adjustment of compensation shown on a payroll or other disbursement document for a current month which would not affect the amount of annuity if reported as a part of current earnings instead of as an adjustment of prior earnings, shall be reported on Form BA–3 as a part of the compensation earned during the month covered by the payroll or other disbursement document on which the adjustment is made.

Example.—An employee is shown on August payrolls for $260. On November payrolls the same employee is carried for $270 current earnings plus $10 underpay for August, or $280. Form BA–3 shall include $260 for August and $280 for November. No entry is required on Form BA–4 since the employee is entitled to credit for two service months and $540 earnings which are credited from Form BA–3 reportings.

The examples illustrated on Form BA–4 attached and hereunder explained all show adjustments affecting either the service period or creditable earnings under varying conditions. It will be noted that these adjustments are made so as to reflect not only the adjustment between the current and the prior reports, but to show the effect of the adjustments upon the employee's creditable earnings as previously recorded by the Board.

In considering these adjustments it should be borne in mind that all amounts up to but not exceeding $300 per month reported on Form BA–3 are considered by the Bureau to be creditable earnings, and are transcribed as such to a punch card, and all amounts in excess of $300 per month are considered to be non-creditable earnings and are transcribed to another punch card. By punching these two cards the Bureau is able to balance to the total compensation reported on Form BA–3 and to the excess and net compensation reported on the upper portion of Form BA–5.

(a) Adjustment affecting the service period.—An employee, C. G. Jones, was shown on the September payroll for $200. On the January payroll the same employee is carried for $25 omitted time from September without any current earnings. As this adjustment affects service months it must be reported on the BA–4 Revised. The proper entries on Form BA–4 are to decrease gross earnings for January (Col. 6) and increase gross earnings in like amount for September (Col. 5). Since the amounts involved are less than $300, the only adjusting entries necessary to correct the employee's account as carried by the Board are to decrease the employee's creditable earnings and service in January (Col. 10) and to increase the creditable earnings in September (Col. 9).

(b) Adjustment affecting creditable earnings.—An employee, S. L. Armstrong, was shown on the February payroll and reported for $200. On the March payroll the same employee is carried for $300 current earnings and $100 omitted from February, or a total of $400. Form BA–4 Revised should adjust February and March so that the employee's account may be corrected to include $600 creditable earnings instead of $500 as the BA–3's would accomplish. Since this change affects both the non-creditable and creditable earnings of this employee as carried by the Board, the BA–4 should show in addition to the BA–3 adjustment a reduction by $100 in the non-accreditable established in March (Col. 8) and an increase in the creditable earnings as established in February (Col. 9).

(c) Adjustment affecting earnings reported for two or more prior months.—An employee, R. S. Smith, was shown on the March payroll for $350. Of this amount $150 was earned during the current month and the balance of $200 represents and adjustment increasing the reported earnings for the three previous months, December, January and February, to $150 each. Since the amount as reported in March exceeds $300, the BA–4 should reflect adjustments to correct both the non-creditable and creditable earnings as entered by the Board based on the BA–3. In the case of December, January and February, since neither service months nor non-creditable earnings are involved, it is only necessary to increase the creditable earnings for the individual months by the exact amount of the payroll increases.

(d) Adjustment in case of an employee who earns in excess of $300 from two or more carriers.—T. V. Wilson received compensation from two carriers totalling $600. Of this sum $350 was paid by the carrier whose report is illustrated in example (d). Form BA–3 should report the amount actually earned, namely, $350. Form BA–4 should reflect the adjustments necessary to reduce this amount to a creditable basis and to correct the employee's records as carried by the Board. In this case $350 represents $^7/_{12}$ of the employee's total earnings and $^7/_{12}$ of $300, or $175, represents this carrier's portion of the total creditable earnings. However, non-creditable earnings must be corrected to show not $50 as indicated by the BA–3 but $175, or the total difference between the creditable amount $175 and the reported amount $350. The creditable earnings should be decreased $125, making a total net for the month of $175. When both carriers have correctly reported on this employee his account with the Board will show creditable earnings of $300, of which $175 will be reported by one carrier and $125 by the other. An explanation of this adjustment should be made in the column headed "Employee Name," similar to the example shown.

(e) Adjustment affecting earnings prior to January 1, 1937.—J. C. Kline was shown on the January payroll for $625. Of this amount $75 was earned during the current month and the balance of $550 represents an adjustment of earnings prior to January 1, 1937. Since the amount as reported in January 1938 exceeds $300, the BA–4 should reflect adjustments to correct both the non-creditable and creditable earnings as entered by the Board based on the Form BA–3. In the case of the earnings applicable to 1936, the entire amount represents non-creditable earnings and should be so reported.

(f) Adjustment affecting both non-creditable and creditable earnings.—An employee, A. A. Harper, was shown on the December payroll and reported for $296. On the January payroll the same employee is carried for $303 current earnings and $12 omitted from December, or a total of $315. In increasing December earnings from $296 to $308 it is necessary to adjust both the non-creditable and creditable earnings as previously entered by the Board. The adjustments to be made are these: Decrease non-creditable earnings in January $12 and increase non-creditable and creditable earnings for December $8 and $4 respectively.

(g) Adjustment covering recovery of overpayments from employees who leave the service.—An employee, F. W. Marsh, was shown on the December payroll for $100, which included an overpayment of $5. As he had left the service this amount was subsequently recovered through the issuance of an Accounts Receivable Bill. The proper entries on Form BA–4 are to decrease gross earnings for December (Col. 6) $5 and, since this change affects only the creditable earnings as carried by the Board to decrease creditable earnings (Col. 10) in a like amount.

8. Summary and Recapitulation.—The total for each sheet of Form BA–3 shall be shown and recapitulated on additional sheets of Form BA–3, using the name column for sheet number and the last three columns for the amounts. If the report is of sufficient size to justify a grand recapitulation, the same forms shall be used for that purpose. In addition to the summary of total compensation reported, a summary of amounts shown on BA–3 in excess of $300 shall be shown by Department, State, Division, or any other convenient segregation conforming with the reporting divisions used in the preparation of the detail Form BA–3. The employer may show "excess" totals at the bottom of each sheet if he desires to do so. In summarizing excess earnings any amount reported on the detail Form BA–3 in excess of $300 should be considered as non-creditable. No amounts shown on the BA–3 should be considered as excess unless the amount shown exceeds $300, irrespective of the fact that some of these amounts not so considered may be non-creditable earnings. The latter should be adjusted by use of Form BA–4 Revised.

The grand total of the reports for each carrier as reflected on the recapitulations shall be shown on Form BA–5 (Revised December 31, 1937), "Summary Report of Compensation of Employees for the 3 Months Ended ---------- 193...." This form permits an orderly accumulation of a net creditable earnings amount which can be readily compared with the amount of taxable compensation shown on Form CT–1, "Employer's Return Under the Carriers Taxing Act of 1937." The upper half of this form is for use in reporting gross, excess, and net compensation for each month, together with a crossfooting of these amounts to show the total gross, excess, and net for the quarter as included in the detail Form BA–3. The lower section will represent the total figures for the quarter, a summary of the adjustments, and the revised gross, non-creditable, and creditable earnings for the quarter.

The declaration shall be signed by an authorized responsible official of the employer, and the jurat completed by a notary public.

SECTION B

Registration of Employees Subject to the Railroad Retirement Act

On July 1, 1937 the Railroad Retirement Board took over the assignment of account numbers to employees covered by the Railroad Retirement Act, and the cooperative arrangement in effect with the Post Office Department was discontinued. All numbers previously issued to employees under the Social Security Act were issued on the basis of an application Form SS–5 while those issued to employees under the Railroad Retirement Act were issued on the basis of an application Form CER–1. The information shown on the application Form SS–5 or Form CER–1 was transcribed to Form OA–702. The original Forms OA–702 based on Form SS–5 are on file in the office of the Bureau of Old-Age Insurance of the Social Security Board, Balitimore, Maryland. The original Forms OA–702 based on Form CER–1 are on file in the office of the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C.

Account numbers assigned under the direction of the Railroad Retirement Board shall continue to be referred to as "Social Security Account Numbers" and Form CER–1 ("Social Security—Carrier Employee Registration Application for Account Number") shall continue in use.

The principal change resulting from the transfer of the assignment of account numbers to the Railroad Retirement Board was the cooperative arrangement entered into between the Railroad Retirement Board and certain large employers whereby these employers secure supplies of pre-numbered office record forms and make direct assignments of account numbers.

Assignment of Account Numbers

It is essential that all persons who perform compensated service for an employer, and who are employees under the Act be assigned an account number. The account number is a 9-digit number under which a record of service and compensation is maintained for an employee under either the Railroad Retirement Act or the Social Security Act. A block of numbers, the first three digits of which are in the series of 700 to 739, has been allocated to the Railroad Retirement Board for assignment to employees under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 who have not previously received account numbers. The separation of the number into groups of three digits representing "area," two digits representing "group," and four digits representing "serial," with a dash between each group, has no meaning and is merely for convenience in writing the number.

Employees engaged in the future by employers in whose service they have not previously been engaged will come into one of the following classifications:

1. Persons who have not, since January 1, 1937, had any employment requiring an account number. These persons should fill out Form CER–1.

2. Persons having a number in other than the series seven hundred (700) to seven hundred thirty-nine (739) will continue to use such numbers, but should fill out Form CER–1 if they have not already done so while in prior service with some other employer under the Railroad Retirement Act, and turn it over to their employer for filing with the Board.

3. Persons holding account numbers of which the first three digits are in the seven hundred (700) to seven hundred thirty-nine (739) series, and persons holding account numbers in any series who have performed service for an "Employer" after June 30, 1937, should have been registered on Form CER–1, and there should be no necessity, so far as the Railroad Retirement Board is concerned, to secure their re-registration. But, if a person with an account number in this series works for an employer after June 30, 1937, and subsequently works for another employer under the Retirement Act, such subsequent employer may wish to maintain a complete file of Forms CER–1; in such case, however, no such form need be sent to the Board.

The procedure to be followed in filling out Form CER–1 and making account number assignments in the above cases is prescribed hereunder:

1. "Employers" will requisition the estimated number of Forms CER–1, "Social Security—Carrier Employee Registration Application for Account Number," for periods of six months in advance. The Board's Form BA–1, "Requisition for Forms CER–1," should be used for this purpose.

2. "Employers" will secure a properly executed Form CER–1 from each new employee who has not previously received an account number, the first three digits of which are within the series seven hundred (700) to seven hundred thirty-nine (739), unless such employee has previously completed such form. After entering the previously assigned account number on the original and duplicate of such form, it should be examined with particular reference to the following items:

(a) Is each question answer in full? If the answer to any question is unknown, the word "unknown" should be written. If on Line 1 the employee has no middle name, this should be indicated by a line; otherwise, middle name should be required.

(b) Addresses should be complete.

(c) The name on Line 1 should be the correct name of the applicant. If this name differs from the name signed on Line 16, an explanation should be attached to the CER–1 application. This applies to such cases as abbreviations of long foreign names, married women working under their maiden names, and other persons working under a name different from their correct name.

3. "Employers" who are supplied with Forms OA–702 will transcribe the information on Form CER–1 to the Form OA–702, in the case of each employee who has not previously received an account number. Before transcribing this information the same examination of Form CER–1 as described in paragraph 2 above should be made. In typing Form OA–702 the following rules should be adhered to:

(a) The lower part of the identification card which contains the employee account number can be detached and used by the employer or can be turned over to the employee at the discretion of the employer.

(b) Capitalize the first letter only of each name on the Form OA–702.

(c) If a name is too long to be typed in full on the account number card, initials may be typed for the middle name or for the first and middle names, if necessary. Include "Jr." or "Sr." if part of name given.

(d) Erasures are permitted if the result is neat and legible.

(e) Numerical sequence of Forms OA–702 should be maintained.

(f) If necessary to void a form, mark it "void" but include it in series sent to this office.

(g) When OA–702's are prepared and account numbers assigned, the account number should be transcribed from OA–702's to the upper right hand corner of the corresponding CER–1 in the space between the heading and the black corner.

The original account number card (right hand portion) of Form OA–702 should be delivered to the employee. The original of Form OA–702 (left hand portion) and Form CER–1 should be forwarded to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C. The carrier may retain the right hand portion of the duplicate Form OA–702 (Duplicate Account Number Card Portion) if desired, or it may be forwarded to the Bureau of Accounts. The left hand portion of the duplicate copy of Form OA–702 should be sent to:

Washington Regional Office
Social Security Board
Bond Building
New York Avenue & 14th St., N. W.
Washington, D. C.

The duplicate copy of Form CER–1 may be retained by the employer.

4. "Employers" who do not have a supply of Forms OA–702 will forward to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Forms CER–1, covering employees who have not previously received an account number. The Board will thereupon prepare Form OA–702 and forward the account number card to the "Employer" for recording the number, and delivery to the employee.

Other problems which may arise at the time of filling out Form CER–1 and with which the employer should be familiar in order to expedite delivery of the account numbers to employees are set forth below:

1. Corrections.—All applications for correction of data previously furnished by the employee as a basis for the issuance of the account number, or correction in the account number card should be made over the signature of the employee concerned. This includes changes in names on account of marriage. The employee should prepare a corrected Form CER–1, inserting the correct information in all cases. The form should also show the word "correction" at the top of the form. The employee's account number should be shown under Item 14, if he has been assigned one. All applications for corrections in records (Form CER–1) should be forwarded to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C. If the correction involves a change of the name on the account number card, this card should be returned with the Form CER–1 and a corrected Account Card will be forwarded to the employer for delivery to the employee.

2. Applications for duplicate account number cards.—Applications for duplicate account number cards will be made on Form CER–1 over the signature of the employee. Applications for duplicate account number cards should be addressed to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C. In all applications for duplicate account number cards the reason should be indicated in the answer to question 14 as to why a duplicate card is necessary. Usually this will be because the original has been lost. If insufficient room is available in which to supply this explanation, a supplementary statement should be attached.

3. Cancellations.—The question of cancellations of account numbers for employees who hold two or more numbers should be handled as follows: If an employee holds two or more numbers, the first number issued, regardless of origin, should be retained by him, and subsequent account number cards should be picked up from the employee and forwarded to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C., with a letter of explanation indicating the account number which was retained by the employee.

4. Assignment of numbers to former employees who have left the service before receiving an account number.—

(a) If an employee applies for an account number on Form CER–1 but leaves the service of his employer before receiving his account number card, every possible effort should be made to deliver the employee's account number card to him. Where such delivery is impossible, the account number card should be forwarded to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, for filing and for reference in case of future inquiries concerning such number.

(b) If an employee leaves the service of his employer before having applied for an account number, an effort should be made to locate the former employee and have him prepare Form CER–1, at the same time getting his mailing address for delivery of account number upon assignment. If the former employee cannot be located, the employer should prepare Form CER–1, inserting all available information concerning the employee, including any information that might be helpful to subsequent identification even though not provided for by the form. This type of application should clearly state on Line 14 that the employer filed the Form CER–1 because he was unable to locate the former employee. The signature of the employer should be entered on Line 16, followed by the word "employer." If signature is stamped or typed, it should be initialed. If the employer cannot furnish the complete information called for on CER–1, an account number may be assigned subject to the minimum requirement of the name, place of employment, occupation, race and sex.

Employers who are supplied with Forms OA–702 should prepare this form and forward it without detaching the identification card to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, accompanied by the CER–1. The lower portion of the identification card should be noted "Undeliverable."

5. Employees who refuse to sign CER–1.—Where employees refuse to sign Forms CER–1 for religious or other reasons, the necessary information should be secured from employee, if possible. If the employee refuses any information, all data available to the carrier should be inserted on both the Form CER–1 and the Form OA–702, if in use, together with an explanation such as "Employee refuses to sign—religious conviction," or whatever the reason may be. The account number card should be delivered to the employee. Form CER–1 and Form OA–702 should be forwarded to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C.

6. Employees who previously submitted application for an account number not yet received.—An employee who has previously submitted an application Form CER–1 or SS–5 but has not received an account number should prepare Form CER–1, indicating on Line 14 the name of the employer for whom he was working at the time the original application was filed. All CER–1 forms of this type should be forwarded immediately to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, Washington, D. C. If our alphabetical files show that the employee has been assigned an account number, either the original account number card or a duplicate bearing the account number will be mailed to the present employer for delivery to the employee concerned. If a check develops the fact that no number has been assigned the employee, the CER–1 will be treated as an original and a number assigned and mailed to the employer for delivery to the employee. If the account number is not received by the date reports are prepared, the account number column of Form BA–3 should be left blank and the employees without numbers re-listed on additional sheets of Form BA–3, as prescribed under Section A, Paragraph 3, "Employee Account Number."

7. Account number cards undelivered because of death of employee.—If an employee dies before an account number card is received, the account number card should be delivered to his wife or next surviving relative. If this is impossible, make appropriate notation on the account number cards and forward to the Bureau of Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, where they will be filed.

These Regulations are adopted by the Board pursuant to the authority conferred by Sections 8 and 10 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937.

By direction of the Board.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Public Health Service.

AMENDMENT TO THE REGULATIONS FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE, 1931

To Commissioner Officers and all others Concerned:

Pursuant to the authority contained in the Act of August 4, 1894, as amended by section 2 of the Act of July 30, 1937 (Public, No. 234, 75th Congress), paragraphs 603 (2) and 632 to 638, inclusive, of the Regulations for the Government of the United States Public Health Service, approved June 18, 1931, as amended, are hereby amended so as to read as follows:

603. • • • 2. Officers, cadets, and enlisted men of the United States Coast Guard, active and retired, including those on shore duty and those on detached duty, and dependent members of families of officers and enlisted men.

632. Officers, cadets, and enlisted men of the United States Coast Guard on active duty, including those on shore duty and those on detached duty, shall receive hospital or out-patient relief at all relief stations of the Public Health Service without regard to length of service, on certificate of officers of the United States Coast Guard, identifying the applicant. Commissioned officers and officers in charge of units may sign their own certificates.

633. Retired officers and retired enlisted men of the United States Coast Guard shall, upon presentation of evidence establishing their status, be furnished with hospital care at any United States marine hospital, and with out-patient relief at any first, second, or third class station and dental relief at any station where there is a full-time dental officer on duty. When hospital care is required, the patient shall present himself at a marine hospital for admission; the expense of transfer from second and third class stations shall not be a charge against appropriations of the Public Health Service.

634. In emergency, at places where there is no Public Health Service relief station, officers of the United States Coast Guard may procure either hospital or out-patient relief for officers, cadets, and enlisted men of the Coast Guard on active duty, including those on shore duty and those on detached duty, requiring it, and shall immediately report to the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, through Coast Guard headquarters, forwarding as a part of the report the certificate of the attending physician as to the necessity for immediate treatment and the probable duration of the treatment required. Vouchers on proper forms duly certified by the said officer and signed by the person rendering the bill shall be forwarded to the Surgeon General through Coast Guard headquarters.

634a. At ports where there is a relief station of the Public Health Service, when officers, cadets, and enlisted men of the United States Coast Guard on active duty, including those on shore duty and those on detached duty, on account of injury or illness, require the immediate attention of a physician, and on account of the exigency of the case it is impossible to convey the patient to the relief station, temporary provision for medical attendance or care may be made by an officer of the United States Coast Guard, who will immediately report his action to the Public Health Service relief station at the port, and the treatment thereafter will be conducted by the Public Health Service, if in the judgment of the proper officer of the Public Health Service it may be done without detriment to the patient. Vouchers for such emergency treatment will be forwarded to the Surgeon General through said officer for approval and payment. Unreasonable charges for emergency relief will not be allowed.

635. Officers, cadets, and enlisted men of the United States Coast Guard on active duty, including those on shore duty and those on detached duty, shall be admitted to hospital only in cases where the gravity of the disease or injury from which they suffer is such as to require hospital treatment, in the opinion of an officer of the Public Health Service, or of a reputable physician designated by the department to act at a place where no regular relief station has been established, or of a physician temporarily employed as provided in paragraphs 634 and 634a.

636. Officers, cadets, and enlisted men of the United States Coast Guard, including those on shore duty and those on detached duty, while on authorized leave or sick leave may receive medical and surgical relief only at regularly established relief stations of the Public Health Service.

637. Officers and cadets who receive subsistence allowance as part of their compensation shall, while receiving hospital treatment, reimburse the Government in the amount of one subsistence allowance as fixed by law.

638. Upon written application, in approved form, by officers and enlisted men of the United States Coast Guard, active or retired, the dependent members of families of such officers and enlisted men shall be furnished medical advice and out-patient treatment at first, second, and third class relief stations of the Public Health Service, and hospitalization at marine hospitals, if suitable accommodations, as determined by the medical officers in charge, are available therein, at a per-diem cost to the officer or enlisted man concerned equivalent to the uniform per-diem reimbursement rate for Government hospitals as approved by the President for each fiscal year.

The term "dependent members of families" shall include only those relatives who are wholly dependent upon the officer or enlisted man for support and shall not include persons employed by him.

The relationship of dependents, such as wife, son, daughter, etc., including full name, shall be stated in the application, and dependents shall be identified to the relief officer by certification of the applicant's commanding officer. Dependents of retired personnel will be identified by means of a certificate furnished by Coast Guard headquarters at time of retirement. Retired personnel will produce this certificate when seeking relief for dependents and execute necessary application for treatment at the station on blank forms provided for the purpose. At any second or third class relief station, except in cases of emergency, medical advice and out-patient treatment will be furnished dependent members of families only during the regular office hours of the relief station.

(1) Subsections (b) and (c) of Section 1 are amended by striking out the expression "the period from 1928 to 1937, inclusive," in each of such subsections and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "whichever of the periods of five or more consecutive years since 1927 the Agricultural Adjustment Administration finds is most representative of normal conditions,".

(2) The second sentence of footnote 1, subsection (a), Section 2, is amended to read as follows:

"A potato goal will not be established for any farm for which the number of acres of land normally planted to potatoes is determined to be less than three, or less than the number of families living on the farm, whichever is greater."

(3) Footnote 3, subsection (c) of Section 2, is amended by adding at the end of such footnote the following:

"For farms in areas designated by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration where practices Nos. A-1, 5, 6, 7, and 8, and F-1 are not approved as practices which will be counted toward meeting the soil-building goal, one-half of the soil-conserving acreage, rather than one and one-half times the soil-conserving acreage, shall be used under item (1), sub-item (1), in computing the soil-building goal."

(4) Item (2) of Section 4 is amended to read as follows:

"(2) Ten times the payment rates specified in Sec. 3 for the normal yield on the acreages by which the acreages of flue-cured tobacco, Burley tobacco, cigar filler and binder tobacco, Georgia-Florida type 62 tobacco, potatoes, peanuts, and rice exceed the respective goals established for these crops, or, on farms for which potato goals are not established in designated commercial areas, for each acre by which the number of acres of potatoes exceeds three, or the number of families living on the farm, whichever is greater."

(5) Item (3) of Section 4 is amended to read as follows:

"(3) Eight times the payment rates specified in item (1) of Sec. 3 for each acre of soil-depleting crops in excess of the total soil-depleting crop goal for the farm less any acreage on which deductions are made pursuant to items (1), (2), (4) and (8) of this Sec. 4."

(6) Item (8) of Section 4 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"On farms where adjustments for abnormal weather conditions are made in the acreage of commercial vegetables grown in 1936 and 1937 as provided in this item (8), such adjusted acreage shall also be used under item (3) of subsection (c) of Sec. 2 in computing the soil-building goal for the farm and under item (10) of Sec. 3 in computing the payment with respect to the farm."

(7) Subsection (b) of Section 5 is amended by striking out the period at the end of item (3) and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon and the word "or", and by adding the following new paragraph:

"(4) When, in areas having an average annual precipitation of 30 inches or less, wheat seeded in the fall of 1937 is designated in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, is utilized only as a winter cover crop (which may be pastured but not harvested for grain or hay), and is followed by an approved soil-building practice which is instituted prior to a date to be specified by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration."

(8) The second sentence of the paragraph following subsection (g) of Section 5, which reads, "If one or more than one of such crops reach maturity and an individual crop goal is established for only one of such crops, such lahd shall be regarded as devoted to the crop for which an individual crop goal is established", is amended to read as follows:

"If none of such crops reaches maturity or if more than one of such crops reach maturity and an individual crop goal is established for only one of such crops, such land shall be regarded as devoted to the crop for which an individual crop goal is established."

(9) Practice No. A–1, Section 6, is amended to read as follows:

"1. Maintaining until after July 1, 1938, a good stand of perennial grasses or perennial or biennial legumes, or mixtures of such grasses and legumes, seeded or established prior to 1938 on cropland (excluding land in commercial orchards) on which no soil-depleting crop is planted between August 1, 1937, and July 31, 1938."

(10) Practice No. B–1, Section 6, is amended to read as follows:

"1. Seeding approved domestic or Canadian red clover.[8]"

(11) Footnote 8 of Section 6 is amended to read as follows:

[8] "Each acre seeded will be counted as one and one-half acres only when a full seeding is made of domestic or Canadian red clover seed which is approved by the county committee in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

"If approved domestic or Canadian red clover is seeded at a full rate for red clover on land on which a seeding of perennial grass was made under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program each acre seeded will be counted as one acre. If the seeding is made at less than a full rate for red clover in combination with timothy or redtop each acre seeded will be counted as one acre, or if the seeding is made at less than a full rate for red clover on land on which a seeding of perennial grass was made under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program each acre seeded will be counted as one-half acre.

"If approved domestic or Canadian red clover is seeded in combination with perennial grasses other than timothy or redtop each acre seeded will be counted as two acres.

"In areas where practice B–1 is applicable, credit for the seeding of alfalfa under practice C–1 will be given only if the seed is approved by the county committee in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration."

(12) Practice No. J–7, Section 6, is amended to read as follows:

"7. Reseeding depleted pastures with adapted pasture grasses or legumes—10 pounds of seed."

(13) Footnote 11, subsection (a) of Section 8, is amended to read as follows:

[11] "Designated classes of farms shall include: (a) Farms for which a cotton or rice goal is established or on which cotton or rice is grown in 1938 in counties where cotton or rice is a major crop (such counties to be designated by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration); (b) farms operated with the aid of sharecroppers; (c) farms on which a change in ownership or a change in tenure occurs during 1938 and the county committee determines, in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, that both the predecessor and successor owners or tenants contributed to performance on the farm in 1938; and (d) farms on which restoration land is designated and no soil-depleting goals are established, farms for which potato goals are established, or farms which are combined for the purpose of computing payments in accordance with the provisions of subsection (d) of Sec. 16, and the county committee determines, in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, that the application of the formula prescribed in subsection (a) of this Sec. 8 results in a division of payments that more accurately reflects the relative performance of the interested persons than the formula prescribed in subsection (b) of this Sec. 8."

(14) Footnote 12, subsection (a) of Section 8, is amended to read as follows:

[12] "In computing the acreage share of each person each acre of Georgia-Florida type 62 tobacco shall be given a weight of 10; each acre of fire-cured or dark air-cured tobacco, a weight of 7; each acre of cigar filler and binder tobacco, a weight of 5; each acre of flue-cured tobacco, a weight of 4; each acre of potatoes (planted on the farms for which potato goals are established), a weight of 3; each acre of cotton, rice, Burley tobacco, or corn (planted on farms for which corn goals are established), a weight of 2; each acre of other soil-depleting crops (excluding sugar beets and sugarcane for sugar, and general soil-depleting crops on farms where the general soil-depleting goal is as large as the usual acreage of crops in such goal), a weight of 1; each acre of restoration land (which, if any general soil-depleting crops are grown on the farm, shall be divided among the persons who are parties to the lease or operating agreement in the proportion that they share in such crops), a weight of ½; and each acre unit of soil-building practices (excluding the growing of self-reseeded annual legumes and the maintenance of perennial grasses or perennial or biennial legumes or mixtures of such grasses and legumes and excluding soil-building practices which are carried out by the owner of a farm rented to another person for cash or standing or fixed rent and which are not required in meeting the soil-building goal for the farm), a weight of 1. If the county committee determines that two or more persons have contributed to the carrying-out of any soil-building practice, the acreage of such practice with respect to which such persons contributed shall be divided equally among them.

"In lieu of the above method of computing the share of each interested person in the payment, the following method shall be used in States or parts of States designated by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration: The payment computed with respect to each soil-depleting goal (excluding the general soil-depleting goal if such goal is determined to be as large as the usual acreage of general soil-depleting crops grown on the farm) shall be divided among the persons who are parties to the lease or operating agreement in the proportion that such persons are entitled to share in 1938 in the soil-depleting crop(s) in such goal or the proceeds of such crop(s), except that in cases where two or more farms are combined under one application for the purpose of computing payments as provided in Sec. 16 (d) the share of each landlord in the payment computed with respect to each goal shall be determined on the basis of such landlord's interest in that portion of the combined goal which is contributed by the farm or farms with respect to which such person is entitled to the landlord's share of the crops grown thereon. The payment computed with respect to restoration land shall, if a general soil-depleting goal is established for the farm, be divided as the payment computed with respect to the general soil-depleting goal is divided. The remaining payment with respect to the farm shall be divided among eligible persons in accordance with their respective contributions to the units of approved soil-building practices and soil-conserving measures carried out on the farm by such persons in 1938. If no soil-building practice is carried out on the farm the remaining payment with respect to the farm shall be divided pro rata among the interested persons on the basis of their interest in all other farm payments under this program.

"If, prior to the completion of harvest of any soil-depleting crop, there is a change in the ownership or operation of the farm and the county committee determines that both owners, or both operators, as the case may be, have contributed to performance in 1938 on the farm, the acreage of such soil-depleting crop and the units of approved soil-building practices carried out on the farm by such persons in 1938 shall be divided between them on the basis of such contribution to performance by agreement in writing, or in the absence of such agreement by determination of the county committee. Any deductions incurred pursuant to the provisions of Sec. 4 shall be made pro rata from the items making up the maximum payment with respect to the farm."

(15) Footnote 13, subsection (b) of Section 8, is amended by striking out the last sentence thereof.

(16) Subsection (a) of Section 16 is amended to read as follows:

"(a) An application for payment with respect to a farm may be made by any person for whom, under the provisions of Sec. 8, a share in the payment with respect to the farm would be computed and (1) who is growing crops on such farm, is operating such farm or is renting such farm to another person for a share of the crops grown thereon, or (2) who is owner of such farm and participates thereon in 1938 in carrying out approved soil-building practices or in carrying out conservation measures designed to promote restoration of a permanent vegetative cover on restoration land."

(e) Date of issue and date effective.

RULE 3. TARIFFS SHALL CONTAIN IN THE ORDER NAMED

(a) Table of contents, arranged in alphabetical order showing the number of the page on which each subject may be found. If a tariff contains so small a volume of matter that its title page or interior arrangement plainly discloses its contents, the table of contents may be omitted.

(b) A complete index of all commodities on which specific rates are named therein, together with reference to the page or items in which they are shown. No index need be shown in tariffs of less than 5 pages or if all the rates to each destination are alphabetically arranged by commodities.

(c) Explanation of all abbreviations, symbols, and reference marks used in the tariff.

(d) When a tariff names rates by classes, a classification of articles must be published in the tariff or in a separate tariff. When a classification is published in a separate tariff, reference must be made thereto on the title page of the rate tariff as follows:

> Governed, except as otherwise provided herein, by the [here name] classification [show issuing agent] MF-I. C. C. No. — (or I. C. C. No. —) supplements to or successive issues thereof.

All carriers shown as originating carriers in a rate tariff which is governed by a separate classification must be named as participating carriers in such separate classification.

(e) Table of rates.—All rates must be explicitly stated in cents or in dollars and cents, per 100 pounds, per mile, per hour, per cubic foot, per ton of 2,000 pounds, per ton of 2,240 pounds, per truckload (of stated amount), or other definable measure.

Where rates are stated in amounts per package or bundle definite specifications of the packages or bundles must be shown.

Tariffs containing tables of rates based on distances from point of origin to destination must show the mileages or indicate a definite method by which such mileages shall be determined.

(f) Carriers or their agents may not publish class or commodity rates which duplicate or conflict with rates published by or for account of such carriers.

RULE 4. COMMODITY RATES

Commodity rates may be published on articles in stated truck-load or less-than-truck-load quantities and, if so published, shall take precedence over class rates.

RULE 5. TARIFF CHANGES

(a) Rates, charges, and classifications which have been filed with the Commission must be allowed to become effective and remain in effect for a period of at least 30 days before being changed, canceled, or withdrawn, unless otherwise authorized by the Commission.

(b) All tariffs, supplements, and revised pages shall indicate changes from preceding issues by use of the following symbols:

- ↓ or (R) to denote reductions.
- ◆ or (A) to denote increases.
- ▲ or (C) to denote changes, the result of which is neither an increase nor reduction.

The proper symbol must be shown directly in connection with each change.

RULE 6. POSTING REGULATIONS

Each carrier must post and file at each of its stations or offices at which an exclusive agent is employed all of the tariffs or schedules applying from, or at, such station or office and must also post and file at its principal place of business all of its tariffs or schedules. All tariffs or schedules must be kept available for public inspection or examination at all reasonable times.

SECTION 2—CONTRACT CARRIER SCHEDULES

RULE 7. PUBLICATION, FILING, AND POSTING OF SCHEDULES

(a) Schedules must be filed by contract carriers.—Contract carriers shall, under section 218 of the Motor Carrier Act, 1935, file only schedules, which schedules shall conform to these regulations. (This should not be confused with the requirement contained in Ex Parte No. MC-9, Filing of Contracts by Contract Carriers, 2 M. C. C. 55, that copies of contracts shall be filed under section 220 (a).)

(b) Agency or joint schedules not permitted.—Schedules if minimum rates or charges shall be published and filed in the name of the individual carrier performing the transportation service subject to such rates or charges. Schedules may not be filed in the name of an agent, nor may contract carriers participate by concurrence in rates named in any schedule filed by another such carrier.

(c) Schedules must contain all relevant provisions.—Schedules shall contain all of the minimum rates and charges, and also the rules and other provisions applicable to services covered thereby; and reference shall not therein be made to other publications for any provision affecting the rates or charges (or the method of applying them), except that, after having secured express authority from this Commission to do so, carriers may include in schedules naming rates based on distances reference to a separate publication on file with this Commission containing such distances.

(d) Number of copies filed.—Issuing carriers shall file with the Commission three copies of each schedule, supplement, or revised page of a schedule. All copies shall be included in one package accompanied by a letter of transmittal (in duplicate if a receipt is desired) listing the publications enclosed, which shall be addressed to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Bureau of Motor Carriers, Section of Traffic, Washington, D. C. All postage or other charges must be prepaid.

(e) Posting of schedules.—Schedules shall be posted in the same manner as is provided in rule 6 of section 1.

(f) Special permissions.—No deviation from the regulations relative to publication and filing of schedules will be permitted, except that the Commission may in its discretion grant specific authority for waiving any of such regulations in response to an application presented in the manner set forth in rule 9 of section 3, if such application appears to present sufficient justification for such authority.

RULE 8. FORM AND CONTENTS OF SCHEDULES

(a) Form and manner of preparation.—All schedules and supplements thereto shall be in book, pamphlet, or loose-leaf form, of size 8 by 11 inches. They shall be plainly printed, mimeographed, planographed, stereotyped, or reproduced by other similar durable process on paper of good quality. Schedules and supplements thereto filed and posted shall contain no alteration or erasure of the contents of such publication. A margin of not less than five-eighths of an inch without any printing thereon shall be allowed at the binding edge of each schedule or supplement.

(b) Required notice.—Except as otherwise provided herein or unless otherwise authorized by the Commission, all schedules and supplements thereto which supersede rates and charges previously published and filed with this Commission and which result in reductions in previously filed rates and charges shall be filed and posted at least 30 days prior to the effective date thereof.

(c) Title page.—Each schedule submitted for filing shall show on the upper right-hand corner of the front cover or title page the MF–I. C. C. number of the schedule. All schedules shall be numbered consecutively beginning with the MF–I. C. C. number next higher than the last number used on a publication of rates, charges, or rules filed by the same carrier with this Commission. If the issuing carrier shall have previously filed with this Commission no publication of rates, charges, or rules, the first schedule issued shall bear MF–I. C. C. No. 1 and subsequent publications shall be numbered consecutively. Schedules which supersede publications previously filed shall indicate the cancelation of the superseded publication or publications in the manner shown in rule 2 (a) of section 1.

(d) Name of carrier.—The name of the carrier issuing the schedule shall be shown in the upper central portion of the title page and such name shall be the same as that appearing in the carrier's permit (or application if no permit has been issued). If the carrier is not a corporation and a trade name is used, the name of the individual or partners shall precede the trade name in the manner shown in rule 2 (c) of section 1. Following the carrier's name there shall be shown the permit number or, if the application shall have not been decided, the docket number of the carrier's application for a permit.

(e) Territory served.—On the title page of the schedule, immediately under the carrier's name and permit or docket number shall be shown a brief description of the territories in which, or points from and to which, the minimum rates or charges named in the schedule will apply.

(g) Issuing officer.—At the bottom of the title page, under the issued and effective dates, there shall be shown the name, title, and street address of the individual or the officer by whom the schedule is issued. The title "Agent" should not be used.

(h) Supplements.—Supplements shall be numbered consecutively beginning with number one, the supplement number being placed in the upper right-hand corner of the title page. Underneath the supplement number shall be shown the MF–I. C. C. number of the schedule amended thereby. When a supplement cancels a previous supplement (or the schedule itself), the cancellation notice shall be shown in the manner prescribed in rule 2 (b) of section 1.

(i) List of parties with whom carrier has contracts.—At the top of the page immediately following the title page shall be shown the name and address of each party with whom carrier has a contract and for whom property is transported under the provisions of the schedule.

(j) Table of contents.—Following the list of contracting shippers shall be shown a table of contents arranged in alphabetical order indicating the number of the page on which each subject may be found. If the schedule contains so small a volume of matter that its title page or interior arrangement plainly discloses its contents, the table of contents may be omitted.

(k) Index of commodities.—A complete index of all the commodities on which rates and charges are shown in the schedule shall follow the table of contents and shall indicate the page number on which rates for each commodity will be found. If no table of contents appears, the index of commodities shall be shown immediately after the list of contracting parties. If the number of commodities involved is small, no index need be shown in a schedule, provided the commodities are arranged in alphabetical order in the tables of minimum rates and charges.

(m) Index of points.—When a schedule names minimum rates or charges from and to specific points, an index of the points, together with the states in which they are located, shall be shown immediately following the index of commodities, with reference to the page on which the various points will be found in the table of minimum rates or charges.

(n) Abbreviations and symbols.—Where abbreviations, symbols, or reference marks are used in a schedule, they shall be explained on each page on which they appear, except that, where the same abbreviation, symbol, or reference mark is used throughout the schedule with the same explanation, this information may be shown under a general explanation following the index of points.

(o) Rules.—Any rules or other provisions affecting the application of the minimum rates or charges shall be shown following the general explanation of abbreviations, symbols, and reference marks and preceding the tables of minimum rates or charges. Each rule shall be given a separate number.

(p) Tables of minimum rates or charges.—The tables of minimum rates or charges shall be shown immediately following the rules. The commodities on which the rates or charges apply shall be shown on the same page on which the rates or charges are published or there shall be shown on such page a statement of the page or item containing a list or description of such commodities. Minimum rates or charges shall be published on only such commodities and from and to only such points as are included in actual contracts for transportation. Tables of minimum rates or charges shall be arranged alphabetically by points of origin and destination, except that, if it is desired to group points by states, they may be arranged in alphabetical order by states, the points in each state also being shown in alphabetical order. The minimum rates or charges shall be stated in cents or in dollars and cents per 100 pounds, per mile, per hour, per cubic foot, per ton of 2,000 pounds, per ton of 2,240 pounds, per truckload (of stated amount), or other definable measure.

Schedules shall clearly show the points from and to which the minimum rates and charges apply, or indicate briefly by territorial description the territory within which they apply. If minimum rates or charges are determined by use of distances, schedules shall show the distances from and to the points from and to which the minimum rates or charges apply, or shall indicate a definite method by which the distances shall be determined (see rule 7 (c) of this section).

(q) Changes in minimum rates or charges.—Minimum rates or charges which have been filed with the Commission shall be permitted to become effective and remain in effect for a period of 30 days before they may be reduced by the publication and filing of a new schedule or supplement. Schedules or supplements thereto which do not reduce the minimum rates or charges formerly filed with the Commission may become effective not earlier than the date on which they are received by the Commission, but a specific effective date must be shown which shall not be prior to the effective date of rates or charges previously filed having the same application. Changes in minimum rates or charges appearing in schedules shall be indicated in the manner prescribed in rule 5 (b) of section 1.

SECTION 3—MISCELLANEOUS RULES AND FORMS

RULE 9. APPLICATIONS FOR SPECIAL PERMISSION

(a) The Motor Carrier Act, 1935, authorizes the Commission in its discretion and for good cause shown to permit changes in rates on less than statutory notice, and also to permit departure from the Commission's regulations. The Commission will exercise this authority only in cases where actual emergency and real merit are shown. Desire to meet the rates of a competing carrier that has given statutory notice of change in rates will not of itself be regarded as good cause for permitting changes in rates or other provisions on less than statutory notice. Clerical or typographical errors in tariffs constitute good cause for the exercise of this authority, but every application based thereon must plainly specify the error together with a full statement of the attending circumstances and must be presented with reasonable promptness after issuance of the defective tariff, supplement, or revised page.

(b) When a formal order of the Commission requires publication on a stated number of days' notice, a request addressed to the Bureau of Motor Carriers for authority to file on less notice will not be granted. In any such instance a petition for modification of the order should be filed on the formal docket.

(c) Applications for permission to establish rates, rules, or other provisions on less than statutory notice, or for waiver of the provisions of this Tariff Circular must be made by the carrier or agent that holds authority to file the proposed publication. If the application requests permission to make changes in joint tariffs, it must state that it is filed for and on behalf of all carriers parties to the proposed change.

(d) Two copies of applications (including amendments thereto and exhibits made a part thereof) shall be addressed to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Bureau of Motor Carriers, Washington, D. C. An additional exact copy shall be addressed to the office of the District Director, Bureau of Motor Carriers, Interstate Commerce Commission, of the district in which the main office of the applicant carrier or publishing agent is located. The application shall indicate that an exact copy including exhibits has been furnished the district office.

Applications shall be made on paper 8 by 10½ inches, shall be in substantially the form shown hereinbelow, and shall give all the information required by this rule together with any other pertinent facts. They shall be numbered consecutively and must bear the signature of the carrier or its agent or officer, specifying title.

The above statement was subscribed and sworn to before me this ---- day of ----, 19--.

(Notary public)

When the application is made by an agent, appropriate change should be made in the introductory and closing paragraphs of this form.

(e) Applications shall show the following information:

(1) The proposed tariff provisions shall be set forth clearly and completely. An accompanying exhibit may be used if identified by letter, such as Exhibit A, and so referred to in the application. If the proposed provisions consist of rates, all points of origin and destination must be shown or definitely indicated; if permission is sought to establish a rule, the exact wording of the proposed rule must be given.

(2) The application shall show the tariffs and MF–I. C. C. numbers of the publications in which the proposed rates, ratings, rules, or other provisions will be published. If publication is to be made in supplements to tariffs already referred to, this fact shall be shown.

(3) The application shall set forth the rates or tariff provisions which it is desired to change. Where the matter to be shown is voluminous or for other reasons difficult of presentation, it may be included in an accompanying exhibit, properly identified and referred to in the application. Reference shall be made by MF–I. C. C. number and supplement number to the tariffs or supplements in which rates or provisions to be superseded are published. If such provisions are published in numbered items or other units, reference shall be made thereto by number, or, if not so published, the pages of the publication on which the provisions appear shall be shown. The extent to which cancellations will be made must be definitely indicated.

(4) The application shall state the names of carriers known to maintain competitive rates, charges, classification ratings, or rules between the same points or points related thereto, together with the MF–I. C. C. numbers of the tariffs and supplements thereto containing such provisions.

(5) The application shall state whether such carriers have been advised of the proposed rates, charges, classification ratings, or rules and whether they have been advised that it is proposed to establish such provisions on less than statutory notice. If competitive carriers have expressed their views in regard to the proposed provisions, a brief statement of their views shall be given.

(6) The application shall state the special circumstances or unusual conditions which are relied upon as justifying the requested permission together with any related facts or circumstances which may aid the Commission in determining whether the requested permission is justified. If permission to establish provisions on less than statutory notice is sought, the petitioner shall state why the proposed provisions could not have been established upon 30 days' notice.

(f) If the authority granted by special permission is used, it must be used in its entirety and in the manner set forth in the order of special permission. If it is not desired to use all of the authority granted and less or more extensive or different authority is desired, a new application complying with the provisions of this rule in all respects and referring to the previous permission must be filed.

RULE 10. POWERS OF ATTORNEY

(a) Whenever a carrier desires to give authority to an agent to publish and file tariffs and supplements in which such carrier participates, this may be accomplished by issuing an appropriate power of attorney either in favor of an individual or of a corporation (not a carrier) which has charter power to publish and file tariffs for common carriers of property by motor vehicle. The forms which follow are to be used. Existing powers of attorney authorizing an individual to act as agent, which are not otherwise objectionable, need not be reissued merely to comply with the form prescribed in paragraph (b). Powers of attorney filed after 120 days from the effective date hereof must conform with this rule.

(b) The following power of attorney form shall be used in appointing an individual to act as agent.

(Signed) ----------

Duplicate mailed to ----------. Agent.

(d) An official or an employee of a corporation (see paragraph (a) of this rule) may not act as agent when such corporation acts as agent, unless otherwise authorized by the Commission.

(e) A corporation (see paragraph (a) of this rule) accepting powers of attorney making such corporations an attorney and agent shall issue tariffs in the name of the corporation as agent. At the bottom of the title page of each publication filed by the corporation as agent shall be shown the name and title of the official of the corporation who has been appointed by such corporation to handle tariff matters with the Commission.

A corporation (see paragraph (a) of this rule) acting as a publishing agent under powers of attorney shall forward to the Commission a certified minute of the meeting of the board of directors of such corporation showing the name and title of the official who has been appointed to handle all tariff matters with the Commission.

(f) Powers of attorney authorized by this rule, if executed without modification, confer unlimited authority to publish local rates for the carrier issuing the power of attorney and to publish joint rates for such carrier and such other carriers as shall have issued the necessary authority. If it is desired to limit the authority granted to the agent, the form may be modified by adding at the end of the first paragraph the statement: "This authority is restricted to the filing of the publications or types of publications set forth below," and by clearly stating immediately thereafter the extent of the authority granted. The instrument may limit the authority of the agent to publication of rates from points on the carrier's lines only, or to points on its lines only, or may limit the authority granted to publication of either local or joint rates. The authority granted may be restricted, also, to publication of either class or commodity rates, but it may not be limited to publication of rates on a particular commodity or to publication of specifically named rates.

If it is desired to give to an agent authority for the publication of a classification, a classification exceptions tariff, or a rules tariff, only, the form may be modified by omitting from line four, the words "freight rate tariffs" and substituting therefor the word or words, "classification," "classification exceptions tariffs" or "rules tariffs," or the instrument may be so modified as to authorize the publication of any or all of such tariffs, including rate tariffs. If it is desired to limit the authority granted to publication of a particular tariff or tariffs, this may be done by giving a sufficiently accurate description of the title page of each tariff to identify it and by showing the MF-I. C. C. number, if known. If it is intended that the authority granted shall include reissues of specifically named tariffs, that fact must be made clear by adding after the designation of the tariff, "or successive issues thereof."

(g) Powers of attorney shall be printed on good paper of durable quality, 8 by 10½ inches in size, and shall be signed as indicated in note 2, page 12. Each power of attorney shall be given a form and serial number. The form and serial numbers shall be shown on the upper right-hand corner and immediately thereunder shall be shown the form and number of the power of attorney, if any, which is canceled thereby. If the instrument to be canceled contains more authority or is broader in scope than the new instrument, such new instrument must bear an effective date at least 60 days after the date on which it is received by the Commission. When the new instrument is broader in scope than the instrument which is to be canceled, no notice is required. The term "freight rate tariff" as used in this rule means not only rate tariffs

but all other freight publications which in any way affect the value of the service or the measure of the charge. Each instrument shall show, under the serial number, the post office address of the person or persons issuing it and the date of issue. The instrument shall also show, in the lower left-hand corner, the name, title, and address of the person or corporation to whom the duplicate is sent.

(h) All instruments must be prepared in triplicate. Except when there is specific instruction in individual rules to send originals to an agent, the original of the instrument shall be filed with the Commission, the duplicate sent to the agent to whom such authorization is directed, and the third copy retained by the issuing carrier.

(i) Powers of attorney may not contain authority to delegate to another the power thereby conferred. In giving authority to an agent to publish and file rates for the carrier by whom such authority is issued, care must be taken to avoid duplicating to two or more agents authority which, if used, would result in conflicting rates or other provisions.

(j) When a power of attorney is issued to an individual to act as agent (see paragraph (b) of this rule), such instrument shall name an alternate agent to act in the event of the death or disability of the principal agent. On or before the date of filing of the first tariff or supplement by the alternate agent under the authority granted in the instrument, such alternate agent shall submit to the Commission a sworn statement setting forth the reason or reasons which justify such exercise of authority. The term "disability" as used in the instrument means resignation, permanent transfer to other duties, or other permanent absence of the principal caused by vacation, illness, or other similar cause. After an alternate agent has once exercised the authority granted by the instrument, the principal agent may not thereafter act under that instrument.

(k) When it is desired to transfer authority from one agent to another agent, such transfer may be accomplished by filing a new power of attorney naming the agent (and alternate when necessary) thereafter to serve, which shall specifically cancel the previous power of attorney.

When a power of attorney has been issued to an individual and an alternate (see paragraph (b) of this rule), in the event of the death or disability of either the principal or alternate agent, new powers of attorney canceling the previously effective powers of attorney and naming the agent (and alternate when necessary) thereafter to serve shall be filed within 180 days. The new powers of attorney shall bear no effective date. The originals thereof shall not be sent direct to the Commission, but shall be forwarded to the new agent, which agent after all the necessary instruments have been secured, shall file the originals with the Commission all at one time. Such powers of attorney will become effective upon the date they are received by the Commission.

(m) When a new agent is appointed, or when an alternate agent assumes the duties of the principal agent, the new agent, immediately upon receipt of necessary authority, or the alternate agent, upon death or disability of his principal, shall issue a supplement to each of the effective tariffs issued by the agent superseded, which shall bear on its title page no effective date, but which shall contain a statement reading substantially as follows: "On and after [show here, in the case of a new agent, the date on which authorities are filed with this Commission; or in the case of an alternate agent, the date on which the principal ceased to act] this publication shall be considered as the issue of [show here name of new agent or the alternate acting as such]." In the case of a new agent, such supplement shall also contain a list of participating carriers giving reference to the new authorities. If tariffs issued by the new agent will be numbered in a different MF-I. C. C. series from those of the former agent, supplements filed by the new agent to tariffs issued by the former agent shall show in connection with MF-I. C. C. numbers, that they are in the series of the former agent.

(n) A power of attorney may be revoked upon not less than 60 days' notice to the Commission by filing a notice of revocation with the Commission, serving at the same time a copy thereof on the agent in whose favor such power of attorney was executed. Such notice shall not bear a separate serial number, but shall specify the form and number of the power of attorney to be revoked, shall name the agent (and alternate agent when form MFXA2 is being revoked) in whose favor the power of attorney was executed, shall specify a date upon which revocation is to become effective, which must be not less than 60 days subsequent to the date of its receipt by the Commission, and shall be executed in the following manner on paper of good quality, size 8 by 10½ inches:

RULE 11. CONCURRENCES

(a) The following forms shall be used in giving to carriers concurrences in tariffs which are issued and filed by such carriers or their agents and in which the carriers giving concurrences are participants. The provisions of paragraphs (g) and (h) of Rule 10 will apply also to concurrences. If two or more carriers execute powers of attorney authorizing an agent to publish joint rates for them, it will not be necessary for those carriers to exchange concurrences with each other as to the joint tariffs issued by that agent under that authority.

(b) Form MFXC2 shall be used in giving concurrence in a particular tariff that is issued and filed by another carrier. The original of form MFXC2 shall be forwarded to the carrier issuing the tariff and shall by such carrier be transmitted to the Commission with the tariff. This form when not restricted will serve as continuing evidence of participation in the tariff described in the concurrence and in all supplements to and successive issues thereof. If reference to successive issues be stricken out, a new concurrence will be required for each successive issue of the tariff. Except as provided above, this form shall not be qualified in any way but must evidence concurrence in all rates, rules or other provisions contained in the tariff publication named therein.

(c) If general concurrence be given by a carrier in tariffs issued by another carrier or its agent, naming rates from or to points on its lines or over its lines, form MFXC3 shall be used. Form MFXC3 may be executed as shown, when it will authorize publication of rates for the concurring carrier from and to points served by such carrier as well as from and to points served by other carriers where the concurring carrier acts as intermediate line. If it is desired to limit the authority granted to exclude publication of rates in connection with which the concurring carrier would act as either origin, intermediate, or destination line, the form may be modified to that extent by substituting the words "from — to" for the words "between — and" or by use of other appropriate language to effect the modification authorized. When authority is given an agent to publish rates for a carrier participating under authority of a concurrence to another carrier for whom such agent acts, care must be exercised that the rates published for the concurring carrier do not exceed the scope of the authority given.

JANUARY 8, 1938.

LIST OF PRODUCTS ON WHICH THE UNITED STATES WILL CONSIDER GRANTING CONCESSIONS TO THE UNITED KINGDOM, NEWFOUNDLAND, AND THE BRITISH COLONIAL EMPIRE

With reference to his public notice, issued today, of intention to negotiate a trade agreement with the Government of the United Kingdom and with that Government on behalf of Newfoundland and the British Colonial Empire, the Secretary of State announces that, unless supplementary announcement is made, the granting of concessions by the United States will be considered only with respect to the articles listed below. However, interested persons may present to the Committee for Reciprocity Information, in written or oral form, information or views concerning concessions on any article imported into the United States from the United Kingdom, Newfoundland, or the British Colonial Empire, or concerning any article imported into those countries from the United States.

The attached list is not a list of articles on which concessions are proposed, but rather a list of articles which will come under consideration for the possible granting of concessions. Their publication enables interested persons to learn whether or not products in which they are interested may be considered for the granting of concessions to the Government of the United Kingdom. Concessions will not be granted on any article not covered by the present or supplementary listing, and decision to grant a concession on any article covered in the listing will not be made until after the dates set by the Committee for Reciprocity Information for the presentation of briefs and for supplementary oral hearings. Some of the products listed may not be the subject of any concession under the terms of the agreement, and the import duties on those items which are included in the agreement as finally negotiated may or may not be changed.

For the purpose of facilitating identification of the articles listed, reference is made in the list to the paragraph numbers of the tariff schedules in the Tariff Act of 1930, or, as the case may be, to the appropriate sections of the Revenue Act of 1932, as amended, or of the Revenue Act of 1934, as amended. The descriptive phraseology is however in many cases limited to a narrower field than that covered by the numbered tariff paragraph or section in the Revenue Acts. In such cases only the articles covered by the descriptive phraseology of the list will come under consideration for the granting of concessions. Concessions ultimately granted may cover articles as described in the list, or may be limited to certain specific commodities or groups of commodities falling within the limits of the descriptive phraseology of the list.

DECISION OF THE SECRETARY IN THE MATTER OF DETERMINATION OF THE PREVAILING MINIMUM WAGE IN THE HANDKERCHIEF INDUSTRY

This case is before me pursuant to Section 1 (b) of the Act of June 30, 1936 (49 Stat. 2036), entitled "An Act to provide conditions for the purchase of supplies and the making of contracts by the United States, and for other purposes."

At my direction, the Public Contracts Board, created in accordance with Section 4 of the said Act, by Administrative Order dated October 6, 1936, held a public hearing on the prevailing minimum wages in the handkerchief industry on April 20, 1937. Invitations to attend this hearing were sent to the trade associations and labor unions and to the 24 manufacturers listed in directories of the industry and were extended, through the national press, to all other employers and employees interested. Letters were received from several manufacturers of handkerchiefs presenting evidence of wages paid in their establishments and a special study was presented by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor. On the basis of this evidence, the Board has submitted findings of fact and recommendations on the prevailing minimum wage in this industry.

The study of the Women's Bureau found that a separation of the wages paid in this industry by occupational groups has practically no significance for the determination of the prevailing minimum wage. The differences in the piece rates paid vary so greatly from firm to firm that an occupational group appearing to receive relatively high earnings in one plant may not receive high earnings in another plant. Nor does any occupational group maintain any constant hourly wage. In fact, according to the record, overlapping of wages occurs to such an extent as to make it impracticable to classify occupations in the industry. Hence it is necessary to examine the wages paid to all employees in the handkerchief industry.

Concentration groups are not sufficiently marked, either in the one cent or five cent intervals, shown in the tables attached as exhibits to the record, to offer a fair basis for a finding. The ten cent interval in the tables between thirty and forty cents shows a concentration of approximately 57% of all the experienced employees in the industry. The midpoint of the interval, 35¢ per hour or $14 per week for a forty hour week, was submitted also by a manufacturer employing more than half the workers in this industry in the State of Pennsylvania as the prevailing minimum wage among his employees. These factors point to 35¢ per hour or $14 per week for a forty hour week as the prevailing minimum wage for this industry.

Due to the smallness of the industry and the national scope of the market there is no basis at all for a geographic differential in the handkerchief industry. Moreover, no request was made at the hearing or elsewhere for the establishment of a differential.

With regard to the question of learners, superannuated and otherwise handicapped workers, the testimony presented at the hearing brought out the fact that no superannuated workers were employed because the industry has only recently been developed. The record is silent as to workers otherwise handicapped. It would therefore seem that there is no necessity for making special provision for superannuated and otherwise handicapped employees.

The Women's Bureau study indicated that less than half the firms investigated in the survey employed any learners. The record fails to show any learners employed in fulfilling government contracts. In any case the work does not appear to be one requiring any high degree of skill, and there seems to be no agreement as to what constitutes a "learning period" in this industry. No reason, consequently, has been shown for recommending any tolerance as to learners.

Therefore, I hereby determine

That the minimum wage for employees engaged in the performance of contracts with agencies of the United States Government subject to the provisions of the Act of June 30, 1936 (49 Stat. 2036), for the manufacture or supply of handkerchiefs shall be 35¢ per hour or $14.00 per week for a week of 40 hours, arrived at either upon a time or piece work basis.

This determination shall become effective and shall apply to all contracts awarded subject to the Act of June 30, 1936 (49 Stat. 2036), on or after January 26, 1938.

Dated this 10th day of January, 1938.

Secretary of Labor.

AMENDMENT OF RULES UNDER PUBLIC UTILITY HOLDING COMPANY ACT OF 1935

Acting pursuant to the authority conferred upon it by the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, particularly sections 14 and 20 (a) thereof, and finding such action necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors and consumers and to carry out the provisions of the Act, the Securities and Exchange Commission hereby amends rule 14–1 to read as follows:

RULE 14–1. REPORTS OF ACQUISITIONS UNDER RULE 9C–3

(a) As used in this rule—

"Quarter" means the three months' periods ending respectively on March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31 in each year;

"Majority-owned subsidiary" means such a subsidiary as defined in rule 9C–2. "Minority-owned subsidiary" means any subsidiary other than a majority-owned subsidiary.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c) of this rule, each registered holding company shall, within 30 days after the close of each quarter, file with the Commission a report with respect to acquisitions of securities during such quarter by such company and by all subsidiaries thereof (whether or not majority-owned), which acquisitions were exempted from the requirements of section 9 (a) by any of the provisions of rule 9C–3 except those of paragraphs (1) to (4). If no such acquisitions were made during the quarter, the report shall be made by letter addressed to the Commission stating that fact. If any such acquisitions were made during the quarter, the report shall be made on form U14–1, marked "Adopted January 7, 1938", shall contain the information required by such form, and shall be prepared in accordance with the instructions therein contained.

(c) No company shall be required to file such a report for any quarter if a registered holding company of which such company is a subsidiary shall file a report for such period which includes all acquisitions as to which such company would otherwise have been required to report. No report which clearly states that it is made without taking into account any acquisitions that must be reported by one or more (named) minority owned subsidiaries of the reporting company shall be deemed insufficient for that reason if all such minority owned subsidiaries are themselves registered holding companies.

(d) Any company preparing a report required by this rule may accept as accurate, and may incorporate by reference or otherwise, any information contained in any report which any subsidiary thereof shall file with the Commission. Any such company may also rely on the accuracy of any written statements supplied to it by any subsidiary thereof if, before procuring such information, it shall have notified such subsidiary that the information to be supplied is to be used in a report to the Commission and if it has no reasonable ground for believing the information supplied to be incorrect. Any information required in any such report may be omitted if the report clearly calls attention to the fact of such omission and sets forth circumstances showing that the company filing such report is unable to procure such information without incurring unreasonable effort or expense.

By the Commission.

The north jetty is marked by a flashing red light, and the south jetty by a flashing white light.

2. Authority of waterway officers.—The movement of all boats or craft of every description in the waterway shall be subject to the supervision of the District Engineer, an officer of the United States Engineer Department at Large, in general charge of Federal waterway improvements in the locality.

3. Dimensions.—The present project, authorized by Congress August 30, 1935, provides for a channel 27 feet deep at mean low water (referred to canal datum at Reedy Point) and 250 feet bottom width from Delaware River to Elk River (Canal datum is 2.99 below mean sea level). No vessel of greater draft than 25 feet should attempt to enter the waterway.

4. Projections from vessels.—No vessel carrying a deck load which overhangs or projects over the sides of the said vessel, nor any vessel which the District Engineer in charge considers a hazard to the canal or to other navigation using the canal, will be permitted to enter or pass through the waterway.

5. Speed limits.—The speed limit in any part of the waterway is six miles per hour, and the operations involved in interrupting the stream of vehicular traffic and raising the bridges are based upon this speed. When passing approaching craft or craft tied to the bank, the speed shall be reduced to four miles per hour in order to avoid excessive wash and damage to boats tied at wharves and to the banks of the canal.

6. Traffic control—lights.—Navigation in the canal is controlled by a dispatching system, with a chief dispatcher on duty at all times, at the Chesapeake City Office, and patrol boats at each end of the canal. The safe and efficient handling of traffic in the canal is dependent entirely on the compliance and observance of all orders issued through these patrol boats. These boats contact and report each vessel as it enters the waterway and a log of its name, length, beam, draft, height above water line, and speed of travel is kept, and the dispatcher, with this information and knowledge of the tides and channel conditions, is able to dispatch traffic safely.

Navigation in and through the canal shall be governed by the following system of traffic lights. These lights at the eastern entrance to the Canal are located on the outer end of the North Jetty, and at the western entrance on the south bank of the Canal, approximately 6,000 feet west of Chesapeake City bridge, at about station 83+500.

1. Green light.—Canal open to navigation.
2. Purple light.—Caution, traffic restricted.
3. Red light.—Canal closed to traffic. Vessel must tie up.

7. Handling of tows.—All ships or tugs engaged in towing vessels not equipped with a rudder, whether light or laden, shall use two towlines, and shall shorten them to the greatest extent possible so as to have full control of their tows. Ships and tugs towing vessels provided with rudders may use one towline, but it must not exceed 100 feet in length. No towboat shall be permitted to enter the canal with more than two loaded, or three light barges, in single file.

Towboats shall not be permitted to enter the canal if considered inadequate to handle their tows with safety.

Vessels transiting the canal abreast must have the towboat on the port side of the vessel being towed.

The beam of any vessel, or the combined beam of tug and barge when towed abreast of the tug, must not exceed ninety (90) feet, except upon special arrangements made for a specific trip to the satisfaction of the District Engineer.

8. Rafts.—All tows of rafts must, before entering the canal, tie up and be inspected by a representative of the U. S. Engineer Sub-Office, Chesapeake City, Maryland (Telephone-Chesapeake City 2621). Such tows must not exceed 65 feet in width or 800 feet in length. Ponton rafts exceeding 200 feet in length must be accompanied by two tugs, one forward and one aft, so that the tow can be kept strung out behind the forward tug and on the proper side of the channel. All rafts must be accompanied by sufficient crew to properly care for them at all times, and to see that they are secure when tied up.

Tows of rafts will not be permitted to enter the canal unless the transit of the canal can be completed during daylight hours.

9. Right of way.—All vessels proceeding with the tide shall have the right of way over those proceeding against the tide. Large vessels and tows must not overtake and attempt to pass other large vessels or tows in the canal.

10. Bridges.—(a) There are four vertical lift type highway bridges and one railroad bridge crossing the main canal. These bridges have the following clearances:

Name of bridge	Vertical clearances above local mean low water		Tide range	Horizontal clearance between fenders
	Closed	Open
	Feet	Feet	Feet	Feet
Reedy Point	11.5	139.4	5.5	175
St. Georges	21.0	138.8	4.7	175
Penna. R. R.	48.2	138.2	3.2	175
Summit	70.9	138.0	3.3	175
Chesapeake City	11.5	137.9	2.5	240

(b) The branch canal is crossed by a double-leaf bascule highway bridge at Delaware City, which has a vertical clearance, when closed, of 17.0 feet above mean low water, and a horizontal clearance between fenders of 60 feet. This bridge is only open for the passage of vessels between the hours of 8:00 A. M. and 4:00 P. M., Eastern Standard Time.

(c) The signal for the opening of a bridge shall be three blasts of a whistle or horn blown on the vessel or craft desiring to pass.

If at the time of receiving the signal or notice above-prescribed a car, or train of cars, or other vehicle is approaching any draw so closely that it cannot be safely stopped before reaching such draw, two blasts of a whistle or horn shall be blown on the bridge. As soon thereafter as such draw shall be cleared, it shall be promptly opened, and four blasts of a whistle or horn blown on the bridge to indicate such clearance. The navigation lights at the center of the draw span will show:

Red light.—Bridge closed to navigation, vessels must be kept under control so they can be stopped if necessary.

Green light.—Bridge open to navigation, vessel may proceed.

Fixed red and blinking red lights.—Vessel must stop and tie up before reaching bridge.

(d) Vessels shall be held responsible for any damage to the bridges through failure on the part of the vessel to observe prescribed regulations.

11. Anchorage basins and mooring dolphins.—An anchorage basin 12 feet deep is available on the south side of the channel, east of the Chesapeake City bridge and a smaller basin 6 feet deep is provided at Delaware City on the north side of the channel.

Mooring dolphins are provided on the north side of the channel at the eastern entrance of the canal at Reedy Point, and at the western entrance of the canal in Back Creek.

about 5,000 feet west of Chesapeake City Bridge. Vessels may tie up at these mooring dolphins, and at the Government Wharf at Chesapeake City.

Such facilities are of a limited nature and occupancy of same for periods longer than absolutely necessary is prohibited. If it becomes necessary to use the facilities for longer than one twenty-four hour period, permission must be obtained from the Resident Engineer at Chesapeake City.

Four emergency dolphins are provided on each side of the five canal bridges at distances of 500 feet from the bridges. These dolphins are to be used for mooring in emergencies only.

12. Wharfage facilities.—Free wharfage is available on the west side of the anchorage basin at Chesapeake City, and at the anchorage basin at Delaware City on the north side of the channel. These wharves are for commercial use only, but may be used by pleasure vessels while loading supplies. Commercial vessels will not tie up at the wharves for periods longer than twenty-four hours unless permission is first obtained from the Resident Engineer at Chesapeake City. Any craft using these facilities must have on board at all times a crew adequate to properly care for the craft, and the United States assumes no responsibility for damages which may be sustained while using such facilities.

13. Stopping in waterway.—Whenever a vessel stops in the improved portions of the waterway, it shall be securely fastened to one bank and as close to the bank as possible. This shall be done only at such place and under such conditions as will not obstruct or prevent the passage of other vessels or craft.

When thus tied up all vessels must be moored by not less than two lines each, and shall not be tied up more than one abreast. Sufficient crew to care properly for such vessels shall remain on board at all times.

Stoppages in the improved portions of the waterway shall be only for such period as may be necessary, and no vessel or craft will be allowed to use such portions of the waterway as a permanent or semi-permanent place of mooring without the permission of the District Engineer.

Vessels may anchor in Elk River, but shall not anchor in the channel, and during the night shall display lights as required by navigation rules governing such cases.

14. Refuse.—The placing of any ashes or refuse, or of any material likely to cause an obstruction in the waterway or upon the banks or rights of way thereof is prohibited.

15. Trespass upon waterway property.—Trespass upon the waterway property or injury to the waterway, lands, banks, bridges, jetties, piers, fences, houses, trees, telephone lines, or to any other property of the United States pertaining to the waterway is prohibited.

16. Fish and game.—The fish and game laws of the United States and of the States of Delaware and Maryland, within their respective bounds, will be enforced upon the waters and lands pertaining to the waterway owned by the United States. The use of traps and nets upon the property is forbidden except upon written permission from the District Engineer.

17. Wrecked or damaged vessels.—In the event a vessel is grounded or wrecked in the canal or is so damaged by accident as to render it likely to become an obstruction in the canal, the U. S. District Engineer, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, shall supervise and direct all operations that may be necessary to float the vessel, or clear the wreckage, or move the damaged vessel to a safe locality.

18. Commercial statistics.—Masters or pursers of vessels shall furnish the District Engineer or his authorized representative, on each passage through the canal, such written statement of passengers, freight, and vessel data as may be indicated by blank forms furnished for this purpose. Failure to furnish this statement will result in denial of the privilege of the canal to the offending vessel.

Blank forms may be obtained from the following:

District Engineer, U. S. Engineer Office, Customhouse, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
District Engineer, U. S. Engineer Office, Post Office Building, Baltimore, Maryland.
Resident Engineer, U. S. Engineer Office, Chesapeake City, Maryland.
The patrol boats in the Canal.
Pilots.

19. When regulations become effective.—These rules and regulations regulating the use and administration and navigation of this waterway shall take effect and be in force from and after the date of approval hereof, and shall supersede the regulations approved February 7, 1927, for the government of the Inland Waterway from Delaware River to Chesapeake Bay, Delaware and Maryland (Chesapeake and Delaware Canal).

Approved December 31, 1937.

It appearing that by Orders No. 2 and 51 the Commission upon its own motion entered into and conducted an investigation under the provisions of Section 4-A of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, for the purpose of determining the nature and extent of transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal in the State of Michigan and the effect of such transactions upon interstate commerce in such coal; and

It further appearing that reasonable public notice of a hearing was provided and that at said hearing interested parties were afforded an opportunity to be heard; that the presiding Examiner duly designated by the Commission having filed his report and recommendations and the Commission having given due consideration to said report and recommendations and to the record of the evidence in this proceeding; and, the Commission having on the 11th day of January, 1938, adopted the Examiner's report and recommendations as its own which said report is hereby referred to and made a part hereof;

Now, therefore, it is by order declared:

That substantially all transactions in bituminous coal in intrastate commerce in the State of Michigan directly affect interstate commerce in such coal; and

That there will be an undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice as between localities in Michigan in such intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate commerce in bituminous coal on the other hand, and an undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate commerce in such coal if such transactions in intrastate commerce or any substantial part thereof are not regulated and subjected to the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937.

Therefore, it is further ordered:

1. That on and after the 26th day of January, 1938, all bituminous coal sold, delivered, or offered for sale in transactions in intrastate commerce in such coal in all localities within the State of Michigan, shall be subject to the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, to the Bituminous Coal Code, as promulgated by the Commission and made effective on the 21st day of June, 1937, and to all relevant orders of the Commission in effect on the date of this order, as well as all further orders which may thereafter be issued by the Commission under Section 4 of said Act, so as to apply to such intrastate commerce in coal within the State of Michigan.

2. That any producer of bituminous coal in intrastate commerce within the State of Michigan, who may believe that his or its particular transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal should be exempted from this order and/or from the provisions of Section 4 and 4-A of said Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, may file application at any time hereafter for exemption pursuant to the second paragraph of Section 4-A of said Act, and be entitled to a hearing and appropriate orders thereon.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall give notice to each known producer of bituminous coal within the State of Michigan who is not upon the date of this Order a member of the Bituminous Coal Code, by mailing, within five (5) days from this date, a copy of this Order, together with three (3) copies of the Form of Code Acceptance and rules prescribed by the Commission for filing acceptances, and a copy of the Bituminous Coal Code as promulgated under date of June 21, 1937.

The Secretary shall cause a copy of this Order to be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and shall also publish a copy thereof in a newspaper of general circulation in each county within the State of Michigan known to produce bituminous coal, publication thereof to be made three (3) times within fourteen (14) days from the date of this Order.

DETERMINATION OF PROPORTIONATE SHARES FOR SUGARCANE PRODUCERS IN PUERTO RICO FOR THE CROP YEARS 1938 AND 1939, PURSUANT TO THE SUGAR ACT OF 1937

[Revised]

Whereas, Section 302 of the Sugar Act of 1937 provides in part as follows:

(a) The amount of sugar or liquid sugar with respect to which payment may be made shall be the amount of sugar or liquid sugar commercially recoverable, as determined by the Secretary, from the sugar beets or sugarcane grown on the farm and marketed (or processed by the producer) not in excess of the proportionate share for the farm, as determined by the Secretary, of the quantity of sugar beets or sugarcane for the extraction of sugar or liquid sugar required to be processed to enable the producing area in which the crop of sugar beets or sugarcane is grown to meet the quota (and provide a normal carry-over inventory) estimated by the Secretary for such area for the calendar year during which the larger part of the sugar or liquid sugar from such crop normally would be marketed.

(b) In determining the proportionate shares with respect to a farm, the Secretary may take into consideration the past production on the farm of sugar beets and sugarcane marketed (or processed) for the extraction of sugar or liquid sugar and the ability to produce such sugar beets or sugarcane, and the Secretary shall, insofar as practicable, protect the interests of new producers and small producers and the interests of producers who are cash tenants, share-tenants, adherent planters, or share-croppers.

Whereas, subsection (c) of section 301 of said act provides, as one of the conditions for payment to producers of sugar beets and sugarcane, as follows:

"(c) That there shall not have been marketed (or processed) an amount (in terms of planted acreage, weight, or recoverable sugar content) of sugar beets or sugarcane grown on the farm and used for the production of sugar or liquid sugar to be marketed in, or so as to compete with or otherwise directly affect interstate or foreign commerce, in excess of the proportionate share for the farm, as determined by the Secretary pursuant to the provisions of section 302, of the total quantity of sugar beets or sugarcane required to be processed to enable the area in which such sugar beets or sugarcane are produced to meet the quota (and provide a normal carry-over inventory) as estimated by the Secretary for such area for the calendar year during which the larger part of the sugar or liquid sugar from such crop normally would be marketed."

Now, therefore, pursuant to the foregoing sections of the said act, I, H. A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, do hereby determine that proportionate shares for sugarcane producers in Puerto Rico for the crop years 1938 and 1939 shall be established on the following bases:

I

1. For a producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was established, pursuant to the provisions of Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5, issued November 24, 1936, such 1937 marketing allotment shall constitute his 1937 base, and his proportionate share for the 1938 crop shall be calculated, in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, by multiplying such 1937 base by a fraction whose numerator shall be the sum of the initial sugar quotas established for Puerto Rico for the calendar year 1938, pursuant to sections 201 and 203 of the said act, plus whatever amount may be required to provide a normal carry-over inventory for Puerto Rico pursuant to section 302 (a) of the said act, and whose denominator shall be the total of such 1937 bases, plus the total of the 1937 bases determined for new growers[1] as provided in 2 and 3 below. A producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was established as aforesaid, and who is now growing sugarcane on land covered by a 1937 marketing allotment but from which no sugarcane was harvested during the crop year 1931, 1932 or 1934, or any subsequent crop year, may be considered as a new grower for 1938 with respect to such new production, in accordance with the provisions of 2 and 3 below.

2. For a producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was not established pursuant to the provisions of the said Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5, and whose current production, as estimated by the Secretary of Agriculture, is 15 tons of sugar, raw value, or less, the production so estimated shall constitute his 1937 base, and his proportionate share for the 1938 crop shall be calculated, in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, by adjusting such 1937 base in the manner specified in 1 above.

3. For a producer for whom a 1937 marketing allotment was not established pursuant to the provisions of the said Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5, and whose current production, as estimated by the Secretary of Agriculture, is more than 15 tons of sugar, raw value, the 1937 base shall be the greater of either:

(a) 15 tons, plus an amount determined by multiplying the first ton of such estimated production in excess of 15 tons by 98 per centum, and thereafter by multiplying each successive ton by a percentage figure which shall be progressively reduced by 2 per centum for every such ton;

(b) 50 per centum of the current production in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, estimated as aforesaid, provided, however, that such 50 per centum is not in excess of 1,000 tons; and his proportionate share for the 1938 crop year shall be calculated in terms of short tons of sugar, raw value, by adjusting such 1937 base in the manner specified in 1 above.

II

For the crop year 1939, proportionate shares shall be established in the same manner as set forth above, except that for a producer for whom a proportionate share was established in 1938, such proportionate share plus the base, if any, resulting from new production on land not covered by a 1938 proportionate share, shall constitute the base to be adjusted for the crop year 1939 as provided in 1 above, and the figure resulting from such adjustment shall be the proportionate share for the crop year 1939; and except, further, that for a producer for whom a proportionate share was not established in 1938 (i. e., for a new grower for 1939), the figure obtained pursuant to the provisions of 2 or of alternative (a) of 3 above, or of alternative (b) of 3 above (limited to fall plantings made prior to October 1, 1937 for harvest in 1939), whichever is applicable, shall constitute the base to be adjusted as provided in 1 above, and the figure resulting from such adjustment shall be the proportionate share for the crop year 1939.

III

1. Where a producer wishes to be considered as a new grower for any of the years referred to above, application must be made at such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

2. In the event that a proportionate share for any year, established in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this determination, is not filled, the unfilled portion thereof shall be prorated, on the basis of the proportionate shares then in effect, among all other producers within the same mill area who are able to supply such unfilled portion.

IV

In addition to the foregoing, the following conditions shall be met:

1. That no change shall have been made in the leasing or cropping agreements for the purpose of, or which shall have the effect of, diverting to any producer any payment to which share-tenants or share-croppers would be entitled if the 1937 leasing or cropping agreements were in effect.

2. That there shall have been no interference by any producer with contracts heretofore entered into by tenants or share-croppers for the sale of their sugarcane.

V

The Chief, or the Acting Chief, of the Sugar Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and the Officer in Charge of the San Juan office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, or the Acting Officer in Charge thereof, are hereby designated to act, jointly or severally, as agents of the Secretary of Agriculture in administering the provisions of this determination.

This determination supersedes the "Determination of Proportionate Shares for Sugarcane Producers in Puerto Rico for the Crop Years 1938 and 1939, Pursuant to the Sugar Act of 1937", issued November 18, 1937.

Done at Washington, D. C. this 11th day of January 1938. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

[SEAL] H. A. WALLACE,
Secretary of Agriculture.

[1] A new grower (producer) for the 1938 crop year shall be the person who is the legal owner of the sugarcane crop grown on land for which a 1937 marketing allotment was not established pursuant to the provisions of Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 5; and for the crop year 1939, a new grower (producer) shall be the person who is the legal owner of the sugarcane crop grown on land for which a proportionate share for 1938 has not been established pursuant to the provisions of this determination.

LIST OF PRODUCTS ON WHICH THE UNITED STATES WILL CONSIDER GRANTING CONCESSIONS TO TURKEY

With reference to his public notice, issued today, of intention to negotiate a trade agreement with the Government of Turkey, the Secretary of State announces that, unless supplementary announcement is made, the granting of concessions by the United States will be considered only with respect to the articles listed below. However, interested persons may present to the Committee for Reciprocity Information information or views concerning concessions on any article imported into the United States from Turkey, or concerning any article imported into that country from the United States.

The attached list is not a list of articles on which concessions are proposed, but rather a list of articles which will come under consideration for the possible granting of concessions. Their publication enables interested persons to learn whether or not products in which they are interested may be considered for the granting of concessions to the Government of Turkey. Concessions will not be granted on any article not covered by the present or supplementary listing, and decision to grant a concession on any article covered in the listing will not be made until after the dates set by the Committee for Reciprocity Information for the presentation of briefs and for supplementary oral hearings. Some of the products listed may not be the subject of any concession under the terms of the agreement, and the import duties on those items which are included in the agreement as finally negotiated may or may not be changed.

For the purpose of facilitating identification of the articles listed, reference is made in the list to the paragraph numbers of the tariff schedules in the Tariff Act of 1930. The descriptive phraseology is however in many cases limited to a narrower field than that covered by the numbered tariff paragraph. In such cases only the articles covered by the descriptive phraseology of the list will come under consideration for the granting of concessions. Concessions ultimately granted may cover articles as described in the list, or may be limited to certain specific commodities or groups of commodities falling within the limits of the descriptive phraseology of the list.

NOTICE

To A. L. GARBER, doing business as Morgan County Livestock Auction Company, Fort Morgan, Colo.

Whereas Section 301 of Title III of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate and foreign commerce in livestock, livestock products, dairy products, poultry, poultry products, and eggs, and for other purposes", approved August 15, 1921, provides in part that, when used in said Act, the term "stockyard owner" means any person engaged in the business of conducting or operating a stockyard; and Section 302 of said Act provides as follows:

(a) When used in this title the term "stockyard" means any place, establishment, or facility commonly known as stockyards, conducted or operated for compensation or profit as a public market, consisting of pens, or other inclosures, and their appurtenances, in which live cattle, sheep, swine, horses, mules, or goats are received, held, or kept for sale or shipment in commerce. FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.

TEMPORARY EXTENSION OF RULE 337A

The Commission on December 31, 1937 adopted the following circular to be forwarded to all licensees of police stations:

To All Licensees of Police Stations:

The Commission has received a number of inquiries as to its attitude with respect to the provisions of Rule 337a after January 1, 1938. Rule 337a reads:

"State and municipal police stations, although licensed primarily for communication with mobile police units, may transmit emergency messages to other mobile units such as fire department vehicles, private ambulances and repair units of public utilities, in those cases which require cooperation or coordination with police activities. In addition, such stations may communicate among themselves provided (1) that no interference is caused to the mobile service, and (2) that communication is limited to places between which, by reason of their close proximity, the use of police radiotelegraph stations is impracticable. State and municipal police stations shall not engage in point-to-point radiocommunication beyond the good service range of the transmitting station or transmit or handle communications requiring radiotelephone relay; provided, however, that pending the installation and licensing of the equipment authorized by Rule 328d, but in no event after January 1, 1938, such stations may operate as zone police stations using type A3 emission on their regularly assigned frequencies subject to the condition that no interference is caused to the mobile service. Point-to-point communication between stations in the same local telephone exchange area is likewise prohibited unless the messages to be transmitted are of immediate importance to mobile units."

The Commission is more than ever convinced that long distance point-to-point transmission and the relay of messages by voice, such as is prohibited by Rule 337a, is entirely unsatisfactory from the points of view both of interference and law enforcement. Therefore, no change in the existing rule is contemplated.

It is realized that certain instrumentalities of government cannot possibly obtain by January 1, 1938, the equipment necessary to meet the provisions of this rule because of economic considerations. Therefore, applications received by the Commission from individual licensees requesting temporary extension of time beyond January 1, 1938, will be considered provided that such applications are supported by copies of purchase orders or other equally substantial evidence of an immediate intention to comply with the regulations.

NOTICE

JANUARY 13, 1938.

To I. M. BEASLEY, doing business as Jackson Livestock Commission Company, Jackson, Miss.

Whereas Section 301 of Title III of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate and foreign commerce in livestock, livestock products, dairy products, poultry, poultry products, and eggs, and for other purposes", approved August 15, 1921, provides in part that, when used in said Act, the term "stockyard owner" means any person engaged in the business of conducting or operating a stockyard; and Section 302 of said Act provides as follows:

(a) When used in this title the term "stockyard" means any place, establishment, or facility commonly known as stockyards, conducted or operated for compensation or profit as a public market, consisting of pens, or other inclosures, and their appurtenances, in which live cattle, sheep, swine, horses, mules, or goats are received, held, or kept for sale or shipment in commerce. This title shall not apply to a stockyard of which the area normally available for handling livestock, exclusive of runs, alleys, or passage ways, is less than twenty thousand square feet.

(b) The Secretary shall from time to time ascertain, after such inquiry as he deems necessary, the stockyards which come within the foregoing definition, and shall give notice thereof to the stockyard owners concerned, and give public notice thereof by posting copies of such notice in the stockyard, and in such other manner as he may determine. After the giving of such notice to the stockyard owner and to the public, the stockyard shall remain subject to the provisions of this title until like notice is given by the Secretary that such stockyard no longer comes within the foregoing definition:

RULING REGARDING DEDUCTIONS OR ALLOWANCES FROM INVOICES FOR ADVERTISING

The Commission directs the attention of Code Members, Sales Agents and Wholesalers who have made application for registration to the Commission, to Section XI of the Marketing Rules and Regulations promulgated by the Commission which prohibits a deduction or allowance from invoices of Code Members or Sales Agents for the purported purpose of defraying advertising costs. Such Marketing Rules and Regulations provide that if advertising is to be conducted, the cost therefor should be defrayed in some other manner.

Any Code Member allowing a deduction or allowance from invoices for advertising, directly or through a Sales Agent, is liable to expulsion from the Code and the registration of any Wholesaler allowing same in like manner may be withheld or revoked.

The Secretary of the Commission is directed to mail a copy of this Ruling to each Code Member and Wholesaler who has made application for registration to the Commission. All Code Members are directed to inform their Sales Agents of this Ruling.

[F. R. Doc. 38-169; Filed, January 17, 1938; 12:46 p. m.]

RULING REGARDING SALES TO STATE, TERRITORIAL OR FEDERAL GOVERNMENTS

The Commission has received numerous inquiries from Code Members for interpretation of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937 in so far as it relates to sales for the exclusive use of the United States or any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, or any political subdivision of any of them, for use in the performance of governmental functions.

Section 3 (e) of the Act provides that the excise tax of 1 cent per ton of two thousand pounds imposed by Section 3 (a) of the Act shall not apply in the case of sales of coal to the above enumerated purchasers when such purchases are for use in the performance of governmental functions. Section 4, Part II (e) provides that no coal subject to the provisions of this section shall be sold or delivered or offered for sale at a price below the minimum or above the maximum therefor established by the Commission, and the sale or delivery or offer for sale of coal at a price below such minimum or above such maximum, shall constitute a violation of the code.

The Commission construes the above referred sections of the Act in light of the intent of Congress as permitting a reduction of 1 cent per ton of two thousand pounds below the minimum price established for such coal when sold for the exclusive use of the United States or any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, or any political subdivision of any of them, for use in the performance of governmental functions.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has provided in Regulations 98, Chapter IV, Article 31, the procedure by which exemption from tax on such sales may be obtained.

The Secretary of the Commission is directed to mail a copy of this Ruling to all Code Members.

By the Commission.

Dated this 15th day of January, 1938.

Order 353), dated June 1, 1935, and effective August 1, 1935, as amended, is hereby further amended by adding the Channel Islands (in the English Channel) to the list of countries in said order, as I have determined that foot-and-mouth disease now exists in the said Channel Islands and I have so officially notified the Secretary of the Treasury.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

United States of America—Before Federal Trade Commission

At a regular meeting of the Federal Trade Commission, held at its office in the City of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of January, A. D. 1938.

Commissioners: Garland S. Ferguson, Jr., Chairman; Charles H. March, Ewin L. Davis, William A. Ayres, Robert E. Freer.

[Docket No. 3263]

IN THE MATTER OF AGRICULTURAL LABORATORIES, INC., A CORPORATION

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. title 15, sec. 13), the Federal Trade Commission on November 10, 1937, issued and served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondent, Agricultural Laboratories, Inc., a corporation, charging it with discriminating in price between different purchasers of inoculants in violation of subsection (a) of Section 2 of the aforesaid Act.

After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of respondent's answer, the Commission, by order entered herein, granted respondent's motion for permission to withdraw said answer and to substitute therefor an answer admitting all the material allegations of the complaint to be true and waiving the taking of further evidence and all other intervening procedure, which substitute answer was duly filed in the office of the Commission. Thereafter, this proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission on the said complaint and the substitute answer, briefs and oral arguments of counsel having been waived, and the Commission having duly considered the same and being now fully advised in the premises, makes this its findings as to the facts and its conclusion drawn therefrom:

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS

PARAGRAPH 1. Said corporate respondent, Agricultural Laboratories, Inc., now is, and at all times since June 19, 1936, has been a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Ohio, with its principal office and plant located at 3415 Milton Avenue, Columbus, Ohio. At all times herein mentioned, said respondent has been engaged in the business of developing, selling and distributing certain nitrogen fixing bacteria, useful for inoculating the seeds of leguminous plants, from its said place of business in the State of Ohio to various purchasers of said bacteria located in the State of Ohio and the several states of the United States and there has been and is now between respondent and purchasers of said bacteria a course of trade and commerce in said bacteria in and between the State of Ohio and the several states of the United States.

PAR. 2. The respondent is a member of the commercial legume inoculant industry of the United States which industry grows, sells and distributes commercial inoculants to the value of approximately $1,000,000 in gross annual sales. There are approximately fourteen members of this industry, all competitively engaged one with the other in the sale and distribution in commerce of commercial inoculants. The bacteria are grown for the inoculation of seeds of leguminous plants. The bacteria are encouraged to multiply from various strains and are then placed in a carrier, which is either a jelly or a humus medium such as peat or charcoal, for commercial distribution. Seeds of leguminous plants are saturated with the bacteria before planting. These bacteria have the function of associating with legume plants, with the result that an adequate number of bacterial nodules are formed on the roots of the plants to extract nitrogen from the air for the purpose of aiding luxuriant growth of the plant. Principally these inoculants are placed upon alfalfa and sweet clover seeds, soy beans, peas and other legumes.

PAR. 3. Said respondent confines its sales generally to wholesale distributors and attempts to select one for each trade area in which it sells. Such wholesalers sell to retail dealers as well as directly to farmers. Additionally respondent sells its product to the two largest mail order houses who sell to consumers throughout the United States. The respondent also sells to some farm bureaus which, however, generally do not compete with respondent's wholesale distributors. Respondent sells to a few retailers. Some of respondent's customers are competitively engaged in commerce in the resale and distribution of the inoculant product with other of respondent's customers. The farm bureaus compete with retail dealers in selling to the farmers.

PAR. 4. Respondent sells its product to its wholesalers at various prices of from 14¢ to 16¢ for the one bushel size. Retail distributors pay 30¢ for the one bushel size. Some of the product is sold on a delivered basis and some customers, paying the highest price are sold F. O. B. Columbus, Ohio. The farm bureaus all purchase at a price of 14¢ delivered. The mail order houses purchase at 20¢ delivered for the one bushel size with the privilege of returning unsold goods. The farm bureaus are not allowed to return unsold goods but may return empty cans and obtain a credit of 2¢ a can. Wholesalers may return not to exceed 10% of their annual purchases. The respondent sells to a farm bureau at 14¢ and also sells at 14¢ to a competing wholesaler. Respondent departs from its regular policy with this wholesaler and does not allow the return of goods but only the 2¢ credit for each empty can returned. However, the farm bureau purchases on a 14¢ delivered price basis whereas the competing wholesaler purchases on a 14¢ non-delivered price basis, that is in the latter instance, F. O. B. Columbus, Ohio.

PAR. 5. The granting of a lower price to some customers comparatively engaged with other customers in the resale of the inoculant is under the circumstances set forth above a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondent's product, which purchases are for use, consumption or resale within the United States.

PAR. 6. The effect of said discriminations in price may be substantially to lessen competition and tend to create a monopoly in the line of commerce in which the respondent is engaged and in the line of commerce in which its distributors are engaged; and the effect of said discrimination may be to injure, destroy or prevent competition with the respondent and with certain favored distributors and with customers of such favored distributors.

PAR. 7. The costs of growing, selling and delivery are generally not substantially affected by quantity purchases, largely due to the practice of accepting the return of goods unsold, which returned goods are then practically valueless.

PAR. 8. The discriminations in price set forth above do not make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodity is to such purchasers sold or delivered. That such price differentials were not in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned.

CONCLUSION

The aforesaid acts and practices of respondent, as set out in Paragraph Five hereof, are in violation of Section 2 (a) of said Act of Congress entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes', approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. Title 15, Section 13), and for other purposes."

By the Commission.

Dated this 12th day of January, A. D. 1938.

ORDER TO CEASE AND DESIST

This proceeding having been heard by the Federal Trade Commission upon the complaint of the Commission and the respondent admitting all the material allegations of the complaint to be true and waiving the taking of evidence and all other intervening procedure, and the Commission having made its findings as to the facts and its conclusions, which findings and conclusions are hereby made a part hereof, that said respondent has violated the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," approved October 15, 1914, as amended:

It is ordered, That the respondent, Agricultural Laboratories, Inc., its officers, representatives, agents and employees, in connection with the offering for sale, sale and distribution of commercial inoculant in interstate commerce or in the District of Columbia, do forthwith cease and desist from the unlawful discriminations in price found in Paragraph Five of the aforesaid Findings as to the Facts and Conclusions.

It is further ordered, That the said respondent, Agricultural Laboratories, Inc., within sixty (60) days from the date of the service upon it of this order, shall file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it is complying and has complied with the order to cease and desist hereinabove set forth.

IN THE MATTER OF HANSEN INOCULATOR COMPANY, INC., A CORPORATION

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. title 15, sec. 13), the Federal Trade Commission on November 10, 1937, issued and served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondent, Hansen Inoculator Company, Inc., a corporation, charging it with discriminating in price between different purchasers of inoculants in violation of subsection (a) of Section 2 of the aforesaid Act.

After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of respondent's answer, the Commission, by order entered herein, granted respondent's motion for permission to withdraw said answer and to substitute therefor an answer admitting all the material allegations of the complaint to be true and waiving the taking of further evidence and all other intervening procedure, which substitute answer was duly filed in the office of the Commission. Thereafter, this proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission on the said complaint and the substitute answer, briefs and oral arguments of counsel having been waived, and the Commission having duly considered the same and being now fully advised in the premises, makes this its findings as to the facts and the conclusion drawn therefrom:

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS

PARAGRAPH 1. Said corporate respondent, Hansen, Inoculator Company, Inc., now is, and at all times since June 19, 1936, has been a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Illinois, with its principal office and plant located at 808 North Lincoln Avenue, Urbana, Illinois. At all times herein mentioned, said respondent has been engaged in the business of selling and distributing bacteria inoculation for the seeds of leguminous plants to customers located in the several states of the United States, more particularly to customers in states between Maine and Minnesota on the North, and Mississippi and Florida on the South, and including these named states, and there has been and is now a course in trade and commerce in said bacteria in and between the state of Illinois and the several states of the United States.

PAR. 2. The respondent is a member of the commercial legume inoculant industry of the United States which industry grows, sells and distributes commercial inoculants to the value of approximately $1,000,000 in gross annual sales. There are approximately fourteen members of this industry, all competitively engaged one with the other in the sale and distribution in commerce of commercial inoculants. The bacteria are grown for the inoculation of seeds of leguminous plants. The bacteria are encouraged to multiply from various strains and are then placed in a carrier, which is either a jelly or a humus medium such as peat or charcoal, for commercial distribution. Seeds of leguminous plants are saturated with the bacteria before planting. These bacteria have the function of associating with legume plants, with the result that an adequate number of bacterial nodules are formed on the roots of the plants to extract nitrogen from the air for the purpose of aiding luxuriant growth of the plant. Principally these inoculants are placed upon alfalfa and sweet clover seeds, soy beans, peas and other legumes.

PAR. 3. Said respondent classifies its customers as consumers, retail dealers and jobbers. One who sells to consumers is considered to be a retail dealer and one who sells to dealers a jobber. However, in this industry there are very few distributors who sell only as dealers or jobbers. Generally distributors called jobbers sell both to consumers and to dealers. Additionally a large portion of the respondent's product is sold through farm bureaus which, in turn, sell the inoculant to farmers and occasionally to local elevators and other dealers.

PAR. 4. Some of respondent's customers are competitively engaged in commerce in the resale and distribution of the inoculant product with other of respondent's customers. The farm bureaus compete with retail dealers in selling to the farmers. Customers classified by the respondent as jobbers usually purchase in commerce respondent's inoculant, which they re-sell to consumers at a lower price than do other of respondent's customers competing for the same consumer business but who are classified and sold at retailers' list.

PAR. 5. Said respondent, Hansen Inoculator Company, Inc., issued a 1937 Distributor Price List effective January 1, 1937. Respondent has been and now is generally selling its products to its customers at such list prices less 20% off such jobbers' and dealers' lists, said distributor price list being as follows:

Prices F. O. B. Urbana, Illinois. Terms: 2% 10 days, net 30 days. Left over cultures are returnable, prepaid, for credit or exchange.

The consumer's price is placed on the labels of the products. In many instances the labels, whether they bear private brand names or the Hansen name, resemble each other having green borders and background of leguminous plants and similar language. The inoculant is the same regardless of the label on the container. Prices to county farm bureaus vary and are frequently as low as 14¢ for the one bushel size.

PAR. 6. County farm bureaus retail the one bushel size frequently for 30¢ having purchased the same at 14¢, or retail the 2½ bushel size at 50¢ where they purchase at 28¢. Competing dealers pay 24¢ for the one bushel size and 48¢ for the 2½ bushel size. County farm bureaus sell to non-members also.

PAR. 7. Said respondent distributes its inoculant by means of traveling salesmen in the States of Iowa, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and Ohio. Orders obtained by the salesmen are delivered by the respondent and collections are also made by the respondent. Such salesmen work on a commission basis. These salesmen sell at varying prices which are not related to savings in cost of production, sale or delivery or functions performed by the buyer in the resale of the goods.

PAR. 8. The difference in prices, resulting from the said classifications as set forth in Paragraphs Three and Five, of inoculant of like grade and quality to customers competitively engaged in reselling the same to consumers is, as to that portion of such inoculant under the circumstances hereinbefore set forth, a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondent's inoculant.

PAR. 9. The difference in prices, resulting from the said classifications as set forth in Paragraphs Three and Five, of inoculant of like grade and quality to customers competitively engaged in reselling the same to dealers is, as to that portion of such inoculant under the circumstances hereinbefore set forth, a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondent's inoculant.

PAR. 10. Respondent sells to a certain dealer-jobber the one bushel size humus or jelly for 15¢ under a private brand. The dealer-jobber, in turn resells and distributes the same in commerce to consumers located in adjoining states for 35¢. The said dealer referred to herein is in competition with other dealer customers of the respondent, who are required to pay 24¢ for the one bushel size of the same inoculant sold under respondent's name. The dealer referred to advertises in commerce that the inoculator "is made for us under our own label, by a reliable manufacturer at Urbana, Illinois" and, as stated in Paragraph Five hereof, the labels are similar regardless of whether they bear the Hansen or private brand name. The differential in price amounts to and is under the circumstances set forth above a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondent's product, which purchases are for use, consumption and resale within the United States.

PAR. 11. The effect of said discriminations in price may be substantially to lessen competition and tend to create a monopoly in the line of commerce in which the respondent is engaged and in the line of commerce in which its distributors are engaged; and the effect of said discriminations may be to injure, destroy or prevent competition with the respondent and with certain favored distributors and with customers of such favored distributors.

PAR. 12. The costs of growing, selling and delivery are generally not substantially affected by quantity purchases, largely due to the practice of accepting the return of goods unsold, which returned goods are then practically valueless.

PAR. 13. The discriminations in price set forth above do not make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodity is to such purchasers sold or delivered. That such price differentials were not in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned.

CONCLUSION

The aforesaid acts and practices of respondent as set out in Paragraphs Eight, Nine and Ten hereof are in violation of Section 2 (a) of said Act of Congress entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes' approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. Title 15, Section 13) and for other purposes".

This proceeding having been heard by the Federal Trade Commission upon the complaint of the Commission and the respondent admitting all the material allegations of the complaint to be true and waiving the taking of evidence and all other intervening procedure, and the Commission having made its findings as to the facts and its conclusions, which findings and conclusions are hereby made a part hereof, that said respondent has violated the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914, as amended:

It is ordered, That the respondent, Hansen Inoculator Company, Inc., its officers, representatives, agents and employees, in connection with the offering for sale, sale and distribution of commercial inoculant in interstate commerce or in the District of Columbia, do forthwith cease and desist from the unlawful discriminations in price found in Paragraphs Eight, Nine and Ten of the aforesaid Findings as to the Facts and Conclusions.

It is further ordered, That the said respondent, Hansen Inoculator Company, Inc., within sixty (60) days from the date of the service upon it of this order, shall file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it is complying and has complied with the order to cease and desist hereinabove set forth.

IN THE MATTER OF ALBERT L. WHITING AND LUCILLE D. WHITING, INDIVIDUALS TRADING UNDER THE FIRM NAME AND STYLE OF "THE URBANA LABORATORIES", RESPONDENTS

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. title 15, sec. 13), the Federal Trade Commission on November 10, 1937, issued and served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents, Albert L. Whiting and Lucille D. Whiting, trading under the firm style and name "The Urbana Laboratories", a partnership, charging them with discriminating in price between different purchasers of inoculants in violation of subsection (a) of Section 2 of the aforesaid Act.

After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of respondents' answer, the Commission, by order entered herein, granted respondents' motion for permission to withdraw said answer and to substitute therefor an answer admitting all the material allegations of the complaint to be true and waiving the taking of further evidence and all other intervening procedure, which substitute answer was duly filed in the office of the Commission. Thereafter, this proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission on the said complaint and the substitute answer, briefs and oral arguments of counsel having been waived, and the Commission having duly considered the same and being now fully advised in the premises, makes this its findings as to the facts and the conclusions drawn therefrom:

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS

PARAGRAPH 1. Said respondents, Albert L. Whiting and Lucille D. Whiting, trade under the firm style and name "The Urbana Laboratories", a partnership, and maintain their principal office and plant at 406 North Lincoln Avenue, Urbana, Illinois. At all times herein mentioned, said respondents have been engaged in the business of selling and distributing bacteria inoculation for the seeds of leguminous plants to customers located in the several states of the United States, more particularly to customers in the states located between Ohio, on the East, and Kansas, on the West, and North and South the width of the country, and there has been and is now a course of trade and commerce in said bacteria in and between the State of Illinois and the several states of the United States.

PAR. 2. Said respondents are members of the commercial legume inoculant industry of the United States which grows, sells and distributes commercial inoculants to the value of approximately $1,000,000 in gross annual sales. There are approximately fourteen members of this industry, all competitively engaged one with the other in the sale and distribution in commerce of commercial inoculants. The bacteria are grown for the inoculation of seeds of leguminous plants. The bacteria are encouraged to multiply from various strains and are then placed in a carrier, which is either a jelly or a humus medium such as peat or charcoal, for commercial distribution. Seeds of leguminous plants are saturated with the bacteria before planting. These bacteria have the function of associating with legume plants, with the result that an adequate number of bacterial nodules are formed on the roots of the plants to extract nitrogen from the air for the purpose of aiding luxuriant growth of the plant. Principally these inoculants are placed upon alfalfa and sweet clover seeds, soy beans, peas and other legumes.

PAR. 3. Said respondents classify their customers as consumers, retail dealers and jobbers. One who sells to consumers is considered to be a retail dealer and one who sells to dealers a jobber. However, in this industry there are very few distributors who sell only as dealers or jobbers. Generally distributors called jobbers sell both to consumers and dealers. Additionally a large portion of respondents' product is sold through farm bureaus which, in turn, sell the inoculant to farmers and occasionally to local elevators and other dealers.

PAR. 4. Some of respondent's customers are competitively engaged in commerce in the resale and distribution of the inoculant product with certain other of respondents' customers. The farm bureaus compete with retail dealers in selling to the farmers.

PAR. 5. Said respondents issued a 1937 dealer price list, effective January 1, 1937. Respondents have and are generally selling their products to their customers at such list prices, said price list being as follows:

ALFALFA, SWEET CLOVERS (GROUP 2)—RED, ALSIKE, WHITE, CRIMSON, MAMMOTH CLOVERS (GROUP 1)

Quantity	1 bu. size	2½ bu. size
Each	$0.38	$0.75
1 dozen	.32	.65
3 dozen	.30	.62
Retail Price	.50	1.00

SOY BEANS (GROUP 5)—COWPEAS, LIMA BEANS, VELVET BEANS (GROUP 3)—PEAS, VETCHES, AUSTRIAN PEAS (GROUP 4)—BEANS (GROUP 6)

Quantity	2 bu. size	5 bu. size
Each	$0.38	$0.75
1 dozen	.32	.65
3 dozen	.30	.62
Retail Price	.50	1.00

SMALLER SIZES

Quantity	Alfalfa, Sweet Clovers, Clovers—½ bu. size	Soy Beans, Cowpeas, Peas, Vetches, Beans—1 bu. size
Each	$0.28	$0.28
3 dozen	.20	.20

Left over cultures are returnable, prepaid, for credit or exchange.

The consumer's price is placed on the labels of the products. Prices to certain county farm bureaus vary and are frequently as low as 17¢ for the one bushel size which is sold to many dealers for 30¢ and to a number for 20¢. County farm bureaus retail the one bushel size frequently at a lower price than small independent merchants, having purchased the one bushel size at from 17¢ to 20¢ or the 2½ bushel size at from 34¢ to 40¢. A typical competitive situation disclosed one dealer selling at 50¢ and purchasing the one bushel size at 30¢. A competing dealer likewise sold at 50¢ and likewise purchased at 30¢ but had the postage paid. Another dealer, competing with the first-named, sells at 40¢ but buys at 20¢ and states that his lower price is made to meet competition created by the county farm bureau. Many county farm bureaus sell to non-members also. These county farm bureaus are direct competitors of independent retail merchants buying at higher prices. Where, in fact, jobbing services are rendered by state or county farm bureaus, nothing herein contained shall preclude jobber prices on that portion which is jobbed.

PAR. 6. The difference in prices, resulting from the said classifications as set forth in Paragraphs Three and Five, of inoculant of like grade and quality to customers competitively engaged in reselling the same to consumers is, as to that portion of such inoculant under the circumstances hereinbefore set forth, a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondents' inoculant.

PAR. 7. The difference in prices, resulting from the said classifications as set forth in Paragraphs Three and Five, of inoculant of like grade and quality to customers competitively engaged in reselling the same to dealers is, as to that portion of such inoculant under the circumstances hereinbefore set forth, a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondents' inoculant.

PAR. 8. The effect of said discriminations in price may be substantially to lessen competition and tend to create a monopoly in the line of commerce in which the respondents are engaged and in the line of commerce in which their distributors are engaged; and the effect of said discrimination may be to injure, destroy or prevent competition with the respondents and with certain favored distributors and with customers of such favored distributors.

PAR. 9. The costs of growing, selling and delivery are generally not substantially affected by quantity purchases, largely due to the practice of accepting the return of goods unsold, which returned goods are then practically valueless.

PAR. 10. The discriminations in price set forth above do not make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodity is to such purchasers sold or delivered. That such price differentials were not in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned.

CONCLUSION

The aforesaid acts and practices of respondent, as set out in Paragraphs Six and Seven hereof, are in violation of Section 2 (a) of said Act of Congress entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes', approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. Title 15, Section 13), and for other purposes."

It is ordered, That the respondents, Albert L. Whiting and Lucille D. [Docket No. 3266]

IN THE MATTER OF THE NITRAGIN COMPANY, INC., A CORPORATION

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C., title 15, sec. 13), the Federal Trade Commission on November 10, 1937, issued and served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondent. The Nitragin Company, Inc., a corporation, charging it with discriminating in price between different purchasers of inoculants in violation of subsection (a) of Section 2 of the aforesaid Act.

After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of respondent's answer, the Commission, by order entered herein, granted respondent's motion for permission to withdraw said answer and to substitute therefor an answer admitting all the material allegations of the complaint to be true and waiving the taking of further evidence and all other intervening procedure, which substitute answer was duly filed in the office of the Commission. Thereafter, this proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission on the said complaint and the substitute answer, briefs and oral arguments of counsel having been waived, and the Commission having duly considered the same and being now fully advised in the premises, makes this its findings as to the facts and its conclusion drawn therefrom:

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS

PARAGRAPH 1. Said corporate respondent, The Nitragin Company, Inc., now is, and at all times since June 19, 1936, has been a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Wisconsin, with its principal office and plant located at 3747 North Booth Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. At all times herein mentioned, said respondent has been engaged in the business of developing, selling and distributing certain nitrogen fixing bacteria, useful for inoculating the seeds of leguminous plants, from its said place of business in the State of Wisconsin to various purchasers of said bacteria located in the State of Wisconsin and the several states of the United States and there has been and is now between respondent and purchasers of said bacteria a course of trade and commerce in said bacteria in and between the State of Wisconsin and the several states of the United States.

PAR. 2. The respondent is the largest member of the commercial legume inoculant industry of the United States which industry grows, sells and distributes commercial inoculants to the value of approximately $1,000,000 in gross annual sales. There are approximately fourteen members of this industry, all competitively engaged one with the other in the sale and distribution in commerce of commercial inoculants. The bacteria are grown for the inoculation of seeds of leguminous plants. The bacteria are encouraged to multiply from various strains and are then placed in a carrier, which is either a jelly or a humus medium such as peat or charcoal, for commercial distribution. Seeds of leguminous plants are saturated with the bacteria before planting. These bacteria have the function of associating with legume plants, with the result that an adequate number of bacterial nodules are formed on the roots of the plants to extract nitrogen from the air for the purpose of aiding luxuriant growth of the plant. Principally these inoculants are placed upon alfalfa and sweet clover seeds, soy beans, peas and other legumes.

PAR. 3. Said respondent classifies its customers as consumers, retail dealers and jobbers. One who sells to consumers is considered to be a retail dealer and one who sells to dealers a jobber. However, in this industry there are very few distributors who sell only as dealers or jobbers. Generally distributors called jobbers sell both to consumers and to dealers. Additionally a large portion of the respondent's product is sold through county farm bureaus, which, in turn, sell the inoculant to farmers and occasionally to local elevators and other dealers. A considerable portion of the respondent's product is also sold to mail order catalog houses who resell to consumers.

PAR. 4. Some of respondent's customers are competitively engaged in commerce in the resale and distribution of the inoculant product with other of respondent's customers. The farm bureaus compete with retail dealers in selling to the farmers. Customers classified by the respondent as jobbers usually purchase in commerce respondent's inoculant, which they re-sell to consumers at a lower price than do other of respondent's customers competing for the same consumer business but who are classified and sold at retailers' list. Mail order catalog houses compete with retail dealers in selling to farmers.

PAR. 5. Said respondent, The Nitragin Company, Inc., issued a 1937 Distributor Price List effective January 1, 1937. Respondent has been and now is generally selling its products to its customers at such list prices. However, some mail order catalog houses and some jobbers also receive an additional 20% off jobbers' list price, said distributors' price list being as follows:

ALFALFA AND ALL CLOVERS—CULTURES "A" AND "B"

To inoculate	Jobber price	Dealer price	Consumer price
½ bu.—30 lbs.	$0.17	$0.23	$0.35
1 bu.—60 lbs.	.28	.36	.55
2½ bu.—150 lbs.	.60	.78	1.20

LESPEDEZA—CULTURE "L"

1 bu.—30 lbs.	$0.17	$0.23	$0.35
2 bu.—60 lbs.	.28	.36	.55

SOY BEANS—CULTURE "S"—COWPEAS AND LIMA BEANS—CULTURE "E"

1 bu.—60 lbs.	$0.17	$0.23	$0.35
2 bu.—120 lbs.	.28	.36	.55
5 bu.—300 lbs.	.60	.78	1.20

VETCH AND PEAS—CULTURE "C"—BEANS—CULTURE "D"

½ bu.—30 lbs.	$0.15	$0.20	$0.30
1 bu.—60 lbs.	.22	.29	.45
1¾ bu.—100 lbs [1]	.33	.42	.65

[1] Only culture "E" packed in this size.

Left over cultures are returnable, prepaid, for credit or exchange.

The consumer's price is placed on the labels of the products. The inoculant, whether distributed under private label or under the producer's label is of like grade and quality. Prices to county farm bureaus vary but are generally jobbers' prices and in some instances an additional 20% off the jobbers' price is allowed.

PAR. 6. County farm bureaus purchasing at jobbers' price less 20% sell in some instances to jobbers, retailers and consumers and are generally in competition with both jobbers and retailers. Certain of these competing jobbers do not receive the 20% additional discount and thus competition with the county farm bureaus, receiving the additional 20% in addition to the jobbers' discount, is practically impossible. County farm bureaus sell in competition with independent retailers to non-members as well as to their own members.

PAR. 7. Certain jobbers receiving the jobbers' price less the additional 20% sell to county farm bureaus at jobbers' prices whereas other customers not receiving the 20% additional allowance are prevented from doing so.

PAR. 8. The respondent sells to retailers who purchase $100 or more in a year at jobbers' prices. Mail order catalog houses buy at jobbers' prices and some but not all receive an addditional 20% off such jobbers' list.

PAR. 9. The difference in prices, resulting from the said classifications as set forth in Paragraphs Three, Six and Eight, of inoculant of like grade and quality to customers competitively engaged in reselling the same to consumers is, as to that portion of such inoculant under the circumstances hereinbefore set forth, a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondent's inoculant.

PAR. 10. The difference in prices, resulting from the said classifications as set forth in Paragraphs Six, Seven and Eight, of inoculant of like grade and quality to customers competitively engaged in reselling the same to consumers is, as to that portion of such inoculant under the circumstances hereinbefore set forth, a discrimination in price in commerce between purchasers of respondent's inoculant.

PAR. 11. The effect of said discriminations in price may be substantially to lessen competition and tend to create a monopoly in the line of commerce in which its distributors are engaged; and the effect of said discriminations may be to injure, destroy or prevent competition with the respondent and with certain favored distributors and with customers of such favored distributors.

PAR. 12. The costs of growing, selling and delivery are generally not substantially affected by quantity purchases, largely due to the practice of accepting the return of goods unsold, which returned goods are then practically valueless.

PAR. 13. The discriminations in price set forth above do not make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodity is to such purchasers sold or delivered. That such price differentials were not in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned.

CONCLUSION

The aforesaid acts and practices of respondent as set out in Paragraphs Nine and Ten hereof are in violation of Section 2 (a) of said Act of Congress entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes' approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. Title 15, Section 13) and for other purposes".

"Section 302 of Title III of the Revenue Act of 1937 provides:

" 'The amendments made by this title shall apply only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936.' "

The heading and the first paragraph of article 24–5 (exclusive of the example therein given) is amended to read as follows:

"ART. 24–5. Losses from sales or exchanges between certain classes of persons for taxable years beginning prior to January 1, 1937.—The application of section 24 (a) (6) (prior to the amendment of section 24 (a) by the Revenue Act of 1937) may be illustrated generally by the following example:"

The last paragraph of article 24–5 is amended to read as follows:

"Under section 24 (a) (6) (prior to its amendment) none of the above-described losses of A are deductible from his gross income."

Article 24–6 is renumbered as article 24–8 and the following new article is inserted after article 24–5, as amended:

"ART. 24–6. Losses from sales or exchanges between certain classes of persons for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936.—(a) Individuals (including fiduciaries).—In the case of sales or exchanges of property, directly or indirectly, between individuals (including fiduciaries) section 24 (b) (1), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937, provides that no deduction shall be allowed with respect to losses arising therefrom in the following cases: (1) between members of a family as defined in section 24 (b) (2) (D); (2) between fiduciaries of trusts having a common grantor; (3) between a grantor and a fiduciary of the same trust; or (4) between a fiduciary of a trust and a beneficiary of such trust.

"(b) Corporations (including shareholders).—In the case of sales or exchanges of property where a corporation not acting in a fiduciary capacity is a party to the transaction, section 24 (b) (1) also provides that under certain circumstances no deduction shall be allowed with respect to losses arising from such sales or exchanges, directly or indirectly, between a corporation and an individual shareholder (see section 24 (b) (1) (B)) or between two corporations (see section 24 (b) (1) (C)). Under section 24 (b) (1) (B) it is necessary that there be owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the individual a party to the transaction, more than 50 percent in value of the stock of the other party to the transaction on the date of the sale or exchange. Under section 24 (b) (1) (C), however, as provided therein, not only must more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock of each of such corporations be owned, directly or indirectly, on the date of the sale or exchange by or for the same individual, but one of the corporations must be either a personal holding company as defined in section 352, or a foreign personal holding company as defined in section 331, for the taxable year preceding the date of the sale or exchange. Section 24 (b) (3), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937, makes an exception to the rule provided for in paragraph (1) of section 24 (b) (1) (C), by requiring that in a case in which the preceding taxable year referred to in that paragraph is the calendar year 1936 or any fiscal year beginning in 1936, the provisions of section 351 (b) (1) before amendment of Title IA by the Revenue Act of 1937 shall apply in determining whether with respect to such year either of the corporations was a personal holding company. It is not necessary under either rule that either of the corporations be a personal holding company or a foreign personal holding company on the date of the sale or exchange.

"(c) Stock ownership rule.—For the purpose of paragraph (b) of this article, the ownership of stock shall be determined in accordance with the rules provided in section 24 (b) (2), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937. In order that an individual shall be considered under section 24 (b) (2) (C) as constructively owning the stock of a corporation owned, directly or indirectly, by or for his partner, such individual must himself own, directly or indirectly, stock of such corporation. On the other hand, under section 24 (b) (2) (B) an individual need not own any stock of a corporation, either directly or indirectly, in order to be considered as constructively owning the stock of such corporation which is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for any member of his family.

"(d) Illustrations of the application of section 24 (b) as added by the Revenue Act of 1937.—The application of section 24 (b), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937, may be illustrated by the following examples:

"Example (1).—On July 1, 1937 the M Corporation owned all of the stock of the O Corporation which for the calendar year 1936 was a personal holding company under section 351 (b) (1) before the amendment of Title IA by the Revenue Act of 1937. On that day all of the outstanding stock of the M Corporation was owned by A. By the application of the rule provided in section 24 (b) (2) (A), the stock in the O Corporation owned by the M Corporation is considered to be owned constructively by A, the sole stockholder of the M Corporation. Such constructive ownership of the stock of the O Corporation by A is considered as actual ownership for the purpose of applying the family rule provided in section 24 (b) (2) (B) to make a member of A's family, as, for example, his wife AW, the constructive owner of the stock of the O Corporation. But the constructive ownership of the O Corporation stock by AW may not be considered as actual ownership by AW for the purpose of again applying the family rule so as to make a member of AW's family, for example, her father, AWF, in turn constructive owner of such stock. These rules apply in the same manner and with the same effect in determining the ownership of stock in the M Corporation.

"Accordingly, assuming that A, AW, AWF, the M Corporation and the O Corporation make their income returns on the basis of a calendar year and that there was no distribution in complete or partial liquidation of the M or O Corporation, no deduction is allowable under section 24 (b) (1), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937, with respect to losses from sales or exchanges of property made on July 1, 1937 between any of such individuals or corporations, except as between A and AWF and between AWF and the M or O Corporation.

"Example (2).—On June 15, 1937, all of the stock of the N Corporation was owned in equal proportions by A and A's partner, AP. Except in the case of distributions in complete or partial liquidation by the N Corporation, no deduction is allowable with respect to losses from sales or exchanges of property made on June 15, 1937, between A and the N Corporation or AP and the N Corporation inasmuch as, by the application of section 24 (b) (2) (C), each partner is considered as having owned the stock owned by the other and, therefore, is considered as having owned more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock of the N Corporation. Deductions for losses from sales or exchanges between A's brother, AB, and the N Corporation, or between AP and A, or AP and AB are not prohibited by section 24 (b), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937.

"Example (3).—Assuming the same facts as stated in the example given under article 24–5, as amended, except that the losses were incurred during the calendar year 1937, none of the losses of A would be deductible from his gross income."

The following new article is inserted under article 24–6, as amended:

"ART. 24–7. Disallowance of deductions for unpaid expenses and interest."

The application of section 24 (c), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937, may be illustrated by the following example:

"Example.—A is the holder and owner of an interest-bearing note executed by the M Corporation all of the stock of which is owned by him. A and the M Corporation make their income returns on the basis of a calendar year but the M Corporation makes its returns on the accrual basis and A makes his returns on the cash receipts and disbursements basis. The M Corporation does not pay any interest on such note during the calendar year 1937 or within two and one-half months after the close thereof, but claims a deduction for the year 1937 with respect to the interest accruing on the note in that year. A, being on the cash receipts and disbursements basis, does not include such interest in his return for the year 1937. By the application of section 24 (c), as added by the Revenue Act of 1937, no deduction for such interest is allowable in computing the net income of the M Corporation for the year 1937. The provisions of such section 24 (c) do not otherwise affect the general rules governing the allowance of deductions under the accrual basis. Hence in the event the M Corporation should pay such interest after March 15, 1938, no deduction therefor would be allowable in computing its net income for the year in which the payment was made."

The following is inserted immediately before article 48 (e)–1, relating to taxation of mutual investment companies in general:

Article 48 (e)–5 is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following paragraph:

"The provisions of the first paragraph of this article requiring statements to be demanded not later than thirty days after the close of the company's taxable year, insofar as such statements relate to the maximum number of shares of stock of the company to be considered as constructively owned by an individual at any time during the fiscal year of the company ending after August 26, 1937, and on or before November 30, 1937, shall be considered as having been complied with if such statements are demanded not later than January 31, 1938."

The paragraph numbered (4) of article 48 (e)–6, relating to additional information required in returns of shareholders, is amended by inserting after the words "section 351" the phrase "prior to the amendment of Title IA by the Revenue Act of 1937."

The paragraph numbered (5) of article 48 (e)–6, is amended by striking out the word "and" appearing at the end of that paragraph.

The paragraph numbered (6) of article 48 (e)–6 is amended by striking out the period at the end thereof and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon.

Article 48 (e)–6 is further amended by adding after the paragraph numbered (6) two new paragraphs to provide:

"(2) is composed in whole or in part of nonresident alien individuals who, by the application of section 211 (b) or 211 (c), would be subject to surtax with respect to distributions of the corporation which if made would constitute income from sources within the United States (see section 119) or"

The last sentence of the second paragraph of article 102–1 is amended to read as follows:

"On the other hand, the tax imposed by section 102 will not apply even though a foreign corporation, whether resident or nonresident, derives income from sources within the United States, if it is composed entirely of nonresident alien individuals who, by the application of section 211 (a) as amended, would not be subject to surtax with respect to distributions of the corporation if made."

The following is inserted immediately before article 113 (a) (5)–1, relating to the basis of property acquired by bequest, devise, or inheritance:

"Section 204 of Title II of the Revenue Act of 1937 enacted August 26, 1937, relating to foreign personal holding companies, provides:

"'SEC. 204. Basis of Stock in Foreign Personal Holding Company Acquired From Decedent.

"'Section 113 (a) (5) of the Revenue Act of 1936 is amended by adding at the end thereof a new sentence to read as follows:

"'"If the property was acquired by bequest, devise, or inheritance, or by the decedent's estate from the decendent, and if the decedent died after the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1937, and if the property consists of stock or securities of a foreign corporation, which with respect to its taxable year next preceding the date of the decedent's death was a foreign personal holding company, then the basis shall be the fair market value of such property at the time of such acquisition or the basis in the hands of the decedent, whichever is lower."'"

Paragraph (b) of article 113 (a) (5)–1, relating to the basis of property acquired by bequest, devise, or inheritance, is amended to read as follows:

"(b) Basis.—Section 113 (a) (5) provides two rules for determining the basis of property transmitted at death, a rule governing property generally and a special rule governing stock in a foreign personal holding company.

"(1) General rule.—Except as prescribed in paragraph (2) the basis of property acquired from a decedent by will or under the law governing the descent and distribution of the property of decedents is the fair market value at the time of such acquisition. Since under the law governing wills and the distribution of the property of decedents, all titles to property acquired by bequest, devise, or inheritance relate back to the death of the decedent, even though the interest of him who takes the title was, at the date of death of the decedent, legal, equitable, vested, contingent, general, specific, residual, conditional, executory, or otherwise, the time of the acquisition of such property is the death of the decedent. For example, if distribution of personal property left by a decedent is not made until one year after his death, the basis of such property in the hands of the legatee is its fair market value at the time when the decedent died, and not when the legatee actually received the property; or, if the bequest is of the residue to trustees in trust, and the executors do not distribute the residue to such trustees until five years after the death of the decedent, the basis of each piece of property left by the decedent and thus received, in the hands of the trustees, is its fair market value at the time when the decedent dies; or, if the bequest is to trustees in trust to pay to A during his lifetime the income of the property bequeathed, and after his death to distribute such property to the survivors of a class, and upon A's death the property is distributed to the taxpayer as the sole survivor, the basis of such property, in the hands of the taxpayer, is its fair market value at the time when the decedent died.

"The purpose of the Act, in prescribing a general uniform basis rule for property acquired by bequest, devise, or inheritance, is, on the one hand, to tax the gain, in respect of such property, to him who realizes it (without regard to the circumstance that at the death of the decedent it may have been quite uncertain whether the taxpayer would take or gain anything); and, on the other hand, not to recognize as gain any element of value solely from the circumstance that the possession or enjoyment of the taxpayer was postponed. Such postponement may be, for example, until the administration of the decedent's estate is completed, until the period of the possession or enjoyment of another has terminated, or until an uncertain event has happened. It is the increase or decrease in the value of property reflected in a sale or other disposition which section 113 (a) (5) recognizes as the measure of gain or loss.

"(2) Special rule with respect to stock in a foreign personal holding company.—In the case of decedents dying after August 26, 1937 the basis of stock of a foreign corporation acquired from the decedent by will or under the law governing descent and distribution of property of decedents, where such foreign corporation with respect to its taxable year next preceding the date of the decedent's death was a foreign personal holding company, is the fair market value of such stock at the time of such acquisition, i. e., the date of the decedent's death, or the basis in the hands of the decedent, whichever is lower."

The following is inserted immediately before article 113 (b)–1, relating to the general rule with respect to the adjusted basis:

"Section 203 of Title II of the Revenue Act of 1937, relating to foreign personal holding companies, provides:

"'SEC. 203. Adjusted Basis of Stock of Foreign Personal Holding Company.

"'Section 113 (b) (1) of the Revenue Act of 1936 is amended by striking out the period at the end thereof and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon and the following:

"'"and

"'"(E) to the extent provided in section 337 (f) in the case of the stock of United States shareholders in a foreign personal holding company."'"

Article 113 (b)–1 is amended by adding after the third paragraph from the end thereof a new paragraph to provide:

"In the case of the stock of United States shareholders in a foreign personal holding company the cost or other basis must be adjusted also to the extent provided in section 337 (f)."

The following is inserted immediately before article 142–1, relating to fiduciary returns:

"'Section 142 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1936 is amended to read as follows:

"'"(a) Requirement of return.—Every fiduciary (except a receiver appointed by authority of law in possession of part only of the property of an individual) shall make under oath a return for any of the following individuals, estates, or trusts for which he acts, stating specifically the items of gross income thereof and the deductions and credits allowed under this title and such other information for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this title as the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary may by regulations prescribe—

"'"(1) Every individual having a net income for the taxable year of $1,000 or over, if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife;

"'"(2) Every individual having a net income for the taxable year of $2,500 or over, if married and living with husband or wife;

"'"(3) Every individual having a gross income for the taxable year of $5,000 or over, regardless of the amount of his net income;

"'"(4) (A) Every estate, and every trust entitled to the personal exemption allowed by section 163 (a) (1), the net income of which for the taxable year is $1,000 or over.

"'"(B) Every trust, not entitled to a personal exemption under section 163 (a) (1), which has a net income for the taxable year.

"'"(5) Every estate or trust the gross income of which for the taxable year is $5,000 or over, regardless of the amount of the net income;

"'"(6) Every estate or trust of which any beneficiary is a nonresident alien; and

"'"(7) Regardless of the amount of the gross or net income, every trust, though having no net income, which would have a net income if distributions had not been made which under the terms of the trust instrument were in the discretion of the trustee or conditioned upon a contingency; but subject to such conditions; limitations, and exceptions and under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, a fiduciary required by this paragraph to file a return may be exempted from the requirement of filing such return."'"

"Section 403 of Title IV of the Revenue Act of 1937 provides:

"'The amendments made by this title shall apply only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936.'"

Article 142–1 is amended by inserting immediately after the first sentence thereof the following:

"In addition to the requirements stated in (a) and (b), every fiduciary, or at least one of joint fiduciaries, must, with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936, make a return of income for the trust for which he acts—

"(A) If the trust is not entitled to the personal exemption allowed by section 163 (a) (1), as amended by section 401 of the Revenue Act of 1937 (see article 163–1) and the trust has a net income for the taxable year; or

"(B) If (1) the trust has no net income and (2) under the terms of the trust instrument the income of the trust, in the discretion of the fiduciary, may be either distributed to the beneficiary or accumulated or the distribution of the income is based upon a contingency, and (3) the net income of the trust computed without the allowance of a deduction for the amount of the income of the trust properly paid or credited during the taxable year to any legatee, heir, or beneficiary, is $1,000 or more."

The following is substituted for the first three sentences of the next to the last paragraph of article 142–1:

"The return in case (a) shall be on Form 1040 or 1040A. In case (b) for taxable years beginning before January 1, 1937, a return is required on Form 1040 with respect to any taxable net income of the estate or trust computed in accordance with section 162 and a return on Form 1041 with respect to any income deducted under section 162 (b) or 162 (c). For such taxable years, if a portion of the income of the estate or trust is retained by the fiduciary and the remainder is distributable or distributed to beneficiaries, both Forms 1040 and 1041 will be required. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936, the return in case (a) shall be on Form 1040 or 1040A and in all other cases stated in this article on Form 1041."

Article 142–5, relating to returns for nonresident alien beneficiaries, is amended by substituting for the parenthetical reference at the end of paragraph (a) and the sentence immediately preceding such reference, the following:

"In such a case for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936, the fiduciary shall make a return on Form 1041, as well as on Form 1040B. If there are two or more such nonresident alien beneficiaries, then for all taxable years the fiduciary shall render a return on Form 1041 and also a return on Form 1040B for each nonresident alien beneficiary. (See further article 217–1)."

Article 142–5 is further amended by substituting for paragraph (b) the following:

"(b) No United States business or office.—A citizen or resident fiduciary having the distribution of the income of an estate or trust will not be required to make a return on Form 1040NB for any beneficiary of the estate or trust who is a nonresident alien not engaged in trade or business within the United States and not having an office or place of business therein at any time within the taxable year if the entire amount of the tax on the income payable to such beneficiary has been withheld at the source (see sections 143 and 211 (a)). For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936, a citizen or resident fiduciary having the distribution of the income of an estate or trust shall make a return on Form 1040NB if a beneficiary, other than a resident of Canada, has gross income for the taxable year of more than $21,600 from the sources specified in section 211 (a), as amended, regardless of the amount of tax withheld at the source. If the beneficiary appoints a person in the United States to act as his agent for the purpose of rendering income tax returns, the fiduciary shall be relieved from the necessity of filing Form 1040NB in behalf of the beneficiary and from paying the tax. In such a case the fiduciary shall make a return on Form 1041 and attach thereto a copy of the notice of appointment. For the calendar year 1936 the fiduciary may either (1) make a return on Form 1042 of the tax at 10 percent on the entire amount of the income payable to the beneficiary, or (2) make a return on Form 1042 of the tax at 10 percent on the portion of the income not paid to the beneficiary before July 2, 1936, and a return on Form 1040NB for the beneficiary, including therein the income paid to him before July 2, 1936. Except for the calendar year 1936 the fiduciary shall make a return on Form 1042 of the tax at 10 percent on the entire amount of the income payable to the beneficiary, except that in the case of a beneficiary, resident of Canada, the rate shall be 5 percent. In addition to such return or returns, the fiduciary shall make a return on Form 1041 for the estate or trust, irrespective of the number of beneficiaries."

The following is inserted immediately before article 145–1, relating to penalties:

"Section 207 (e) of Title II of the Revenue Act of 1937, relating to foreign personal holding companies, provides:

[" 'SEC. 207. Minor Amendments to Title I of 1936 Act.]

" '(e) Section 145 of such Act is amended by adding at the end thereof a new subsection to read as follows:

For information returns by attorneys, accountants, and so forth, as to formation, and so forth, of foreign corporations, see sections 340 and 341." '"

The following is inserted immediately before article 163–1, relating to credits to an estate, trust, or beneficiary:

"Section 401 of Title IV of the Revenue Act of 1937 provides:

" 'SEC. 401. Denial of Personal Exemption to Trusts.

" 'Section 163 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1936 is amended to read as follows:

" '"(a) Credits of estate or trust.—

" '"(1) For the purpose of the normal tax and the surtax an estate or trust shall be allowed the same personal exemption as is allowed to a single person under section 25 (b) (1), except that no exemption shall be allowed a trust if the trust instrument requires or permits the accumulation of any portion of the income of the trust and there is not distributed an amount equal to the net income. For the purposes of this paragraph the term 'net income' does not include amounts included in gross income which, under the law of the jurisdiction under which the trust is administered, cannot (even if permitted or required by the trust instrument to be considered as income) be considered as income and are not distributable

" '"(2) If no part of the income of the estate or trust is included in computing the net income of any legatee, heir, or beneficiary, then the estate or trust shall be allowed the same credits against net income for interest as are allowed by section 25 (a)." '"

Paragraph (a) of article 163–1 is amended to read as follows:

"(a) Personal exemption of $1,000.—(1) An estate is allowed for both normal tax and surtax purposes the personal exemption of $1,000 allowed a single person under section 25 (b) (1). A credit for dependents is not allowable to an estate or trust.

"(2) For taxable years beginning prior to January 1, 1937 a trust is allowed for both normal tax and surtax purposes the personal exemption of $1,000 allowed a single person under section 25 (b) (1).

"(3) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936, a trust is allowed for both normal tax and surtax purposes the personal exemption of $1,000 allowed a single person under section 25 (b) (1), except that such exemption shall not be allowed if the trust instrument requires or permits the accumulation of any portion of the income and the amount actually distributed during the taxable year is less than the net income of the trust. 'Net income' as used in this paragraph is to be computed in accordance with section 162, except that there shall be excluded any amounts included in gross income which (A) under the law of the jurisdiction controlling the administration of the trust cannot (even if permitted or required under the trust instrument to be considered as income) be considered as income and (B) are not distributable during the taxable year. Typical of such amounts is the profit arising from the sale of trust property which under the applicable State law is considered not as income but as a mere conversion of corpus and which under the terms of the trust instrument is not distributable during the taxable year."

Paragraph (b) of article 163–1 is amended by inserting after "(b)" the following:

"Credit for interest to estate or trust.—"

Paragraph (c) of article 163–1 is amended by inserting after "(c)" the following:

" '(a) Section 211 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1936 is amended by adding at the end thereof a new sentence to read as follows: "The tax imposed by this subsection shall not apply to any individual if the aggregate amount received during the taxable year from the sources above specified is more than $21,600."

" '(b) Section 211 of the Revenue Act of 1936 is further amended by adding at the end thereof a new subsection to read as follows:

" '"(1) The gross income shall include only income from the sources specified in subsection (a); and

" '"(2) The deductions (other than the so-called 'charitable deduction' provided in section 213 (c)) shall be allowed only if and to the extent that they are properly allocable to the gross income from the sources specified in subsection (a); and

" '(c) The amendments made by subsection (a) and (b)—

" '(1) Shall apply only to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936; and

Article 211–7 is amended by changing the caption thereof to read as follows:

"Taxation of nonresident alien individuals for years beginning prior to January 1, 1937.—"

A new article is added after article 211–7, to read as follows:

"ART. 211–8. Taxation of nonresident alien individuals for years beginning after December 31, 1936.—For the purposes of this article and articles 212–1, 213–1, 214–1, and 217–2 nonresident alien individuals, for years beginning after December 31, 1936, are divided into three classes: (a) nonresident alien individuals not engaged in trade or business within the United States and not having an office or place of business therein at any time within the taxable year and deriving in the taxable year not more than $21,600 gross amount of fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from sources within the United States, (b) nonresident alien individuals not engaged in trade or business within the United States and not having an office or place of business therein at any time during the taxable year and deriving in the taxable year more than $21,600 gross amount of fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from sources within the United States, and (c) nonresident alien individuals who at any time within the taxable year are engaged in trade or business in the United States or have an office or place of business therein.

"A nonresident alien individual falling within (a) or (c) is taxable in the same manner as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b), respectively, of article 211–7.

"A nonresident alien individual falling within (b) is subject to tax only upon his fixed or determinable annual or periodical income specified in section 211 (a) determined under the provisions of section 119, minus (1) the deductions properly allocable to such income and (2) the so-called 'charitable contribution' deduction provided in section 213 (c). Such nonresident alien is entitled to the credits against net income allowable to an individual by section 25, subject to the limitations provided in section 214. However, the tax thus computed under sections 11 and 12 shall in no such case be less than 10 percent of the gross amount of such fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from sources within the United States.

"Unless such nonresident alien individual shall file or cause to be filed with the collector a true and accurate return of his total fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from sources within the United States, the tax shall be collected on the basis of gross amount of such fixed or determinable annual or periodical income.

"Where such nonresident alien has various sources of fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from within the United States, as, for instance, from an estate or trust, from stocks or bonds held directly by him, and from securities held for him by a custodian resident in the United States, so that his total gross fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from United States sources is in excess of $21,600 and a return of income was not filed by him or on his behalf, the Commissioner will cause a return of income to be made and include therein the fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from all sources within the United States concerning which he has information without allowance for deductions and credits, and will assess the tax and collect it from one or more of the sources of income of such nonresident alien within the United States.

"Such nonresident alien shall make or have made a full and accurate return on Form 1040NB (a) of all his fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from sources within the United States. As to what constitutes fixed or determinable annual or periodical income, see paragraph (a) of article 211–7.

"As to the duty of the representative or agent of such alien to file the return and pay the tax, see paragraph (b) of article 217–2.

"Nonresident alien individuals, residents of Canada, are not affected by the provisions of section 501, Title V of the Revenue Act of 1937 or of this Treasury Decision and are subject to tax under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1936 as modified by the terms of the Tax Convention between the United States and Canada ratified August 13, 1937, effective January 1, 1936. For the taxation of nonresident alien individuals, residents of Canada, not engaged in trade or business within the United States and not having an office or place of business therein, see Treasury Decision 4766, approved October 7, 1937, Internal Revenue Bulletin XVI–42, 8 (1937)."

Paragraph (a) of articles 212–1, 213–1, 214–1, 217–2, and article 215–1 are amended by adding at the end thereof the following sentence:

"As to a nonresident alien individual who derives more than $21,600 gross amount of fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from sources within the United States for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1936, see article 211–8."

The first two sentences of article 219–1, relating to partnerships, are amended to read as follows:

"Whether a nonresident alien individual who is a member of a partnership is taxable under the provisions of (A) section 211 (a) or 211 (c) or (B) section 211 (b) may depend on the status of the partnership. A nonresident alien individual who is a member of a partnership which is not engaged in trade or business within the United States and has no office or place of business therein is subject to the provisions of section 211 (a) or 211 (c), as the case may be, depending on whether in the taxable year he derives fixed or determinable annual or periodical income from sources within the United States of more than $21,600, if he is not otherwise engaged in trade or business within the United States and has no office or place of business therein."

The following is substituted for the last sentence of the first paragraph of article 231–3, relating to gross income of foreign corporations:

"As to personal holding companies organized under the laws of foreign countries see article 351–3, as amended, of Chapter XXXV, as renumbered, and article 351–1 (1937) of Chapter XXXV (A). As to foreign personal holding companies see Chapter XXXIV."

The following is substituted for the last sentence of article 232–1, relating to deductions allowed foreign corporations:

"As to personal holding companies organized under the laws of foreign countries see article 351–3, as amended, of Chapter XXXV, as renumbered, and article 351–1 (1937) of Chapter XXXV (A). As to foreign personal holding companies see Chapter XXXIV."

The following is inserted immediately before article 275–1, relating to the period of limitation upon assessment of tax:

"Section 206 of Title II of the Revenue Act of 1937, relating to foreign personal holding companies, provides:

" 'SEC. 206. Period of Limitation Upon Assessment and Collection.

" '(a) Section 275 of the Revenue Act of 1936 is amended by inserting after subsection (c) thereof a new subsection to read as follows:

" '"(d) Shareholders of Foreign Personal Holding Companies.—If the taxpayer omits from gross income an amount properly includible therein under section 337 (b) (relating to the inclusion in the gross income of United States shareholders of their distributive shares of the undistributed Supplement P net income of a foreign personal holding company) the tax may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of such tax may be begun without assessment, at any time within seven years after the return was filed."

" '(b) Subsection (d) of such section 275, before its amendment by subsection (a) of this section, is amended to read as follows:

" '"(e) For the purposes of subsections (a), (b), (c), and (d), a return filed before the last day prescribed by law for the filing thereof shall be considered as filed on such last day."

" '(c) Subsection (e) of such section 275, before its amendment by subsections (a) and (b) of this section, is amended by striking out "(e)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(f)." '"

Article 275–1 is amended by renumbering paragraphs (6), (7) and (8) as (7), (8) and (9) and by inserting immediately before such paragraphs a new paragraph numbered (6), to read as follows:

"(6) If the taxpayer omits from gross income an amount properly includible therein under section 337 (b) as his distributive share of the undistributed Supplement P net income of a foreign personal holding company, the tax may be assessed at any time within seven years after the return was filed."

Article 275–2, relating to the period of limitation upon the collection of tax, is amended by inserting after the paragraph numbered (3) a new paragraph numbered (4) to read as follows:

"(4) If the taxpayer omits from gross income an amount properly includible therein under section 337 (b) as his distributive share of the undistributed Supplement P net income of a foreign personal holding company, a proceeding in court for the collection of the tax may be begun without assessment at any time within seven years after the return was filed."

A new chapter is added after Chapter XXXV, designated Chapter XXXV (A) and providing as follows:

"CHAPTER XXXV (A)

"SURTAX ON PERSONAL HOLDING COMPANIES

"(Under Title IA of the Revenue Act of 1936 as amended by section 1 of the Revenue Act of 1937)

"Title IA—Additional Income Taxes

"'The amendment made by section 1 [Revenue Act of 1937] shall apply only with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936; * * *.'

[NOTE.—The provisions of this chapter apply only to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936. For taxable years beginning prior to December 31, 1936 see Chapter XXXV.]

"Title I—Personal Holding Companies

"SEC. 1. Amendment of 1936 Act.

"Title IA of the Revenue Act of 1936 is amended to read as follows:

"Title IA—Additional Income Taxes.

"SEC. 351. Surtax on Personal Holding Companies.

"There shall be levied, collected, and paid, for each taxable year (in addition to the taxes imposed by Title I), upon the undistributed adjusted net income of every personal holding company a surtax equal to the sum of the following:

"(1) 65 per centum of the amount thereof not in excess of $2,000; plus

"(2) 75 per centum of the amount thereof in excess of $2,000."

"ART. 351–1 (1937). Surtax on personal holding companies.—Section 351 of Title IA, as amended, imposes for each taxable year beginning after December 31, 1936 (in addition to the taxes imposed by Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936) a graduated income tax or surtax upon corporations classified as personal holding companies. Corporations so classified are exempt from the surtax on corporations improperly accumulating surplus imposed by section 102 of Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936, but are not exempt from the other taxes imposed by that title. Unlike the surtax imposed by section 102, the surtax imposed by section 351 of Title IA, as amended, applies to all personal holding companies defined as such in section 352 and article 352–1, regardless of whether or not they were formed or availed of to accumulate earnings or profits for the purpose of avoiding surtax upon shareholders. The surtax imposed by section 351 of Title IA, as amended, is 65 percent of the amount of the undistributed adjusted net income not in excess of $2,000 and 75 percent of the amount of the undistributed adjusted net income in excess of $2,000.

"A foreign corporation, whether resident or nonresident, which is classified as a personal holding company under section 352 (not including, with respect to taxable years ending after August 26, 1937, a foreign personal holding company as defined in section 331) is subject to the tax imposed by section 351 of Title IA, as amended, with respect to its income from sources within the United States even though such income is not fixed or determinable annual or periodical income specified in section 231 (a). (See section 119.) The term 'personal holding company' as used in Title IA, as amended, does not include a foreign corporation if (1) its gross income from sources within the United States for the period specified in section 119 (a) (2) (B) is less than 50 percent of its total gross income from all sources and (2) all of its stock outstanding during the last half of the taxable year is owned by nonresident alien individuals, whether directly or indirectly through other foreign corporations.

"'SEC. 352. Definition of Personal Holding Company.

"'(a) General rule.—For the purposes of this title and of Title I the term "personal holding company" means any corporation if—

"'(1) Gross income requirement.—At least 80 per centum of its gross income for the taxable year is personal holding company income as defined in section 353; but if the corporation is a personal holding company with respect to any taxable year, then, for each subsequent taxable year, the minimum percentage shall be 70 per centum in lieu of 80 per centum, until a taxable year during the whole of the last half of which the stock ownership required by paragraph (2) does not exist, or until the expiration of three consecutive taxable years in each of which less than 70 per centum of the gross income is personal holding company income; and

"'(2) Stock ownership requirement.—At any time during the last half of the taxable year more than 50 per centum in value of its outstanding stock is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for not more than five individuals.

"'(b) Exceptions.—The term "personal holding company" does not include a corporation exempt from taxation under section 101, a bank as defined in section 104, a life insurance company, a surety company, or, except with respect to a taxable year ending on or before the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1937, a foreign personal holding company as defined in section 331.'

"ART. 352–1. Definition of personal holding company.—A personal holding company is any corporation (other than a corporation specified in section 352 (b)) which for the taxable year meets (a) the gross income requirement specified in article 352–2, and (b) the stock ownership requirement specified in article 352–3. Both requirements must be satisfied and both must be met with respect to each taxable year.

"ART. 352–2. Gross income requirement.—To meet the gross income requirement, it is necessary that either of the following percentages of gross income of the corporation for the taxable year be personal holding company income as defined in section 353:

"(a) 80 percent or more; or

"(b) 70 percent or more if the corporation has been classified as a personal holding company for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 1936, unless—

"(1) a taxable year has intervened since the last taxable year for which it was so classified, during no part of the last half of which the stock ownership requirement specified in section 352 (a) (2) exists; or

"(2) three consecutive years have intervened since the last taxable year for which it was so classified, during each of which its personal holding company income was less than 70 percent of its gross income.

"In determining whether the personal holding company income is equal to the required percentage of the total gross income, the determination must not be made upon the basis of gross receipts, since gross income is not synonymous with gross receipts. For a further discussion of what constitutes 'gross income', see section 22 (a) and the regulations prescribed under that section.

"ART. 352–3. Stock ownership requirement.—To meet the stock ownership requirement, it is necessary that at some time during the last half of the taxable year more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation be owned, directly or indirectly, by or for not more than five individuals. For such purpose, the ownership of the stock must be determined as provided in section 354 and articles 354 (a)–1 to 354 (a)–7 and article 354 (b)–1.

"In the event of any change in the stock outstanding during the last half of the taxable year, whether in the number of shares or classes of stock, or whether in the ownership thereof, the conditions existing immediately prior and subsequent to each change must be taken into consideration.

"In determining whether the statutory conditions with respect to stock ownership are present at any time during the last half of the taxable year, the phrase 'in value' shall, in the light of all the circumstances, be deemed the value of the corporate stock outstanding at such time (not including treasury stock). This value may be determined upon the basis of the company's net worth, earning and dividend paying capacity, appreciation of assets, together with such other factors as have a bearing upon the value of the stock. If a value of stock is used which is greatly at variance with that reflected by the corporate books, the evidence upon which such valuation is based should be filed with the return. In any case where there are two or more classes of stock outstanding, the total value of all the stock should be allocated among the different classes according to the relative value of each class therein.

"The rules stated in the last two preceding paragraphs are equally applicable in determining the stock ownership requirement specified in section 353 (e), relating to personal service contracts and in section 353 (f), relating to the use of corporation property by a shareholder. The stock ownership requirement specified in these sections relates, however, to the stock outstanding at any time during the entire taxable year and not merely during the last half thereof.

"'For the purposes of this title the term "personal holding company income" means the portion of the gross income which consists of:

"'(a) Dividends, interest, royalties (other than mineral, oil, or gas royalties), annuities.

"'(b) Stock and securities, transactions.—Except in the case of regular dealers in stock or securities, gains from the sale or exchange of stock or securities.

"'(c) Commodities transactions.—Gains from futures transactions in any commodity on or subject to the rules of a board of trade or commodity exchange. This subsection shall not apply to gains by a producer, processor, merchant, or handler of the commodity which arise out of bona fide hedging transactions reasonably necessary to the conduct of its business in the manner in which such business is customarily and usually conducted by others.

"'(d) Estates and trusts.—Amounts includible in computing the net income of the corporation under Supplement E of Title I; and gains from the sale or other disposition of any interest in an estate or trust.

"'(e) Personal service contracts.—(1) Amounts received under a contract under which the corporation is to furnish personal services; if some person other than the corporation has the right to designate (by name or by description) the individual who is to perform the services, or if the individual who is to perform the services is designated (by name or by description) in the contract; and (2) amounts received from the sale or other disposition of such a contract. This subsection shall apply with respect to amounts received for services under a particular contract only if at some time during the taxable year 25 per centum or more in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the individual who has performed, is to perform, or may be designated (by name or by description) as the one to perform, such services.

"'(f) Use of corporation property by shareholder.—Amouynts received as compensation (however designated and from whomsoever received) for the use of, or right to use, property of the corporation in any case where, at any time during the taxable year, 25 per centum or more in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for an individual entitled to the use of the property; whether such right is obtained directly from the corporation or by means of a sublease or other arrangement.

"'(g) Rents.—Rents, unless constituting 50 per centum or more of the gross income. For the purposes of this subsection the term "rents" means compensation, however designated, for the use of, or right to use, property; but does not include amounts constituting personal holding company income under subsection (f).

"'(h) Mineral, oil, or gas royalties.—Mineral, oil, or gas royalties, unless (1) constituting 50 per centum or more of the gross income, and (2) the deductions allowable under section 23 (a) (relating to expenses) other than compensation for personal services rendered by shareholders, constitute 15 per centum or more of the gross income.'

"ART. 353–1. Personal holding company income.—The term 'personal holding company income' means the portion of the gross income which consists of the following:

"(1) Dividends.—The term 'dividends' means dividends as defined in section 115 (a), and includes amounts required to be included in gross income under section 337 (b). It does not include stock dividends (to the extent they do not constitute income to the shareholders within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution), liquidating dividends, or other capital distributions referred to in section 115 (c), as amended, and section 115 (d).

"(2) Interest.—The term 'interest' means any amounts, includible in gross income, received for the use of money loaned.

"(3) Royalties (other than mineral, oil, or gas royalties).—The term 'royalties' includes amounts received for the privilege of using patents, copyrights, secret processes and formulas, good will, trade marks, trade brands, franchises, and other like property. It does not include rents, nor overriding royalties received by an operating company. As used in this paragraph the term 'overriding royalties' means amounts received from the sublessee by the operating company which originally leased and developed the natural resource property in respect of which such overriding royalties are paid.

"(4) Annuities.—The term 'annuities' refers only to annuities to the extent includible in the computation of gross income. (See section 22 (b) (2).)

"(5) Gains from the sale or exchange of stock or securities.—The term 'gains from the sale or exchange of stock or securities' as used in section 353 (b) and these regulations applies to all gains (including gains from liquidating dividends and other distributions from capital) from the sale or exchange of stock or securities includible in gross income. The term 'stock or securities' includes shares or certificates of stock, or interest in any corporation (including any joint-stock company, insurance company, association, or other organization classified as a corporation by the Act), certificates of interest or participation in any profit-sharing agreement, or in any oil, gas, or other mineral royalty, or lease, collateral trust certificates, voting trust certificates, stock rights or warrants, bonds, debentures, certificates of indebtedness, notes, car trust certificates, bills of exchange, obligations issued by or on behalf of a Government, State, Territory, or political subdivision thereof, etc. In the case of 'regular dealers in stock or securities' the term does not include gains derived from the sale or exchange of stock or securities made in the normal course of business. The term 'regular dealer in stock or securities' means corporations with an established place of business regularly engaged in the purchase of stock or securities and their resale to customers, but such corporations are not dealers with respect to stock or securities held for speculation or investment.

"(6) Gains from futures transactions in commodities.—Gains from futures transactions in commodities include gains from futures transactions in any commodity on or subject to the rules of a board of trade or commodity exchange, but do not include gains from cash transactions or gains by a producer, processor, merchant, or handler of the commodity, which arise out of bona fide hedging transactions reasonably necessary to the conduct of its business in the manner in which such business is customarily and usually conducted by others. In general, personal holding company income includes gains on futures contracts which are speculative. Futures contracts representing true hedges against price fluctuations in spot goods are not speculative transactions, though not concurrent with spot transactions. Futures contracts which are not hedges against spot transactions are speculative unless they are hedges against concurrent futures or forward sales or purchases.

"(7) Income from estates and trusts.—The income from estates and trusts which is to be included in personal holding company income consists of the income from estates and trusts which is required to be included in the gross income of a corporation under sections 161 to 169, together with the gains derived by the corporation from the sale or other disposition of any interest in an estate or trust.

"(8) Amounts received under personal service contracts.—Amounts includible in personal holding company income as amounts received under personal service contracts consist of amounts received pursuant to a contract under which the corporation is to furnish personal services, and amounts received from a sale or other disposition of such a contract, if—

"(a) some person other than the corporation has the right to designate (by name or by description) the individual who is to perform the services, or if the individual who is to perform the services is designated (by name or by description) in the contract; and

"(b) at some time during the taxable year 25 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the individual who has performed, is to perform, or may be designated (by name or by description), as the one to perform such services. For this purpose the stock ownership must be determined as provided in section 354 and articles 354 (a)–1 to 354 (a)–7, article 354 (b)–1 and the last paragraph of article 352–3.

The application of section 353 (e) may be illustrated by the following examples:

"Example (1).—A, whose profession is that of an actor, owns all of the outstanding capital stock of the M Corporation. The M Corporation entered into a contract with A under which A was to perform personal services for the person or persons whom the M Corporation might designate, in consideration of which A was to receive $10,000 a year from the M Corporation. The M Corporation entered into a contract with the O Corporation in which A was designated to perform personal services for the O Corporation in consideration of which the O Corporation was to pay the M Corporation $500,000 a year. The $500,000 received by the M Corporation from the O Corporation constitutes personal holding company income.

"Example (2).—The N Corporation, the entire outstanding capital stock of which is owned by four individuals, is engaged in engineering. The N Corporation entered into a contract with the O Corporation to perform engineering services for the O Corporation, in consideration of which the O Corporation was to pay the N Corporation $50,000. The individual who was to perform the services was not designated (by name or by description) in the contract and no one but the N Corporation had the right to designate (by name or by description) such individual. The $50,000 received by the N Corporation from the O Corporation does not constitute personal holding company income.

"(9) Compensation for use of property.—The compensation for the use of, or the right to use, property of the corporation which is to be included in personal holding company income consists of amounts received as compensation (however designated and from whomsoever received) for the use of, or the right to use, property of the corporation in any case in which, at any time during the taxable year, 25 percent or more in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the individual entitled to the use of the property, whether such right is obtained directly from the corporation or by means of a sublease or other arrangement. The property may consist of a yacht, a city residence, a country house, or any other kind of property. See section 354 and articles 354 (a)–1 to 354 (a)–7, article 354 (b)–1 and the last paragraph of article 352–3.

"(10) Rents.—The rents which are to be included in personal holding company income consists of compensation, however designated, including charter fees, etc., for the use of, or the right to use, real property, or any other kind of property, but do not include amounts constituting personal holding company income under section 353 (f) and paragraph (9) of this article. However, rents do not constitute personal holding company income if constituting 50 percent or more of the gross income of the corporation.

"(11) Mineral, oil, or gas royalties.—The income from mineral, oil, or gas royalties is to be included as personal holding company income, unless (A) the aggregate amount of such royalties constitutes 50 percent or more of the gross income of the corporation for the taxable year and (B) the aggregate amount of deductions allowable for expenses under section 23 (a) (other than compensation for personal services rendered by the shareholders of the corporation) equals 15 percent or more of the gross income of the corporation for the taxable year.

"The term 'mineral, oil, or gas royalties' means all royalties, except overriding royalties, received from any interest in mineral, oil, or gas properties. The term 'mineral' includes the ores specified in paragraph (d) of article 23 (m)–1. As used in this paragraph the term 'overriding royalties' means amounts received from the sublessee by the operating company which originally leased and developed the natural resources property in request of which such overriding royalties are paid.

"'(a) Constructive ownership.—For the purpose of determining whether a corporation is a personal holding company, insofar as such determination is based on stock ownership under section 352 (a) (2), section 353 (e), or section 353 (f)—

"'(1) Stock not owned by individual.—Stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for a corporation, partnership, estate, or trust shall be considered as being owned proportionately by its shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries.

"'(2) Family and partnership ownership.—An individual shall be considered as owning the stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for his family or by or for his partner. For the purposes of this paragraph the family of an individual includes only his brothers and sisters (whether by the whole or half blood), spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants.

"'(3) Options.—If any person has an option to acquire stock such stock shall be considered as owned by such person. For the purposes of this paragraph an option to acquire such an option, and each one of a series of such options, shall be considered as an option to acquire such stock.

"'(4) Application of family-partnership and option rules.—Paragraphs (2) and (3) shall be applied—

"'(A) For the purposes of the stock ownership requirement provided in section 352 (a) (2), if, but only if, the effect is to make the corporation a personal holding company;

"'(B) For the purposes of section 353 (e) (relating to personal service contracts), or of section 353 (f) relating to the use of property by shareholders), if, but only if, the effect is to make the amounts therein referred to includible under such subsection as personal holding company income.

"'(5) Constructive ownership as actual ownership.—Stock constructively owned by a person by reason of the application of paragraph (1) or (3) shall, for the purpose of applying paragraph (1) or (2), be treated as actually owned by such person; but stock constructively owned by an individual by reason of the application of paragraph (2) shall not be treated as owned by him for the purpose of again applying such paragraph in order to make another the constructive owner of such stock.

"'(6) Option rule in lieu of family and partnership rule.—If stock may be considered as owned by an individual under either paragraph (2) or (3) it shall be considered as owned by him under paragraph (3).'

"ART. 354 (a)–1. Stock ownership.—For the purpose of determining whether—

"(a) a corporation is a personal holding company, insofar as such determination is based on the stock ownership requirement specified in section 352 (a) (2) and article 352–3, or

"(b) amounts received under a personal service contract or from the sale of such a contract constitute personal holding company income insofar as such determination is based on the stock ownership requirement specified in section 353 (e) and paragraph (8) of article 353–1, or

"(c) compensation for the use of property constitutes personal holding company income insofar as such determination is based on the stock ownership requirement specified in section 353 (f) and paragraph (9) of Article 351–1, stock owned by an individual includes stock constructively owned by him as provided in section 354. For such purpose constructive ownership of stock shall be determined and applied in accordance with the rules provided in section 354 and articles 354 (a)–2 to 354 (a)–7 and article 354 (b)–1. All forms and classes of stock, however denominated, which represent the interests of shareholders, members, or beneficiaries in the corporation shall be taken into consideration.

"ART. 354 (a)–2. Stock not owned by individual.—In determining the ownership of stock for any of the purposes set forth in article 354 (a)–1, stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for a corporation, partnership, estate, or trust shall be considered as being owned proportionately by its shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries. For example, if A and B, two individuals, are the exclusive and equal beneficiaries of a trust or estate, and if such trust or estate owns the entire capital stock of the M Corporation, and if the M Corporation in turn owns the entire capital stock of the N Corporation, then the stock of both the M Corporation and the N Corporation shall be considered as being owned equally by A and B as the individuals owning the beneficial interest therein. See also article 354 (a)–6.

"ART. 354 (a)–3. Family and partnership ownership.—In determining the ownership of stock for any of the purposes set forth in article 354 (a)–1, an individual shall be considered as owning the stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for his family or by or for his partner. For the purposes of such determination the family of an individual includes only his brothers and sisters (whether by the whole or half blood), spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants.

"The application of the family and partnership rule in determining the ownership of stock for the purpose set forth in (a) of article 354 (a)–1 is illustrated by the following example:

"Example.—The M Corporation at some time during the last half of the taxable year had 1,800 shares of outstanding stock, 450 of which were held by various individuals having no relationship to one another and none of whom were partners, and the remaining 1,350 were held by 51 shareholders as follows:

Relationships	Shares	Shares	Shares	Shares	Shares
An individual	A 100	B 20	C 20	D 20	E 20
His father	AF 10	BF 10	CF 10	DF 10	EF 10
His wife	AW 10	BW 40	CW 40	DW 40	EW 40
His brother	AB 10	BB 10	CB 10	DB 10	EB 10
His son	AS 10	BS 40	CS 40	DS 40	ES 40
His daughter by former marriage (son's half-sister)	ASHS 10	BSHS 40	CSHS 40	DSHS 40	ESHS 40
His brother's wife	ABW 10	BBW 10	CBW 10	DBW 160	EBW 10
His wife's father	AWF 10	BWF 10	CWF 110	DWF 10	EWF 10
His wife's brother	AWB 10	BWB 10	CWB 10	DWB 10	EWB 10
His wife's brother's wife	AWBW 10	BWBW 10	CWBW 10	DWBW 10	EWBW 110
Individual's partner	AP 10

By applying the statutory rule provided in section 354 (a) (2) five individuals own more than 50 percent of the outstanding stock as follows:

A (including AF, AW, AB, AS, ASHS, AP)	160
B (including BF, BW, BB, BS, BSHS)	160
CW (including C, CS, CWF, CWB)	220
DB (including D, DF, DBW)	200
EWB (including EW, EWF, EWBW)	170
Total, or more than 50 percent	910

Individual A represents the obvious case where the head of the family owns the bulk of the family stock and naturally is the head of the group. A's partner owns 10 shares of the stock. Individual B represents the case where he is still head of the group because of the ownership of stock by his immediate family. Individuals C and D represent cases where the individuals fall in groups headed in C's case by his wife and in D's case by his brother because of the preponderance of holdings on the part of relatives by marriage. Individual E represents the case where the preponderant holdings of others eliminate that individual from the group.

"The method of applying the family and partnership rule as illustrated in the foregoing example also applies in determining the ownership of stock for the purposes stated in (b) and (c) of article 354 (a)–1.

"ART. 354 (a)–4. Options.—In determining the ownership of stock for any of the purposes set forth in article 354 (a)–1, if any person has an option to acquire stock, such stock may be considered as owned by such person. The term 'option' as used in this article includes an option to acquire such an option and each one of a series of such options, so that the person who has an option on an option to acquire stock may be considered as the owner of the stock.

"ART. 354 (a)–5. Application of family-partnership and option rules.—The family and partnership rule provided in section 354 (a) (2) and article 354 (a)–3 and the option rule provided in section 354 (a) (3) and article 354 (a)–4 shall be applied—

"(a) for the purpose stated in (a) of article 354 (a)–1, if, but only if, the effect of such application is to make the corporation a personal holding company, or

"(b) for the purpose stated in (b) of article 354 (a)–1, if, but only if, the effect of such application is to make the amounts received under a personal service contract or from the sale of such a contract personal holding company income, or

"(c) for the purpose stated in (c) of article 354 (a)–1, if, but only if, the effect of such application is to make the compensation for the use of property personal holding company income.

The family and partnership rule and the option rule must be applied independently for each of the purposes stated in article 354 (a)–1.

"ART. 354 (a)–6. Constructive ownership as actual ownership.—In determining the ownership of stock for any of the purposes set forth in article 354 (a)–1—

"(a) stock constructively owned by a person by reason of the application of the rule provided in section 354 (a) (1), relating to stock not owned by an individual (see article 354 (a)–2) shall be considered as actually owned by such person for the purpose of again applying such rule or of applying the family and partnership rule provided in section 354 (a) (2) (see article 354 (a)–3) in order to make another person the constructive owner of such stock, and

"(b) stock constructively owned by a person by reason of the application of the option rule provided in section 354 (a) (3) (see article 354 (a)–4) shall be considered as actually owned by such person for the purpose of applying either the rule provided in section 354 (a) (1), relating to stock not owned by an individual, or the family and partnership rule provided in section 354 (a) (2) in order to make another person the constructive owner of such stock, but

"(c) stock constructively owned by an individual by reason of the application of the family and partnership rule provided in section 354 (a) (2) shall not be considered as actually owned by such individual for the purpose of again applying such rule in order to make another individual the constructive owner of such stock.

"The application of this article may be illustrated by the following examples:

"Example (1).—A's wife, AW, owns all of the stock of the M Corporation, which in turn owns all the stock of the O Corporation. The O Corporation in turn owns all the stock in the P Corporation.

"Under the rule provided in section 354 (a) (1), relating to stock not owned by an individual, the stock in the P Corporation owned by the O Corporation is considered to be owned constructively by the M Corporation, the sole shareholder of the O Corporation. Such constructive ownership of the stock of the M Corporation is considered as actual ownership for the purpose of again applying such rule in order to make AW, the sole shareholder of the M Corporation, the constructive owner of the stock of the P Corporation. Similarly, the constructive ownership of the stock by AW is considered as actual ownership for the purpose of applying the family and partnership rule provided in section 354 (a) (2) in order to make A the constructive owner of the stock of the P Corporation, if such application is necessary for any of the purposes set forth in article 354 (a)–1. But the stock thus constructively owned by A may not be considered as actual ownership for the purpose of again applying the family and partnership rule in order to make another member of A's family, for example A's father, the constructive owner of the stock of the P Corporation.

"Example (2).—B, an individual, owns all the stock of the R Corporation which has an option to acquire all the stock of the S Corporation, owned by C, an individual, who is not related to B.

"Under the option rule provided in section 354 (a) (3) the R Corporation may be considered as owning constructively the stock of the S Corporation owned by C. Such constructive ownership of the stock by the R Corporation is considered as actual ownership for the purpose of applying the rule provided in section 354 (a) (1), relating to stock not owned by an individual, in order to make B, the sole shareholder of the R Corporation, the constructive owner of the stock of the S Corporation. The stock thus constructively owned by B by reason of the application of the rule provided in section 354 (a) (1) likewise is considered as actual ownership for the purpose, if necessary, of applying the family and partnership rule provided in section 354 (a) (2), in order to make another member of B's family, for example, B's wife, BW, the constructive owner of the stock of the S Corporation. However, the family and partnership rule could not again be applied so as to make still another individual the constructive owner of the stock of the S Corporation, that is, the stock constructively owned by BW could not be considered as actually owned by her in order to make BW's father the constructive owner of such stock by a second application of the family and partnership rule.

"ART. 354 (a) 7. Option rule in lieu of family and partnership rule.—If, in determining the ownership of stock for any of the purposes set forth in article 354 (a)–1, stock may be considered as constructively owned by an individual by an application of both the family-partnership rule provided in section 354 (a) (2) (see article 354 (a)–3) and the option rule provided in section 354 (a) (3) (see article 354 (a)–4) such stock shall be considered as owned constructively by the individual by reason of the application of the option rule.

"The application of this article may be illustrated by the following example:

"Example.—Two brothers, A and B, each own 10 percent of the stock of the M Corporation, and A's wife, AW, also owns 10 percent of the stock of such corporation. AW's husband, A, has an option to acquire the stock owned by her at any time. It becomes necessary, for one of the purposes stated in article 354 (a)–1, to determine the stock ownership of B in the M Corporation.

"If the family and partnership rule were the only rule that applied in the case, B would be considered, under that rule, as owning 20 percent of the stock of the M Corporation, namely, his own stock plus the stock owned by his brother. In that event, B could not be considered as owning the stock held by AW since (1) AW is not a member of B's family and (2) the constructive ownership of such stock by A through the application of the family and partnership rule in his case is not considered as actual ownership so as to make B the constructive owner by a second application of the same rule with respect to the ownership of the stock. (See article 354 (a)–6.)

"However, there is more than the family and partnership rule involved in this example. As the holder of an option upon the stock, A may be considered the constructive owner of his wife's stock by the application of the option rule and without reference to the family relationship between A and AW. If A is considered as owning the stock of his wife by application of the option rule, then under article 354 (a)–6, such constructive ownership by A is regarded as actual ownership for the purpose of applying the family and partnership rule so as to make another member of A's family, for example, B, the constructive owner of the stock. Hence, since A may be considered as owning his wife's stock by applying both the family-partnership rule and the option rule, the provisions of section 354 (a) (6) apply and accordingly A must be considered the constructive owner of his wife's stock under the option rule rather than the family-partnership rule. B thus becomes the constructive owner of 30 percent of the stock of the M Corporation, namely, his own 10 percent, A's 10 percent, and AW's 10 percent constructively owned by A as the holder of an option on the stock.

"'[SEC. 354. Stock Ownership.]

"'(b) Convertible Securities.—Outstanding securities convertible into stock (whether or not convertible during the taxable year) shall be considered as outstanding stock—

"'(1) For the purpose of the stock ownership requirement provided in section 352 (a) (2), but only if the effect of the inclusion of all such securities is to make the corporation a personal holding company;

"'(2) For the purpose of section 353 (e) (relating to personal service contracts), but only if the effect of the inclusion of all such securities is to make the amounts therein referred to includible under such subsection as personal holding company income; and

"'(3) For the purpose of section 353 (f) (relating to the use of property by shareholders), but only if the effect of the inclusion of all such securities is to make the amounts therein referred to includible under such subsection as personal holding company income.

"'The requirement in paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) that all convertible securities must be included if any are to be included shall be subject to the exception that, where some of the outstanding securities are convertible only after a later date than in the case of others, the class having the earlier conversion date may be included although the others are not included, but no convertible securities shall be included unless all outstanding securities having a prior conversion date are also included.'

"ART. 354 (b)–1. Convertible securities.—Under section 354 (b), outstanding securities of a corporation, such as bonds, debentures or other corporate obligations, convertible into stock of the corporation (whether or not convertible during the taxable year) shall be considered as outstanding stock of the corporation for the purpose of the stock ownership requirement provided in section 352 (a) (2), but only if the effect of such consideration is to make the corporation a personal holding company. Such convertible securities shall be considered as outstanding stock for the purpose of section 353 (e), relating to amounts received under personal service contracts, or of section 353 (f), relating to compensation for the use of property, but only if the effect of such consideration is to make the amounts therein referred to includible under such sections as personal holding company income. The consideration of convertible securities as outstanding stock is subject to the exception that, if some of the outstanding securities are convertible only after a later date than in the case of others, the class having the earlier conversion date may be considered as outstanding stock although the others are not so considered, but no convertible securities shall be considered as outstanding stock unless all outstanding securities having a prior conversion date are also so considered. For example, if outstanding securities are convertible in 1937, 1938, and 1939, those convertible in 1937 can be properly considered as outstanding stock without so considering those convertible in 1938 or 1939, and those convertible in 1937 and 1938 can be properly considered as outstanding stock without so considering those convertible in 1939. However, the securities convertible in 1938 could not be properly considered as outstanding stock without so considering those convertible in 1937 and the securities convertible in 1939 could not be properly considered as outstanding stock without so considering those convertible in 1937 and 1938.

"'SEC. 355. Undistributed adjusted net income.

"'For the purposes of this title the term "undistributed adjusted net income" means the adjusted net income (as defined in section 356) minus —

"'(a) The amount of the dividends paid credit provided in section 27, computed without the benefit of subsection (b) thereof (relating to the dividend carry-over); and

"'(b) Amounts used or irrevocably set aside to pay or to retire indebtedness of any kind incurred prior to January 1, 1934, if such amounts are reasonable with reference to the size and terms of such indebtedness.'

"ART. 355–1. Undistributed adjusted net income.—The term 'undistributed adjusted net income' means the adjusted net income (as defined in section 356 and article 356–1) minus (A) the amount of dividends paid credit provided in section 27, computed without the benefit of section 27 (b) (relating to the dividend carry-over) and (B) amounts used or irrevocably set aside to pay or to retire indebtedness of any kind incurred prior to January 1, 1934, if such amounts are reasonable with reference to the size and the terms of such indebtedness (see article 355–2).

"ART. 355–2. Amounts used or irrevocably set aside to pay or to retire indebtedness of any kind incurred prior to January 1, 1934.—

"(a) Indebtedness.—The term 'indebtedness' means an obligation, absolute and not contingent, to pay, on demand or within a given time, in cash or other medium, a fixed amount. The term 'indebtedness' does not include the obligation of a corporation on its capital stock.

"The indebtedness must have been incurred (or, if incurred by assumption, assumed) by the taxpayer prior to January 1, 1934. An indebtedness evidenced by bonds, notes or other obligations issued by a corporation is ordinarily incurred as of the date such obligations are issued and the amount of such indebtedness is the amount represented by the face value of the obligations. In the case of renewal or other changes in the form of an indebtedness, so long as the relationship of debtor and creditor continues between the taxpayer and his creditor, the giving of a new promise to pay by the taxpayer will not have the effect of changing the date the indebtedness was incurred.

"(b) Amounts used or irrevocably set aside.—The deduction is allowable, in any taxable year, only for amounts used or irrevocably set aside in that year. The use or irrevocable setting aside must be to effect the extinguishment or discharge of indebtedness. Since, therefore, in the case of renewal and other changes in the form of an indebtedness, the relationship of debtor and creditor continues between the taxpayer and his creditor, the mere giving of a new promise to pay by the taxpayer will not result in an allowable deduction. If amounts are set aside in one year, no deduction is allowable for such amounts for a later year in which actually paid. As long as all other conditions are satisfied, the aggregate amount allowable as a deduction for any taxable year includes all amounts (from whatever source) used and, as well, all amounts (from whatever source) irrevocably set aside, irrespective of whether in cash or other medium. Double deductions are not permitted.

"(c) Reasonableness of the amounts with reference to the size and terms of the indebtedness.—The reasonableness of the amounts used or irrevocably set aside must be determined by reference to the size and terms of the particular indebtedness. Hence, all the facts and circumstances with respect to the nature, scope, conditions, amount, maturity, and other terms of the particular indebtedness must be shown in each case.

"Ordinarily an amount used to pay or retire an indebtedness, in whole or in part, at or prior to the maturity and in accordance with the terms thereof will be considered reasonable, and may be allowable as a deduction for the year in which so used, if no adjustment is required by reason of an amount set aside in a prior year for payment or retirement of the same indebtedness.

"All amounts irrevocably set aside for the payment or retirement of an indebtedness in accordance with and pursuant to the terms of the obligation, for example, the annual contribution to trustees required by a mandatory sinking fund, will be considered as complying with the statutory requirement of reasonableness. To be considered reasonable it is not necessary that the plan of retirement provide for a retroactive setting aside of amounts for years prior to that in which the plan is adopted. However, if a voluntary plan was adopted prior to 1934, no adjustment is allowable in respect of the amounts set aside in the years prior to 1934.

"(d) General.—The burden of proof will rest upon the taxpayer to sustain the deduction claimed. Therefore, the taxpayer must furnish the information required by the return, and such other information as the Commissioner may require in substantiation of the deduction claimed.

"'For the purposes of this title the term "adjusted net income" means the net income with the following adjustments:

"'(a) Additional deductions.—There shall be allowed as deductions—

"'(1) Federal income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes paid or accrued during the taxable year to the extent not allowed as a deduction under section 23; but not including the tax imposed by section 102, section 351 (either before or after its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1937), or a section of a prior income-tax law corresponding to either of such sections.

"'(2) In lieu of the deduction allowed by section 23 (q), contributions or gifts made within the taxable year to or for the use of donees described in section 23 (q) for the purposes therein specified, to an amount which does not exceed 15 per centum of the taxpayer's net income, computed without the benefit of this paragraph and section 23 (q), and without the deduction of the amount disallowed under subsection (b) of this section.

"'(3) In the case of a corporation organized prior to January 1, 1936, to take over the assets and liabilities of the estate of a decedent, amounts paid in liquidation of any liability of the corporation based on the liability of the decedent to make contributions or gifts to or for the use of donees described in section 23 (o) for the purposes therein specified, to the extent such liability of the decedent existed prior to January 1, 1934. No deduction shall be allowed under paragraph (2) of this subsection for a taxable year for which a deduction is allowed under this paragraph.

"'(b) Deductions not allowed.—The aggregate of the deductions allowed under section 23 (a), relating to expenses, and section 23 (l), relating to depreciation, which are allocable to the operation and maintenance of property owned or operated by the corporation, shall be allowed only in an amount equal to the rent or other compensation received for the use or right to use the property, unless it is established (under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary) to the satisfaction of the Commissioner:

"'(1) That the rent or other compensation received was the highest obtainable, or, if none was received, that none was obtainable;

"'(2) That the property was held in the course of a business carried on bona fide for profit; and

"'(3) Either that there was reasonable expectation that the operation of the property would result in a profit, or that the property was necessary to the conduct of the business.'

"ART. 356–1. Adjusted net income.—The term 'adjusted net income' as used in Title IA, as amended, means, in the case of a domestic corporation, the gross income as defined in section 22 less the deductions provided in section 23 subject to the qualifications, limitations and exceptions provided in section 356. In the case of a foreign corporation, whether resident or nonresident, which files or causes a return to be filed, the 'readjusted net income' means the net income from sources within the United States (gross income from sources within the United States as defined in section 119 and the regulations thereunder less statutory deductions) subject to the qualifications, limitations and exceptions provided in section 356. In the case of a foreign corporation, whether resident or nonresident, which files no return the 'adjusted net income' means the gross income from sources within the United States as defined in section 119 and the regulations thereunder less the deductions enumerated in section 356 (a) but without the benefit of any deductions under Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936 (see section 233).

"The 'adjusted net income' includes interest upon obligations of the United States and obligations of a corporation organized under Act of Congress, if such corporation is an instrumentality of the United States, except as provided in section 22 (b) (4). The 'adjusted net income' does not include interest on obligations of States or Territories of the United States or any political subdivision thereof or of the District of Columbia or of the possessions of the United States.

"The foreign tax credit permitted by section 131 with respect to the taxes imposed by Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936 is not allowed with respect to the surtax imposed by section 351. However, the deduction of foreign taxes under section 23 (c) is permitted for the purposes of the surtax even if for the purposes of the corporate tax imposed by Title I of that Act a credit for such taxes is taken.

"In addition to the qualifications, limitations, and exceptions provided in section 356 (a), under section 356 (b) the aggregate of the deductions allowed under section 23 (a), relating to expenses, and section 23 (l), relating to depreciation, which are allocable to the operation and maintenance of property owned or operated by the company shall be allowed only in an amount equal to the rent or other compensation received for the use of, or right to use, the property, unless it is established to the satisfaction of the Commissioner:

(1) That the rent or other compensation received was the highest obtainable, or if none was received, that none was obtainable;

"(2) That the property was held in the course of a business carried on bona fide for profit; and

"(3) Either that there was reasonable expectation that the operation of the property would result in a profit, or that the property was necessary to the conduct of the business.

"The burden of proof will rest upon the taxpayer to sustain the deduction claimed. If, in computing its adjusted net income, a personal holding company claims deductions for expenses and depreciation allocable to the operation and maintenance of property owned or operated by the company, in an aggregate amount in excess of the rent or other compensation received for the use of, or the right to use, the property, it shall attach to its income tax return a statement setting forth its claim for allowance of the additional deductions together with a complete statement of the facts, circumstances and arguments on which it relies in support of its claim. Such statement shall set forth:

"(a) A description of the property;

"(b) The cost or other basis to the corporation and the nature and value of the consideration paid for the property;

"(c) The name and address of the person from whom acquired and the date thereof;

"(d) The name and address of the person to whom leased or rented, or the person permitted to use the property, and the number of shares of stock, if any, held by such person and the members of his family;

"(e) The nature and gross amount of the rent or other compensation received for the use of, or the right to use, the property during the taxable year and for each of the five preceding years and the amount of the expenses incurred with respect to, and the depreciation sustained on, the property for such years;

"(f) Evidence that the rent or other compensation was the highest obtainable and, if none was received, a statement of the reasons therefor;

"(g) A copy of the contract, lease or rental agreement;

"(h) The purpose for which the property was used;

"(i) The business carried on by the corporation with respect to which the property was held and the gross income, expenses and net income derived from the conduct of such business for the taxable year and for each of the five preceding years;

"(j) A statement of any reasons which existed for expectation that the operation of the property would be profitable, or a statement of the necessity for the use of the property in the business of the corporation, and the reasons why the property was acquired; and

"(k) Any other information on which the taxpayer relies.

"ART. 356–2. Illustration of computation of adjusted net income, undistributed adjusted net income, and surtax.—The method of computation of the adjusted net income, the undistributed adjusted net income, and the surtax under Title IA, as amended, may be illustrated as follows:

"The following facts exist with respect to the O Corporation, a personal holding company, for the calendar year 1937:

"The net income, as computed under Title I of the Act amounts to $190,000.

"Federal income tax aggregates $17,500. This amount includes the surtax under section 14 but does not include excess-profits tax imposed by section 106 of the Revenue Act of 1935, surtax imposed by section 102 of the Revenue Act of 1936, or section 351 of the latter Act either before or after its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1937, or a section of a prior income-tax law corresponding to either of such sections 102 or 351.

"Contributions or gifts made to or for the use of donees described in section 23 (q) for the purposes therein specified amount to $35,000, of which $10,000 is deducted in arriving at the net income under Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936.

"Rent in the amount of $10,000 was received from the principal shareholder of the corporation for the use of a country estate which had been previously acquired from such shareholder in exchange for its capital stock. The expenses of the corporation allocable to the maintenance and operation of the country estate amount to $30,000. The yearly depreciation on the depreciable property of the estate amounts to $5,000. The corporation has not established its right to claim the entire amount of the expenses and depreciation applicable to the estate as provided in section 356 (b) and article 356–1.

"Dividends paid by the corporation to its shareholders during the taxable year which are allowable as a credit under section 27 amount to $40,000.

"The amount used during the year to pay indebtedness incurred by the corporation prior to January 1, 1934, is $31,750.

"The adjusted net income, the undistributed adjusted net income, and the surtax are computed as follows:

Net income under Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936		$190,000
Add:
Contributions deductible in computing net income under section 21		10,000
Aggregate of expenses and depreciation relating to the country estate in excess of the income derived therefrom		25,000
Net income computed without the benefit of a deduction for contributions and without the benefit of the amount disallowed under section 356 (b)		225,000
Less:
Federal income taxes	$17,500
Contributions deductible under section 356 (a) (2) (15 percent of $225,000)	33,750
		51,250
Adjusted net income		173,750
Less:
Dividends paid credit	40,000
Amount used to pay indebtedness	31,750
		71,750
Undistributed adjusted net income		102,000
Amount taxable at 65 percent (not in excess of $2,000)		2,000
Amount taxable at 75 percent ($102,000 minus $2,000)		100,000
Surtax on $2,000 at 65 percent		1,300
Surtax on $100,000 at 75 percent		75,000
Total surtax		76,300

"'SEC. 357. Meaning of Terms Used.

"'The terms used in this title shall have the same meaning as when used in Title I.

"'SEC. 358. Administrative Provisions.

"'All provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of the taxes imposed by Title I of this Act, shall insofar as not inconsistent with this title, be applicable in respect of the tax imposed by this title, except that the provisions of section 131 of that title shall not be applicable.'

"ART. 358–1. Return and payment of tax.—A separate return is required for the surtax imposed under section 351 of Title IA, as amended. Such returns shall be made on Form 1120H. In the case of a personal holding company which is a domestic corporation, the return is required to be made within the time provided by section 53 and in the case of a foreign corporation within the time provided in section 235. The tax shown by the corporation on its return must be paid in the case of a domestic corporation within the time provided in section 56 and in the case of a foreign corporation within the time provided in section 236. The same provisions of law relating to the period of limitations for assessment and collection which govern the taxes imposed by Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936 also apply to the surtax imposed under Title IA, as amended. However, since the surtax imposed under Title IA, as amended, is a distinct and separate tax from those imposed under Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936, the making of a return under Title I of that Act will not start the period of limitations for assessment of the surtax imposed under Title IA, as amended. If the corporation subject to section 351 of Title IA, as amended, fails to file a return the tax may be assessed at any time. If the Commissioner finds a deficiency in respect of the tax imposed by section 351 of Title IA, as amended, he is required to follow the same procedure which applies to deficiencies in income tax under Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936. The penalties applicable to the income taxes imposed under Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936, as well as the provisions of Title I of that Act relating to interest and additions to the tax, also apply to the surtax imposed by section 351 of Title IA, as amended. The administrative provisions applicable to the surtax imposed by section 351 of Title IA, as amended, are not confined to those contained in Title I of the Revenue Act of 1936 but embrace all administrative provisions of law which have any application to income taxes.

"ART. 358–2. Determination of tax, assessment, collection.—The determination, assessment and collection of the tax imposed by section 351 of Title IA, as amended, and the examination of returns and claims in connection therewith, will be made under such procedure as may be prescribed from time to time by the Commissioner.

The evidence is being currently abstracted by the Commission, and a copy of this abstract is supplied to each member of the Commission.

If the applicants file briefs, they shall serve copies on all protestants. Counsel for protestants who file briefs should send 20 copies to this Commission and 25 copies to R. V. Fletcher, Transportation Building, Washington, D. C., of counsel for the applicants. Counsel for protestants who desire copies of briefs filed on behalf of any other protestants should make a request directly on counsel for the latter, as soon as possible, and counsel who receive such requests in good time will be expected to supply copies to those who so apply.

[1937-38 C. C. C. Corn Form 1 [1]]

INSTRUCTIONS CONCERNING THE MAKING OF CORN LOANS BY COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

Commodity Credit Corporation, upon the request of the Secretary of Agriculture, has obtained a commitment from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the purpose of enabling the Commodity Credit Corporation to make loans to, and/or purchase paper of, producers of corn, secured by pledge or mortgage of corn stored and sealed on the farm. These instructions state the requirements with reference to making such loans and the purchase of such paper.

1. Definitions.—As used in these instructions and in the note and loan agreement relating thereto, unless the context requires otherwise, the following terms will be construed to mean—

(a) Eligible producer.—Any person, partnership, association, or corporation producing or acquiring corn, either as landowner, landlord, or tenant, who has received or will receive a grant payment in connection with his participation in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program.

(b) Eligible corn.—Merchantable field corn, husked and in the ear, containing not more than 20½ percent moisture [2] on the basis of a sample taken from each crib of corn offered to be sealed (each sample to be representative of the entire quantity of corn in the crib from which the sample is obtained) which was produced in 1937 by an "eligible producer" on a farm in the areas hereinafter named.

(1) the beneficial title to which is and always has been in the eligible producer; or

(2) purchased by one eligible producer from another eligible producer who has executed the certificate of the seller which is a part of the 1937-38 CCC Corn Form A.

(c) Eligible crib.—

Foundation.—Substantial enough to bear the load of corn and crib without the possibility of its settling to an extent which might cause the crib to warp and break open. Floor.—Strongly constructed and high enough above the ground level to facilitate ventilation and afford protection against damage to the stored corn from moisture and rodents.

Walls.—Slatted, cribbed, or ventilated on both sides beginning at the floor line. Width.—Narrow enough to afford ample cross ventilation to dry out the corn under the prevailing climatic conditions of the locality where the crib is located. Roof.—Tight and substantial enough to protect the corn against prevalent weather conditions for a period of 2 years. Structure.—Studs, joists, braces, and cross ties of sufficient dimension and frequency to withstand any ordinary breaking pressures. Sealing structure.—The crib must be completely and securely enclosed, and sealed in such a manner as to require a forceful breaking to make entry into the crib.

(d) Lending agency.—Any bank, cooperative marketing association, or other corporation, partnership, or person lending money upon the 1937-38 CCC Corn Form A which has executed the Contract to Purchase on 1937-38 CCC Corn Form D. (A loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is not included within this definition.)

(e) Eligible paper.—Notes of producers with loan agreements upon 1937-38 CCC Corn Form A, or any form hereafter approved by Commodity Credit Corporation executed on a date subsequent to December 1, 1937, and prior to April 1, 1938, together with supporting documents herein specified. (a) Note of producer (1937–38 CCC Corn Form A).

(b) Loan Agreement (1937–38 CCC Corn Form A).

(c) Original and duplicate producer's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 CCC Corn Form B), or lending agency's Letter of Transmittal (1937–38 CCC Corn Form C), whichever is appropriate.

(d) Farm Warehouse Certificates issued subsequent to December 1, 1937, under authority of the farm storage warehouse laws of States hereinbefore named.

(e) Insurance Certificate in form printed at the end of these instructions or in form containing identical terms and conditions, except that hail coverage may be excluded.

4. Source and preparation of documents.—With the exception of the farm warehouse certificates, which will be issued by authorized State sealers, forms may be obtained from any County Agricultural Conservation Committee, in the counties listed in Section 2 hereof, or any Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation listed in Section 16 hereof.

All blanks in 1937–38 CCC Corn Form A must be filled in with ink, typewriter, or indelible pencil and no documents containing additions, alterations, or erasures, will be accepted by the Commodity Credit Corporation. The white copy marked "Original" will be executed and the colored copy marked "Duplicate" will be retained by the producer.

The Corn Sealer's Work Sheet (1937–38 CCC Corn Form K) and the Moisture Test Form (1937–38 CCC Corn Form H) will be retained by the County Agricultural Conservation Committee. To be acceptable to Commodity Credit Corporation, the certificate contained in Section 15 of the note and loan agreement must be executed by the County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

5. Farm warehouse certificates.—These certificates must be in form approved by the State Warehouse Supervising Authority and the Commodity Credit Corporation. They must be issued by a sealer, or inspector, who is properly authorized by the State Warehouse Supervising Authority.

Each certificate must designate as a delivery point, a railroad loading station convenient to the producer or state that delivery will be made of the corn at a grain elevator or other point designated by the holder of the certificate, which is reasonably convenient to the producer for delivery purposes. All farm warehouse certificates and duplicates thereof must be assigned by all the parties to whom issued with a legend in substantially the following form:

"For value received the undersigned hereby endorses, assigns, transfers, and delivers to the holder of the original of this certificate the corn therein described as collateral security to any indebtedness due said holder."

A duplicate copy of the certificate after assignment must be filed for record with the respective local or county officials as follows:

In all of the States listed in Section 2 hereof, the original certificate and duplicate marked "Duplicate Certificate, No Value," will be issued to the producer by the Sealer or Inspector, except in Minnesota and Nebraska, where they are issued by the Railroad and Warehouse Commission and the State Railway Commission, respectively.

To be acceptable to Commodity Credit Corporation, the original certificate must have stamped or printed thereon the receipt of the proper county official, stating that the duplicate thereof has been filed of record, as authorized by law, in the county in which the corn is stored.

In Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin, the duplicate is to be filed with the Register of Deeds; in Iowa, Indiana, and Ohio, with the County Recorder; in Illinois and Missouri, with the Recorder of Deeds; and in Nebraska, with the County Clerk.

6. Amount.—Loans will be made at the rate of 50 cents per bushel, a bushel being determined by using not less than 2½ cubic feet of ear corn testing 14 percent in moisture content. A deduction will be made for moisture content in excess of 14 percent in accordance with the following table:

Moisture content:	Deduction
14% to 14½%	None.
14½% to 15½%	2%.
16½% to 17½%	6%.
17½% to 18½%	8%.
18½% to 19½%	10%.
20½% and above	No loan.

7. Inspection and sealing of corn.—Any eligible producer with eligible corn desiring to obtain a loan should first "level off" the corn contained in the crib(s) which he is offering as collateral and then completely enclose such crib(s). Completing this, he should arrange with the County Warehouse Board or Authorized State Sealer or Inspector for an inspection of his corn and crib(s). An inspection of the corn crib(s) and the corn contained therein will then be made. It shall be the sealer's duty to secure representative samples of corn from each crib to be sealed, as well as to record on the Corn Sealer's Work Sheet (1937–38 CCC Corn Form K) pertinent information regarding the crib structure and crib measurements. One sample of corn from each crib to be placed under seal shall be submitted by the sealer to the County Agricultural Conservation Committee for the county in which the corn is stored for moisture-test purposes. The moisture content will be determined by the State Agricultural Conservation Committee through the use of Tag Heppenstall electric moisture meters, and the results of the tests will be submitted on the Moisture Test Form (1937–38 CCC Corn Form H) to the county committee submitting the sample.

The sealer, while on the premises, will complete the measurements, secure the representative sample(s) of corn, and seal the crib(s) of corn.

8. Certificate of seller.—The Certificate of Seller, as contained in 1937–38 CCC Corn Form A, must be executed by the seller of the corn in connection with all loans in which any part of the corn pledged was not grown by the producer but was purchased from another producer as outlined in part (2) of subsection (b) of Section 1 hereof.

9. Liens.—The corn collateral must be free and clear of all liens except in favor of the lienholders listed in the space provided therefor in 1937–38 CCC Corn Form A. The names of the holders of all existing liens on the pledged corn, such as landlord, laborers, or mortgagees, must be listed in the space provided therefor in Section 11 of the loan agreement.

Producers should read carefully all real estate or other mortgages previously given by them in order to be sure that crops are not covered thereby. A misrepresentation as to prior liens, or otherwise, will render the producer personally liable for the amount of the loan, plus insurance and other charges under the terms of the loan agreement. Any misrepresentation of fact made in the execution of the note and loan agreement and related forms will render the person or persons parties to the misrepresentation, subject to the provisions of th United States Criminal Code and section 16 (a) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act.

10. Landlord and tenant.—Where the borrower is a tenant farmer, the expiration date of the lease must be given in Section 3 (c) of the loan agreement. If the expiration date of the lease is prior to sixty (60) days after the maturity date of the note, the landlord must execute the consent for storage agreement, Section 13 of 1937–38 CCC Corn Form A. The consent agreements must also be signed by any other party or parties entitled to possession.

11. Insurance.—All producers who obtain loans are required, at their own expense, to keep the corn collateral insured, so long as the loan is unpaid, against loss by fire, lightning, cyclone, tornado, windstorm, and with or without hail coverage, for not less than the amount of the loan with accrued interest to maturity. Producers must also obtain at their own expense any insurance coverage desired with respect to their equity in the pledged corn.

To comply with this requirement there must be attached to each producer's note a certificate in the form printed at the end of these instructions, issued by a company or association licensed to do business in the State in which the corn is stored. The insurance coverage may be obtained through the customary channels and the form of certificate required will be furnished by the agent writing same. Certificates of insurance issued by official State sealers or inspectors will not be accepted by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Commodity Credit Corporation has obtained a blanket policy to protect it against loss on account of theft, conversion, and certain other risks not covered by the primary insurance carried by producers. The cost of this coverage is one and one-half (1½) cents per $100 per month on the daily average balance of loans outstanding, and this amount will be added as a charge against the corn while the note is held by Commodity Credit Corporation as provided under the terms of the loan agreement.

Banks and other lending agencies desirous of insurance coverage in addition to the primary insurance carried by the producer, until the notes are purchased by Commodity Credit Corporation, must obtain such coverage at their own expense. Such coverage may be obtained through the customary channels or under the blanket policy carried by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Banks and other lending agencies desiring coverage under the Corporation's blanket policy should write Commodity Credit Corporation, Washington, D. C., and appropriate instructions will be issued, together with the necessary forms for reporting thereunder.

12. Liability of producer.—If the producer has made no misstatement or misrepresentation and complies with the terms of the loan agreement he will not be personally liable for any deficiency upon the sale of the pledged corn. The note and loan agreement governs the liability of the producer and should be read carefully.

13. Direct loans.—It is contemplated that producers will ordinarily obtain loans from a local bank or other lending agency which, in turn, may sell the paper evidencing such loans to Commodity Credit Corporation. Arrangements, however, have been made for making direct loans to producers. In such cases the note must be made payable to Commodity Credit Corporation and must be delivered to a Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation shown in Section 16 hereof. Paper for direct loans tendered by mail, in person, or otherwise, must be accompanied by a Producer's Letter of Transmittal on 1937–38 CCC Corn Form B, in duplicate, and must be delivered or postmarked prior to April 1, 1938. The triplicate copy of this letter is to be retained by the producer as a memorandum. Upon delivery of all necessary documents properly executed and upon approval of the loan by the Manager of the Loan Agency, payment will be made pursuant to the letter.

14. Time and manner of loans and purchases.—Commodity Credit Corporation will purchase eligible paper, as defined above, only from lending agencies which have executed and delivered to the Loan Agency to which notes are submitted Contract to Purchase 1937–38 CCC Corn Form D, obtainable only from Loan Agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Under the terms of this contract, lending agencies are required to report monthly on 1937–38 CCC Corn Form E all payments or collections on producer's notes held by them, and to remit promptly to Commodity Credit Corporation at Washington, D. C., an amount equivalent to one and one-half percent interest per annum on the principal amount collected from the date of the note to the date of payment.

15. Lending agency.—The lending agency may endorse the notes of producers to Commodity Credit Corporation without recourse as provided in 1937–38 CCC Corn Form A, provided, however, that the lending agency has executed 1937–38 CCC Corn Form D in accordance with instructions given in subsection (d) of Section 1 hereof.

No producer's notes are to be endorsed to Reconstruction Finance Corporation. A lending agency desiring to tender producer's notes in Commodity Credit Corporation should execute the last form of endorsement printed on the reverse of such notes. Care should be exercised by the lending agency to determine the authenticity of the signatures to the note and loan agreement and to be assured that the warehouse certificates are genuine and represent merchantable corn in existence.

Chicago, Ill.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Omaha, Nebr.; Cleveland, Ohio; Kansas City, Mo.; St. Louis, Mo.

17. Federal Reserve banks.—The Federal Reserve banks and branches thereof will act as fiscal agents of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in making disbursements on eligible paper approved by the Loan Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in that district. Such notes, together with the farm warehouse certificates securing the same, will be held by the Federal Reserve banks or branches thereof as security for the loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to Commodity Credit Corporation.

18. Release of collateral held by Commodity Credit Corporation.—A producer may obtain the release of the collateral pledged upon his request in writing and payment of the amount due thereon with accrued interest and proper charges. If the release of all collateral is desired the producer's note and loan agreement, with the farm warehouse certificate or certificates securing same, will be transmitted to an approved bank with instructions to deliver the note and the farm warehouse certificate, or certificates, to the producer, or his agent, upon the payment of the amount due thereon with accrued interest and proper charges. Where such paper is sent to an approved bank for collection instructions will be given to return such paper to the sender if payment and release are not effected within fifteen days. All charges and expenses of the collecting bank are to be paid by the producer.

Partial releases of collateral will be made on the same basis as stated above, except that the certificate or certificates desired to be released must cover separate cribs and will be sent to an approved bank for delivery to the producer, or his agent, upon the payment of the amount loaned thereon together with accrued interest and proper charges. The producer's note will be credited by the Commodity Credit Corporation with the amount of such payment when received. Notwithstanding the privilege of partial release, it is suggested that producers borrowing upon more than one crib of corn, and desiring to obtain the release of a crib, or cribs, before the entire loan is repaid, execute separate notes and loan agreements for crib, or cribs, to be released before the entire loan is repaid.

If the producer's note was made payable directly to Commodity Credit Corporation and he desires to obtain the release of collateral upon payment as aforesaid, he should notify the Federal Reserve bank or branch thereof serving the district in which the corn is sealed as above provided. If his note was made payable to payee other than Commodity Credit Corporation the producer should notify the payee named therein.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

[Docket No. 3299]

IN THE MATTER OF H. C. BRILL COMPANY, INC., A CORPORATION

COMPLAINT

The Federal Trade Commission, having reason to believe that the H. C. Brill Company, Inc., hereinafter called Respondent, since June 19, 1936, has been and is now violating the provisions of Section 2 (a) of the Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914, (Public No. 212, the Clayton Act), as amended by Section 1 of the Act of Congress entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes', approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C., title 15, sec. 13), and for other purposes", approved June 19, 1936, (Public No. 692, the Robinson-Patman Act), hereby issues this its complaint against respondent and states its charges with respect thereto as follows, to wit:

PARAGRAPH 1. Respondent is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New Jersey and has its principal office and place of business at 101–111 N. J. Railroad Avenue in the city of Newark, New Jersey.

PAR. 2. For many years prior hereto and since June 19, 1936, respondent has been and is now engaged in the business of manufacturing, selling and distributing certain bakers' supplies such as pie fillings, icings and flavoring preparations and also liquid and powder preparations for the manufacture of home made ice cream. The preparation for making ice cream is a commodity manufactured, sold and distributed under the trade name E–ZEE FREEZ. In the course and conduct of its said business the respondent has been and is now manufacturing said commodity at its place of business in the State of New Jersey and has been and is now selling, shipping, and distributing said commodity in commerce from its said place of business in the State of New Jersey to various purchasers of said commodity located in the several states of the United States and in the District of Columbia. For many years prior hereto and since June 19, 1936, there has been and is now between respondent and purchasers of said commodity a course of trade and commerce in said commodity in and between the State of New Jersey and the several other states of the United States and the District of Columbia. The said respondent in the course and conduct of its business as aforesaid has been and is now in direct active competition with other persons, partnerships and corporations similarly engaged.

PAR. 3. Since June 19, 1936, in the course and conduct of its business described in Paragraph Two hereof and while engaged in trade and commerce between the State of New Jersey and the other states of the United States and the District of Columbia as therein described, the respondent has been and is now, in the course of such commerce, discriminating in price between different purchasers of said commodity of like grade and quality sold and shipped in commerce, as aforesaid, by respondent to said purchasers and by them purchased from respondent in commerce for resale within the several states of the United States and the District of Columbia, in that the respondent has been and is now allowing to some of said purchasers a larger rebate from the prices at which said commodity was and is sold to them by respondent than the rebate, if any, which respondent has been and is now allowing to other purchasers of said commodity of like grade and quality purchased from respondent at the same prices.

PAR. 4. Shortly after the effective date of the Robinson-Patman Act, June 19, 1936, a representative of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company presented a so-called quantity discount agreement to the respondent herein, which agreement was executed by respondent in words and figures as follows:

PAR. 6. The total purchases of the various warehouses of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, as aforesaid, amounted to $18,670.57. No single unit purchased in sufficient quantity to earn any rebate under the contract agreement. Each of said warehouses is treated by respondent as an individual customer, sales are solicited independently and the merchandise was shipped and billed to the individual warehouses. On July 21, 1937, respondent sent The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company a check for $260.12. This amount was arrived at by granting to The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company a rebate of 1% on its purchases between $5,000 and $10,000, 2% on its purchases between $10,000 and $15,000, and 3% on its purchases in excess of $15,000.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company objected to this method of computing its rebate, claiming that it was entitled to the full 3% rebate on all purchases in excess of $5,000. Accordingly, on July 26th, 1937, respondent paid to The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company an additional sum of $150.00, making the total rebate $410.12.

PAR. 7. Respondent executed a contract in the same form with The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company covering the period commencing on June 20, 1936 and expiring June 19, 1937. The respondent sold and shipped said commodity from its said plant to the various warehouses of The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company between June 20, 1936 and June 19, 1937 as follows:

Purchases Kroger Units

	June 20, 1936 to Dec. 31, 1936	Jan. 1, 1937 to June 19, 1937
Charleston, W. Va.	$280.50	$96.39

St. Louis, Mo.	957.36
	$4,542.22	$1,431.42

Total purchases	$5,973.64
Less Returns 6/20/36–6/19/37	620.20
Net purchases	$5,353.44

PAR. 8. The total purchases of the various warehouses of The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, as aforesaid, amounted to $5,353.44. No single unit purchased in sufficient quantity to earn any rebate under the contract agreement. Each of said warehouses is treated by said respondent as an individual customer, sales are solicited independently and the merchandise is shipped and billed to the individual warehouses. On September 20, 1937 respondent sent The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company a check in the amount of $3.53. This amount was arrived at by granting to The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company a 1% rebate on its purchases in excess of $5,000, namely $353.44.

PAR. 9. Respondent executed a contract in the same form with the American Stores Company covering a period commencing on October 20, 1936 and expiring October 19, 1937, during which period the American Stores Company purchases amounted to the sum of $4,150.01. The respondent sold and shipped said commodity from its said plant to seven warehouses of the American Stores Company located respectively in Baltimore, Maryland; Syracuse, New York; Johnstown, Pennsylvania; Orange, New Jersey; Wilkes Barre, Pennsylvania and two warehouses located in the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. No rebate was paid to the American Stores Company inasmuch as the total purchases did not aggregate more than the sum of $5,000.

PAR. 10. The aforesaid rebate agreements were entered into by respondent with the aforesaid three large corporate chain store companies and with no other customers. Respondent made an additional special arrangement with most customers by which a special discount of 5% on E–ZEE FREEZ powder was allowed and 10% on all purchases of liquid E–ZEE FREEZ in consideration of the distributor contracting for and agreeing to purchase an agreed number of dozens of said commodities during a year's time and such discounts or allowances were granted, paid or allowed to the aforesaid corporate chains in addition to the rebate, if any, which each of said corporate chains received. Purchasers who would not contract for their purchases at the beginning of the year were not allowed the additional special discounts or if they did not take the amount contracted for respondent was entitled to a charge-back of 5% on all E–ZEE FREEZ powder drawn against the said contract or 10% on all liquid E-ZEE FREEZ drawn against said contract.

PAR. 11. Upon the termination of the aforesaid rebate contract with The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, a second contract in the same form was executed by respondent covering the period commencing on June 20, 1937 and expiring June 19, 1938. This second contract had an additional clause providing that Canadian purchases applied.

PAR. 12. Since June 19, 1936 many purchasers of said commodity, E-ZEE FREEZ, from respondent and who did not receive any rebate have been and are now in substantial competition in the sale, resale and distribution of said commodity with The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company and many units of The Kroger Grocery and Baking Company and American Stores Company, as aforesaid, are likewise in substantial competition with The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company.

PAR. 13. The effect of the discriminations in price referred to in Paragraph Three may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in the line of commerce in which respondent is engaged or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with the respondent or The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, or other beneficiary of like discrimination.

Wherefore, the premises considered, the Federal Trade Commission on this 15th day of January, A. D. 1938, now issues this its complaint against said respondent.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING APPEALS WITHIN THE RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD

Pursuant to the authority conferred by section 10 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, the Railroad Retirement Board hereby prescribes the following regulations governing appeals within the Railroad Retirement Board:

I. INITIAL DECISIONS BY THE CLAIMS SERVICE

1. Claims will be adjudicated and initial decisions made by the Claims Service upon the basis of the application, the evidence submitted by the applicant, and evidence otherwise available. Adjudication and initial decision will be in accordance with instructions issued by the Board.

2. Notice of an initial decision shall be communicated by the Claims Service to the applicant in writing within thirty days after such decision is made.

II. APPEAL FROM AN INITIAL DECISION OF THE CLAIMS SERVICE

1. Every applicant shall have a right to appeal to the Appeals Council from any initial decision of the Claims Service by which he claims to be aggrieved. The Appeals Council shall consist of five members, one of whom shall have legal training and shall be the chairman. Each other member shall have a background of experience in the railroad industry calculated to familiarize him with the practices, procedures, and conduct prevailing in the railroad industry; two of such members shall have a background of experience in the representation of employee organizations, and two shall have had experience calculated to familiarize them with the problems of railway management.

2. Appeal from an initial decision of the Claims Service shall be made by the execution and filing of the appeal form prescribed by the Board, and must be filed with the Appeals Council within one year from the date upon which notice of the initial decision is mailed to the applicant at the address furnished by him. As used herein, a month shall be considered to have elapsed between any date and the date corresponding thereto in the next succeeding month.

3. The right to further review of an initial decision of the Claims Service shall be forfeited unless formal appeal is filed in the manner and within the time prescribed herein.

4. In the event that the applicant makes informal complaint without taking formal appeal, which complaint is not eliminated by explanation of the basis of the initial decision of the Claims Service, the Appeals Council shall endeavor to ascertain, by correspondence or conference with the applicant, whether he takes issue with any point of fact or law involved in the initial decision of the Claims Service, and, if so, whether the applicant desires to take a formal appeal to the Appeals Council. In the latter event, he shall be supplied with the appeal form prescribed by the Board, which form shall be duly executed and filed before the applicant is considered to have made an appeal.

5. The appellant, or his representative, shall be afforded full opportunity to present further evidence upon any controversial question of fact, orally or in writting or by means of exhibits; to examine and cross-examine witnesses; and to present argument in support of the appeal. If, in the judgment of the Appeals Council, evidence not offered by the appellant is available and relevant and is material to the merits of the claim, the Appeals Council shall obtain such evidence upon its own initiative. The Appeals Council shall protect the record against scandal, impertinence and irrelevancies, but the technical rules of evidence shall not apply.

6. In the development of appeals, the Appeals Council shall have power to hold hearings, require and compel the attendance of witnesses, administer oaths, take testimony, and make all necessary investigations.

7. All oral evidence presented at any hearing shall be reduced to writing. All evidence presented by the appellant and all evidence developed by the Appeals Council shall be preserved. Such evidence, together with a record of the arguments, oral or written, and the file previously made in the adjudication of the claim, shall constitute the record for decision of the appeal. After an appeal form is filed, the compilation of the record shall be initiated by the inclusion therein of the file made in the adjudication of the claim; the compilation of the record shall be kept up to date by the prompt addition thereto of all parts of the record subsequently developed. The entire record at any time during the pendency of an appeal shall be available for examination by the appellant or his representative.

8. Upon completion of the record, the Appeals Council shall render decision thereon as soon as practicable, and within thirty days after the making thereof, such decision shall be communicated to the appellant in writing. Decision shall be taken by unanimous vote of the members of the Appeals Council, and such decision shall be either a decision upon the merits of the appeal, or a decision to certify the entire record as an automatic appeal to the Board.

III. FINAL APPEAL FROM A DECISION OF THE APPEALS COUNCIL

1. Every appellant shall have a right to a final appeal to the Railroad Retirement Board from any decision of the Appeals Council by which he claims to be aggrieved.

2. Final appeal from a decision of the Appeals Council shall be made by the execution and filing of the final appeal form prescribed by the Board, except as provided in paragraph 8 of Part II, and must be filed with the Board within four months from the date upon which notice of the decision by the Appeals Council is mailed to the appellant at the address furnished by him. As used herein, a month shall be considered to have elapsed between any date and the date corresponding thereto in the next succeeding month.

2. The right to further review of a decision of the Appeals Council shall be forfeited unless formal final appeal is filed in the manner and within the time prescribed herein.

4. Upon final appeal to the Board, no additional evidence shall be received. In the event that the appellant shows that he is ready to present further material evidence, which for any reason he was not able to present to the Appeals Council, the claim shall be referred back to the Appeals Council for presentation of the further evidence. Upon receipt of such further evidence the Appeals Council shall transmit to the Board a transcript thereof together with its recommendation to the Board for final decision.

5. The decision of the Board shall be made upon the record of evidence and argument which has been made in the handling of the case before final appeal to the Board. Further argument will not be permitted except upon a showing by the appellant that he has arguments to present which for valid reasons he was unable to present at an earlier stage, and in cases where the Board requests further elaboration of the appellant's arguments. In such cases, the further argument shall be submitted orally or in writing, as the Board may indicate in each case, and shall be subject to such restrictions as to form, subject matter, length and time as the Board may indicate to the appellant.

IV. EFFECTIVE DATE OF THESE REGULATIONS AND APPLICATION THEREOF TO DECISIONS MADE PRIOR TO SUCH DATE

1. The effective date of these regulations shall be February 1, 1938.

2. All decisions upon applications for annuities or death benefits made by the Board prior to the effective date of these regulations shall be subject to review and reconsideration under these regulations, and for such purpose any such decision shall constitute an initial decision by the Claims Service as that term is used in these regulations.

3. For the purpose of applying the several limitations of time contained in these regulations, every decision made prior to the effective date of these regulations, by the Board or by the Claims Service, upon any application for annuity or death benefits, shall be considered to have been mailed to the applicant on the effective date of these regulations.

PRICE INSTRUCTIONS

1. The schedule of prices shown herein applies F. O. B. trucks or wagons at mines, on all coal produced by Code Members in the District shown on the title page hereof.

2. All Prices are subject to the Marketing Rules and Regulations issued by the National Bituminous Coal Commission.

3. If any size is made for which a price is not designated herein, such size shall be sold at the price applicable to the next larger size.

4. All size designations herein are for round hole screens. When other types of screens are used the round hole equivalent shall control the size.

5. All Prices herein are per net ton of 2,000 pounds F. O. B. transportation facilities at the mines unless otherwise designated.

6. When coal is subjected to any chemical, oil, or waxing process, an additional charge of not less than 10¢ per net ton shall be made.

7. Not less than the actual cost of transporting coal from the ordinary loading facilities at the mines to any consumer shall be added to the established minimum price F. O. B. transportation facilities at the mine.

The cost of such transportation is subject to review by the Commission on complaint or upon its own motion. In every case reviewed by the Commission the Code Member shall have the burden of establishing or proving that the cost so charged was an accurate cost commensurate with the service actually rendered.

8. Any Code Member Mine not listed in this Index for shipment by truck shall observe the schedule of prices applicable to adjacent mines having similar quality coal.

REVISED TRUCK MINE PRICE SCHEDULE NO. 1 SUPERSEDING SUPPLEMENT NO. 2 TO PRICE SCHEDULE NO. 1, DISTRICT NO. 10

Revised Truck Mine Schedule of Minimum Prices for Coals of Code Members Produced within District No. 10, established pursuant to the provisions of the "Bituminous Coal Act of 1937."

Effective January 27, 1938.

Issued January 17, 1938.

F. W. MCCULLOUGH, Secretary.

PRICE INSTRUCTIONS

1. The schedule of prices shown herein applies F. O. B. trucks or wagons at mines, on all coal produced by Code Members in the District shown on the title page hereof.

2. All Prices are subject to the Marketing Rules and Regulations issued by the National Bituminous Coal Commission.

3. If any size is made for which a price is not designated herein, such size shall be sold at the price applicable to the next larger size.

4. All size designations herein are for round hole screens. When other types of screens are used the round hole equivalent shall control the size.

5. All Prices herein are per net ton of 2,000 pounds F. O. B. transportation facilities at the mines unless otherwise designated.

6. When coal is subjected to any chemical, oil, or waxing process, an additional charge of not less than 10¢ per net ton shall be made.

7. Not less than the actual cost of transporting coal from the ordinary loading facilities at the mines to any consumer shall be added to the established minimum price F. O. B. transportation facilities at the mine.

The cost of such transportation is subject to review by the Commission on complaint or upon its own motion. In every case reviewed by the Commission the Code Member shall have the burden of establishing or proving that the cost so charged was an accurate cost commensurate with the service actually rendered.

8. Any Code Member Mine not listed in this Index for shipment by truck shall observe the schedule of prices applicable to adjacent mines having similar quality coal.

NOTICE OF HEARING AND DESIGNATION OF PRESIDING OFFICER

Pursuant to the authority contained in Section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1937 (Public No. 414, 75th Congress) and on the basis of the information now before me, I, Harry L. Brown, Acting Secretary of Agriculture, do hereby find that the allotment of the 1938 liquid sugar quotas for foreign countries, established pursuant to section 208 of the said act, is necessary to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market such sugar, and hereby give notice that a public hearing will be held at Washington, D. C., in the auditorium of the United States Department of Agriculture, on February 1, 1938, at 10 a. m.

The purpose of such hearing is to receive evidence to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to make a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of the above-mentioned quotas among persons who bring liquid sugar from foreign countries into the continental United States, and such other evidence as may be pertinent to the exercise of the powers vested in the Secretary of Agriculture under section 205 (a) of the said act.

Robert H. Shields and John C. Bagwell are hereby designated as presiding officers to conduct either jointly or severally the foregoing hearing.

The "Notice of Hearing and Designation of Presiding Officers" signed by the Secretary of Agriculture on January 13, 1938, is hereby rescinded.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 19th day of January, 1938. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

Determination of Fair and Reasonable Wage Rates for Harvesting of the 1937 Crop of Sugar Beets, Pursuant to the Sugar Act of 1937

Whereas Section 301 (b) of the Sugar Act of 1937, approved September 1, 1937, provides as one of the conditions for payment to producers of sugar beets and sugarcane, as follows:

(b) That all persons employed on the farm in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of sugar beets or sugarcane with respect to which an application for payment is made shall have been paid in full for all such work, and shall have been paid wages therefor at rates not less than those that may be determined by the Secretary to be fair and reasonable after investigation and due notice and opportunity for public hearing; and in making such determinations the Secretary shall take into consideration the standards therefor formerly established by him under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, and the differences in conditions among various producing areas: Provided, however, That a payment which would be payable except for the foregoing provisions of this subsection may be made, as the Secretary may determine, in such manner that the laborer will receive an amount, insofar as such payment will suffice, equal to the amount of the accrued unpaid wages for such work, and that the producer will receive the remainder, if any, of such payment.

and

Whereas Section 301 (e) of the said act provides, in part, as follows:

The conditions provided in * * * sub-section (b) with respect to wage rates, of this section shall not apply to work performed prior to the enactment of this Act; * * *.

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture has held a number of public hearings in the sugar beet area for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the production, cultivation or harvesting of the 1937 crop of sugar beets.

Now, therefore, I, H. A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, after investigation and due consideration of the evidence obtained at the aforesaid hearings and all other information before me, do hereby determine a fair and reasonable wage rate with respect to the harvesting, after September 1, of the 1937 crop of sugar beets, which rate for any farm shall be not less than 12 cents per ton harvested in addition to the total amount agreed upon between the producer and the laborer; provided, however, that a producer shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of Section 301 (b) of the Sugar Act of 1937 in regard to fair and reasonable wages if the following rates have been paid for harvesting acreages yielding more than seven (7) tons per acre:

The number of net short tons of sugar beets harvested per acre:	Rate per (net) short ton for the total tonnage harvested per acre

IN THE MATTER OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES FOR THE METAL CLAD DOOR AND ACCESSORIES MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

Promulgation of Trade Practice Rules

Due proceedings having been had under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the Act of Congress approved September 26, 1914 (38 Stat. 717),

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I which have been approved by the Commission in this proceeding and the rules in Group II which have been received by the Commission as expressions of the industry be, and the same are, hereby promulgated for the Metal Clad Door and Accessories Manufacturing Industry.

TRADE PRACTICE RULES—METAL CLAD DOOR AND ACCESSORIES—MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY

These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote fair competitive conditions in the interest of the industry and the public. They are not to be used, directly or indirectly, as part of or in connection with any combination or agreement to fix prices, or for the suppression of competition, or otherwise to unreasonably restrain trade.

Group I

The unfair trade practices which are embraced in Group I rules are considered to be unfair methods of competition or other illegal practices prohibited, within the purview of the Federal Government, by acts of Congress as construed in the decisions of the Federal Trade Commission or the courts; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use of such unlawful practices in or directly affecting interstate commerce.

RULE 1. Directly or indirectly to give, or permit to be given, or offer to give, money or anything of value to agents, employees or representatives of customers or prospective customers, or to agents, employees or representatives of competitors' customers or prospective customers, without the knowledge of their employers or principals, as an inducement to influence their employers or principals to purchase or contract to purchase industry products from the maker of such gift or offer, or to influence such employers or principals to refrain from dealing or contracting to deal with competitors, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 2. Wilfully inducing or attempting to induce the breach of an existing contract or contracts between competitors and their customers or their suppliers by any false or deceptive means whatsoever, or wilfully interfering with or obstructing the performance of any such contractual duties or services by any such means, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring or prejudicing competitors in their businesses, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 3. Wilfully enticing away the employees of competitors with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring or embarrassing competitors in their businesses is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 4. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to make or publish or cause to be made or published, directly or indirectly, any false, misleading or deceptive statement or representation, by way of advertisement, guarantee, warranty, adjustment policy, or otherwise, concerning the grade, quality, quantity, substance, use, character, nature, origin, size, manufacture or distribution of any product of the industry, or concerning the life or service of such product, or in any other material respect.

RULE 5. The false or deceptive marking or branding of products of the industry, with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public with respect to the grade, quality, quantity, use, size, material, content, origin, preparation, manufacture or distribution of such products, or in any other material respect, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 6. The defamation of competitors by falsely imputing to them dishonorable conduct, inability to perform contracts, questionable credit standing, or by other false representations, or the false disparagement of the grade, quality or manufacture of the products of competitors, or of their business methods, selling prices, values, credit terms, policies or services, with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 7. (a) Prohibited discriminatory rebates, refunds, discounts, credits and other price differentials.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to grant or allow, secretly or openly, directly or indirectly, any rebates, refunds, discounts, credits or other price differentials, where such rebates, refunds, discounts, credits or other price differentials effect a discrimination in price between different purchasers of goods of like grade and quality and where either or any of the purchases involved therein are in commerce[1] and where the effect thereof may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce[1] or to injure, destroy or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination or with customers or either of them: Provided, however—

(1) That the goods involved in any such transaction are sold for use, consumption or resale within any place under the jurisdiction of the United States;

(2) That nothing herein contained shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered;

(3) That nothing herein contained shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares or merchandise in commerce[1] from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade;

(4) That nothing herein contained shall prevent price changes from time to time where made in response to changing conditions affecting either (a) the market for the goods concerned, or (b) the marketability of the goods, such as, but not limited to, actual or imminent deterioration of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the goods concerned.

(b) Prohibited brokerages and commissions.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1], in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(c) Prohibited advertising or promotional allowances, etc.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to pay or contract for the payment of advertising or promotional allowances or any other thing of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such member in the course of such commerce as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale or offering for sale of any products or commodities manufactured, sold, or offered for sale by such member, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products or commodities.

(d) Prohibited discriminatory services or facilities.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of a commodity bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish or by furnishing, or by contributing to the furnishing of, any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale or offering for sale of such commodity so purchased upon terms not accorded to all purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(e) Illegal price discrimination.—It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry or other person engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to discriminate in price in any other respect contrary to Section 2 of the Clayton Act as amended by the Act of Congress approved June 19, 1936 (Public, No. 692, 74th Congress), or knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by such section as amended.

RULE 8. The practice of selling goods below the seller's cost with the intent and with the effect of injuring a competitor and where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly or unreasonably restrain trade is an unfair trade practice; all elements recognized by good accounting practice as proper elements of such cost shall be included in determining cost under this rule.

RULE 9. Representing, through advertising or otherwise, that any products of the industry conform to a standard recognized in or applicable to the industry when such is not the fact, with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 10. The sale or offering for sale of any product of the industry by any false or deceptive means or device which has the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public as to the grade, quality, quantity, substance, use, character, nature, origin, size or preparation of such product, or in any other material respect, is an unfair trade practice.

RULE 11. The practice of using or substituting any product of the industry inferior in grade or quality to, less in quantity than, or of a different design or type from, that specified by the purchaser, without the consent of said purchaser to such use or substitution and with the tendency, capacity or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice.

[1] As herein used, the word "commerce" means trade or commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State, Territory, or foreign nation, or between any insular possessions or other places under the jurisdiction of the United States, or between any such possession or place and any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation, or within the District of Columbia or any Territory or any insular possesion or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States; Provided, That this shall not apply to the Philippine Islands.

Group II

The trade practices embraced in these Group II rules are considered to be conducive to sound business methods and are to be encouraged and promoted individually or through voluntary cooperation exercised in accordance with existing law. Nonobservance of such rules does not, per se, constitute violation of law. However, the failure to observe them under certain circumstances may result in an unfair method of competition contrary to law. In such event, a corrective proceeding may be instituted by the Commission as in the case of a violation of Group I rules.

RULE A. Contracts are business obligations which should be performed in letter and in spirit. The repudiation of contracts by sellers on a rising market or by buyers on a declining market is condemned by the industry.

RULE B. The industry condemns fake or fictitious bids made for the purpose of deceiving competitors and securing undue advantage. If plans and specifications are changed and new bids called for after the original bids have been submitted and opened, the same fairness should obtain as with the original bid.

RULE C. In cases of competitive bidding, the practice of receiving or making so-called "blind bids", which discount the lowest competitive bid regardless of the amount, tends to destroy competitive bidding, and is condemned by the industry.

By the Commission.

INCOME TAX

ARTICLE 23 (P)-1 OF REGULATIONS 94 AMENDED

To Collectors of Internal Revenue and Others Concerned:

Article 23 (p)-1 of Regulations 94 is amended to read as follows:

"ART. 23 (p)-1. Payments to employees' pension trusts.—An employer claiming the benefit of the deduction allowable by section 23 (p) must show himself entitled to such deduction. In no case will any amount be allowed as a deduction for the taxable year under section 23 (p) and this article which was allowable as a deduction from gross income for any prior year. An employer who adopts or has adopted a reasonable pension plan, actuarially sound, and who establishes, or has established, and maintains a pension trust for the payment of reasonable pensions to his employees (if the trust is exempt from tax under section 165, relating to trusts created for the exclusive benefit of employees) shall be allowed to deduct from gross income reasonable amounts paid to such trust, in accordance with the pension plan (including any reasonable amendment thereof), as follows:

"(a) If the plan contemplates the payment to the trust, in advance of the time when pensions are granted, of amounts to provide for future pension payments, then (1) amounts paid to the trust during the taxable year representing the pension liability applicable to such year, determined in accordance with the plan, shall be allowed as a deduction for such year as an ordinary and necessary business expense, and in addition (2) one-tenth of a reasonable amount transferred or paid to the trust during the taxable year to cover in whole or in part the pension liability applicable to the years prior to the taxable year, or so transferred or paid to place the trust on a sound financial basis, shall be allowed as a deduction for the taxable year and for each of the nine succeeding taxable years;

"(b) If the plan does not contemplate the payment to the trust, in advance of the time when pensions are granted, of amounts to provide for future pension payments, then (1) amounts paid to the trust during the taxable year representing the present value of the expected future payments in respect of pensions granted to employees retired during the taxable year shall be allowed as a deduction for such year as an ordinary and necessary business expense, and in addition (2) one-tenth of a reasonable amount transferred or paid to the trust during the taxable year to cover in whole or in part the present value of the expected future payments in respect of pensions granted to employees retired prior to the taxable year, or so transferred or paid to place the trust on a sound financial basis, shall be allowed as a deduction for the taxable year and for each of the nine succeeding taxable years.

"The right to a deduction under section 23 (p) will be recognized in cases where the pension trust may not be perpetual, provided the trust is of such a character as to evidence good faith on the part of the employer actually to pay the amounts placed in trust for employees' pension purposes. However, should any portion of the funds of a pension trust revert to the possession, ownership, or control of the employer by reason of the termination of the trust or otherwise, such amount (except to the extent that it represents a payment to the pension trust made by the employer in acordance with the pension plan and pursuant to paragraph (a) or (b) of this article, and not theretofore allowed as a deduction to the employer) shall be returned as income by the employer for the taxable year in which it so reverts, unless prior to the close of such year it shall again be placed in trust for the benefit of employees under provisions satisfactory to the Commissioner.

"Reasonable payments made by an employer during the taxable year directly to pensioners on account of pensions in respect of which no payment has been made to a pension trust shall be allowed as a deduction from gross income for such year as an ordinary and necessary business expense.

"Devices of whatever nature for withdrawing profits or paying salaries to officers are not pension trusts within the meaning of the Act and this article.

"A pension trust maintained by affiliated corporations for the exclusive benefit of their employees is within the scope of sections 23 (p) and 165.

"The application of section 23 (p) may be illustrated by the following examples:

"Example—Accruals in advance of pensions granted: In 1936 the M Company adopted a reasonable pension plan and established a pension trust which was exempt from tax under section 165. During the year and upon the basis of an actuarial computation the company paid $8,950,000 to the trust. At the time of the payment and in accordance with the pension plan of the company, the pension liability applicable to the years prior to 1936, in respect of employees then on the retired roll, for pensions to be paid in the future, was $2,000,000; the pension liability applicable to the years prior to 1936, in respect of employees on the active roll, for pensions to be paid in the future, was $6,500,000; the payment required to cover the pension liability applicable to the taxable year 1936 for pensions to be paid in the future, was $450,000. The amount paid to retired employees of the M Company by the pension trust as pensions during 1936 was $360,000.

"The deduction for 1936 is computed as follows:

(a) Entire amount paid to pension trust representing the pension liability applicable to 1936 for pensions to be paid in the future	$450,000
(b) One-tenth of $8,500,000, amount transferred to pension trust to cover the pension liability applicable to the years prior to 1936, in respect of employees on either the retired roll or the active roll, for pensions to be paid in the future	850,000
Total deduction	1,300,000

"The amount of $360,000 paid to pensioners is not allowable as a deduction for income tax purposes since it was paid by the pension trust and not by the M Company.

"Example—Accruals on basis of pension granted.—In 1936 the N Company adopted a reasonable pension plan and established a pension trust which was exempt from tax under section 165. During the year and upon the basis of an actuarial computation the company paid $2,300,000 to the trust. At the time of the payment the present value of the expected future payments in respect of pensions granted to employees retired prior to 1936 was $2,000,000; the present value of the expected future payments in respect of pensions granted to employees retired during 1936 was $300,000. The amount paid to retired employees of the N Company by the pension trust as pensions during 1936 was $360,000.

"The deduction for 1936 is computed as follows:

(a) Entire amount paid to the pension trust representing the present value of the expected future payments in respect of pensions granted to employees retired during 1936	$300,000
(b) One-tenth of $2,000,000, the amount transferred to the pension trust to cover the present value of the expected future payments in respect of pensions granted to employees retired prior to 1936	200,000
Total deduction	500,000

"The amount of $360,000 paid to pensioners is not allowable as a deduction for income tax purposes, since it was paid by the pension trust and not by the N Company."

Regulations 94 are further amended by adding after article 23 (p)-1, as amended, the following article:

"ART. 23 (p)-2. Information to be furnished by employer claiming deductions.—If a deduction from gross income is claimed under section 23 (p) in an income return or in a claim for refund on account of payments to an employee's pension trust, the employer shall file with such return or claim for refund a statement describing the pension trust plan, including the basis and method of its operation, together with a copy of the trust indenture, with any amendments thereto, and other documents constituting a part of the plan. If all employees are not included as beneficiaries of the pension trust, a statement showing what classes of employees are excluded, and the general nature of their respective employment and duties, together with the reason why all employees are not covered by the pension trust plan, shall likewise be filed. If such statements have once been filed and if the return contains a statement when and where such statements were filed, they need not again be filed; but, however, if changes in the pension trust plan have been made, a statement showing the nature of such changes (together with copies of any amendments to the trust indenture and other documents constituting a part of the plan) must be filed with the return for the first taxable year for which allowance of deductions under section 23 (p) may be affected by such changes in the pension trust plan.

"In addition the following described data and information shall be kept at all times available for inspection by internal revenue officers at the main office or principal place of business of the employer:

"1. Schedules or work sheets showing the derivation of the basic valuation factors, or, if such data are not available, a statement giving the source of the factors from which the actuarial valuations were made.

"2. (a) Schedules showing the computation of the reserve liability for all employees in the active service as determined from the most recent actuarial valuation. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1936, the most recent actuarial valuation, for the purposes of this article, means such a valuation made not earlier than five years prior to the filing of the return.

"(b) A similar schedule based on the next preceding valuation if such a valuation has been made.

"3. A schedule showing by ages the individual current liability factors and the application of these factors in determining the liability accrued during the current taxable year.

"4. (a) A schedule showing the computation of the pension liability for all employees retired on pension at the date of the last actuarial valuation.

"(b) A schedule showing, by calendar years, the present value of pensions granted from the date of the last actuarial valuation to the end of the taxable year for which the deduction is claimed in an income return or in a claim for refund.

"5. A schedule showing the receipts and disbursements of the pension fund during each taxable year carried forward from the date the pension trust was established. The receipts should include the accruals mentioned in paragraph 3, interest, and any other monies credited to the fund. The disbursements should include actual pension payments made to retired employees and any other expenditures charged to the pension fund.

"If the valuation factors are changed at any time, either because of a change in the pension plan or because of a change in the assumptions upon which the valuation factors are based, the data indicated under 2, 3, and 4 above should be available showing the application of both the old and the new valuation factors to the payroll as of the valuation date coinciding with or next following the date of the change.

"If the pension plan does not contemplate the payment to the trust in advance of the time when pensions are granted, of amounts to provide for future pension payments, the data described under 2 and 3 above need not be furnished."

This Treasury Decision is issued under the authority contained in section 62 of the Revenue Act of 1936.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

[T. D. 49355]

COUNTERVAILING DUTIES ON BRITISH SUGAR

THE NET AMOUNTS OF BOUNTIES OR GRANTS ON BRITISH REFINED SUGAR DECLARED PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 303 OF THE TARIFF ACT OF 1930 AND COLLECTORS OF CUSTOMS INSTRUCTED TO COLLECT ADDITIONAL DUTIES EQUAL TO SUCH NET AMOUNTS OF BOUNTIES OR GRANTS

To Collectors of Customs and Others Concerned:

The Bureau is in receipt of official information that drawback allowances are paid by the Government of the United Kingdom and Great Britain and Northern Ireland on the exportation of refined sugar produced in the United Kingdom. These allowances in certain instances exceed the amounts of duties collected on imported raw sugar.

Since the excesses of drawback over the duties collected constitute bounties within the meaning of the provisions of section 303 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (U. S. C., title 19, sec. 1303), I have estimated and determined and hereby declare the net amounts of such bounties per pound of refined sugar from the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland to be as follows:

(1) When the British drawback of customs duty is allowed at the rate of 9s/4d per cwt. of 112 lbs., the net amount of the bounty is:

1d—(.94695539d × percentage of sucrose in imported sugar.)

(2) When the British drawback of customs duty is allowed at the rate of 5s/0-2/3d per cwt. of 112 lbs., the net amount of the bounty is:

.54166667d—(.51265881d × percentage of sucrose in imported sugar.)

(3) When the British drawback of customs duty is allowed at the rate of 3s/10.9d per cwt. of 112 lbs., the net amount of the bounty is:

.41875d—(.39653167d × percentage of sucrose in imported sugar.)

(4) When the British drawback of customs duty is allowed at the rate of 2s/9.2d per cwt. of 112 lbs., the net amount of the bounty is:

.29642857d—(.28040454d × percentage of sucrose in imported sugar.)

(5) When the British drawback of customs duty is allowed at the rate of 1s/7.4d per cwt. of 112 lbs., the net amount of the bounty is:

.17321428d—(.16333328d × percentage of sucrose in imported sugar.)

For your information there is set forth below an example for determining the amounts of the additional duties to be collected:

On an importation of sugar from the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland testing 99.9 degrees polarization, where the drawback granted by the British Government is shown by the invoice to have been 9s/4d per cwt. of 112 lbs., the operation would be as follows:

1—(.94695539 × .999) = .05399157d bounty per lb.

Collectors of customs, therefore, will collect additional duties on British refined sugar equal to the net amounts of the bounties or grants in accordance with the rate or rates applicable as set forth above when imported directly or indirectly and entered for consumption, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, after the expiration of thirty days after the publication of this decision in the weekly Treasury Decisions.

Consular invoices covering refined sugar produced in the United Kingdom and imported into the United States shall show the rate or rates of the drawback claimed or allowed, or to be claimed or allowed, thereon.

The farm unit plats referred to above were approved on the date of this order and are on file in the office of the Construction Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Boise, Idaho, and in the local land offices at The Dalles, Oregon, and Blackfoot, Idaho.

2. Limit of acreage for which entry may be made or water rental secured.—For the farm units described above, and any other lands covered by this order which may become subject to homestead entry the limit of area of public land per entry, representing the area which, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Interior, may be reasonably required for the support of a family upon such land, is fixed at the amounts shown upon the said farm unit plats for the respective farm units thereon. The maximum limit of area for which water rental application may be made for lands in private ownership shall be 160 acres of irrigable land for each landowner.

3. Filing of water rental applications.—Water rental applications for entered lands and lands in private ownership must be filed in the office of the Construction Engineer and such applications may be made on or after the date of this order. For public land farm units the water rental applications must be made in accordance with the conditions hereinafter stated.

4. Preference rights to ex-service men.—Pursuant to the provisions of joint Public Resolution No. 85, 71st Congress, approved June 12, 1930 (46 Stat., 580), and until May 1, 1938 the farm units described above wil be open to entry only by officers, soldiers, sailors, or marines who have served in the Army or Navy of the United States in any war, military occupation, or military expedition, and have been honorably separated or discharged therefrom or placed in the regular Army or Naval Reserve. The same preference rights are applicable to those citizens of the United States who served with the allied armies during the World War and who were honorably discharged, upon their resumption of citizenship in the United States, provided the service with the allied armies was similar to the service with the Army of the United States for which recognition is granted in the aforesaid Public Resolution No. 85; Provided, however, That they must be qualified to make entry under the homestead laws and also possess the qualifications as to industry, experience, character, and capital required of all applicants under this order.

5. Applicants must be qualified.—No entry shall be accepted by the local land office until the applicant therefor has satisfied the Examining Board appointed for the Owyhee Project to consider such matters, that he is possessed of such qualifications (in addition to the qualifications required under the homestead laws) as to industry, experience, character, and capital, as in the opinion of the board are necessary to give reasonable assurance of success by the prospective settler.

6. Requirements as to industry, experience, character and capital.—Each applicant must possess good health and have had at least two years' actual experience in farm work and farm practice. He must have at least $2,000 in money free of liability, or the equivalent thereof in livestock, farming equipment, or other assets deemed by the Examining Board to be as useful to the applicant as money. Provided, however, That for farm units having irrigable areas of not more than twenty acres each applicant must have a net worth of $1,000 or the equivalent thereof.

7. Examining Board.—An Examining Board of three members has been appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, to consider the fitness of each applicant to undertake the development and operation of a farm on the Owyhee project. Each applicant, except those described in paragraph 13 (a), must appear in person before the Examining Board, and the Construction Engineer, who is the member representing the United States, and who will act as Secretary of the Board, will notify each applicant of the period of time set for his appearance and examination. The members of the board will be present at the project office when the opening is being held, and interested applicants, and particularly non-residents, will be examined at such times as it is convenient for them to be present. There must be, of course, some limit of time covering this feature, and the board will fix this limit, and will also announce such other incidental rules as will necessitate one appearance only by each applicant. Careful investigation shall be made to verify the statements and representations made by applicants, to the end that no misunderstanding may prevail, either regarding the applicant's fitness or his appreciation of the problem before him.

8. Determination of relative standing of applicants.—The relative standing of the applicants will be based upon a percentage rating with the following weights given to the four prescribed qualifications:

	Percent
Character	15
Industry	20
Capital	30
Farm Experience	35

Applicants will be rated according to the following schedules and no applicants will be considered eligible, who fall below the minimum named in any one of the headings of these schedules, or who do not, in the opinion of the board, possess the health and vigor necessary for active farm work:

Character	Percent	Industry	Percent
Fair	5	Fair	5
Good	6 to 10	Good	6 to 10
Excellent	11 to 15	Excellent	11 to 20

9. When, and how to apply for a farm unit.—Any person desiring to acquire any of the farm units described in paragraph 1 must, as a first step, secure from the Construction Engineer, Boise, Idaho, or from the Commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation, Washington, D. C., a farm application blank. The blanks will be available on and after the date of this notice, and full answer must be made to each question propounded therein. The farm application must designate in the first paragraph the particular farm desired. If the applicant claims a preference right on account of military service, he shall attach to this application an affidavit setting forth such military service. The affidavit shall state the applicant's time of service, the unit of which he was a member, the date on which he was honorably discharged, or separated, or transferred to the regular Army or Naval Reserve, and that he did not refuse to wear the uniform of such service or to perform the duties thereof. If the applicant claims a preference right on account of military service with the allied armies during the World War, the affidavit should also state, if true, that the service with the allied armies was similar to the service with the Army of the United States for which recognition was granted in the said Public Resolution No. 85. There shall be attached to said affidavit a copy of such honorable discharge or separation from the service, or the order of transfer to the regular Army or Naval Reserve, as the case may be, which copy shall be certified by a notary public to be a true copy of the original.

10. When and where to file the farm application.—The farm application with the proof to be furnished by the ex-Service man, must be filed with the Construction Engineer at Boise, Idaho, in person, if convenient, or by mail, or otherwise, prior to January 31, 1938, if the applicant desires to qualify under paragraph 11 below. No advantage will accrue to an applicant presenting his application in person rather than by mail, and, if the applicant does not reside at Boise, his application should be mailed. Farm applications received on or after January 31, 1938, will be filed and noted in the order of their receipt.

11. Simultaneous filing of farm applications.—All applications received prior to January 31, 1938, the date of opening, will be held and treated as simultaneously filed.

12. Preference rights of ex-service men not filing in accordance with Paragraph 11.—In order that ex-service men may take advantage of the preference right as provided in Paragraph 4 of this order, in the event that they fail to file prior to January 31, 1938, as set forth in Paragraph 11 above, their applications together with the proof to be furnished by them, must be filed in the Office of the Construction Engineer, Boise, Idaho, on or prior to May 1, 1938, the day before the date upon which the farm units herein described, except those units for which applications of ex-service men have been accepted, become open to entry by the general public. No advantage will accrue to an applicant presenting his application in person rather than by mail.

13. Showing of applicants and selection thereof.—(a) Where the applicant fails to make a prima facie case—that is, where the applicant does not possess good health or does not show at least two years' farm experience, and the assets required in Paragraph 6, the application shall be rejected and the applicant notified thereof by registered mail, and of his right to appeal to the Secretary of the Interior within 10 days from receipt of notice. Like action shall be taken where the evidence of military service is defective or not furnished. All appeals allowed under this order must be filed in the office of the project Construction Engineer at Boise, Idaho, and within 10 days from receipt of notice. (b) Each applicant who makes a prima facie case and has not been previously examined by the board shall be notified by the board, by registered mail, of the time within which he must appear before it. After such personal examinations, and after consideration of the showing made in the application, the board will rate the applicant in accordance with the scale set forth above, and place such rating in red ink, with the initials of each member of the board upon the face of the farm application blank. Should the applicant fail to appear for examination after due notice, his application will receive no further consideration by the board at that time. Should he later appear his application may be considered for any farm then remaining unassigned. The date of receipt of his application shall then be considered as being the day he actually appeared before the board. The rating necessary to establish qualification is the minimum named in Paragraph 8 of this order, and the applications of all who fail to attain this minimum shall be rejected and the applicants notified thereof by registered mail, and of the right of appeal to the Secretary within 10 days from receipt of notice. After the expiration of the appeal period and in the absence of any pending appeals, the board shall select the 51 applicants (there being 51 farm units described in paragraph 1 subject to entry) with the highest rating, and notify each of the other applicants that since the number of qualified applicants exceeds the number of available farms, it is necessary to reject all applications below the first 51 in qualification ratings. Each rejected applicant may appeal to the Secretary within ten days. In the event that the number of qualified applicants is less than the number of available farm units, and also if in such case there are several applications for the same farm unit, the board shall assign a farm unit to each of such applicants. Whenever practicable, the board shall allow the applicants to exercise a choice of farms; and if it is found practicable to do so, the applicants will be given the right of selection, regardless of other applications, in the order of their ratings. The intent of the law is to select the best qualified applicants for the farms available, and the Government reserves the right to assign the farms regardless of individual preferences. Where two or more applicants have received identical ratings a drawing shall be made by the examining board to determine the order in which the available farms shall be awarded.

14. Notification of applicant that he has been selected.—After the expiration of the appeal periods in all of the contingencies names above, or any other that may arise, and in the absence of any pending appeals, the board shall notify each applicant selected for a farm, by registered mail, and enclose a water rental application for the farm selected, which must be filled in by the applicant and returned to the Construction Engineer within 10 days from receipt of notice with payment of the water rental charges, as specified in Paragraph 21 hereof. Upon receipt by the Construction Engineer of the water rental application, executed by the applicant and accompanied by the required payment, the board shall make appropriate notation on a copy of said water rental application, which will entitle the applicant to file homestead application at the local land office, and the board will return said copy by registered mail to the applicant for that purpose. Such homestead application shall be made within 15 days from the date of receipt of the approved water rental application. Failure to make homestead entry within the period named will render the application subject to rejection.

15. Failure of selected applicant to complete transaction.—If the applicant fails to comply with any of the requirements named above the board will select the next highest in qualification rating, and when the list has been exhausted, and if there still remain lands unallotted, the board will consider applications filed thereafter in the order filed, and such applications will otherwise be handled by the board as prescribed in Paragraph 13.

16. General entry.—On and after May 2, 1938 any farm units described in paragraph 1 above which remain unentered, shall be subject to entry under this order by any person having the necessary qualifications. If, on May 2, 1938 prior to 2 p. m., the number of applications filed exceeds the number of available farm units, then the right to make entry for any such farm unit shall be determined in accordance with Paragraph 13 of this order, the provisions of which shall continue in effect in a similar manner in the future if the number of applications at any time exceeds the number of remaining available farm units.

17. Warning against unlawful settlement.—No person shall be permitted to gain or exercise any right under any settlement or occupation of any of the public lands covered by this order except under the terms and conditions prescribed by this order: Provided, however, That this shall not affect any valid existing right obtained by settlement or entry while the land was subject thereto.

18. All land to be included in an irrigation district.—Substantially all of the lands covered by this public order are within the Owyhee Irrigation District organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, or the Gem Irrigation District organized under the laws of the State of Idaho. For any of the lands covered by this order which are not within those districts, the water rental applicant will be required to execute a water rental application in which the following clause shall be inserted:

"I agree to the inclusion of my land in the _____ Irrigation District." (The name of the district to which the land should properly be joined to be inserted by the project office.)

19. Contracts with irrigation districts.—(a) A contract was entered into October 14, 1926, and a supplementary contract on March 16, 1936, between the United States and the Owyhee Irrigation District, providing for payment of charges and operation of works. (b) A contract was entered into October 14, 1926, and a supplementary contract on March 16, 1936, between the United States and the Gem Irrigation District, providing for payment of charges and operation of works.

20. Construction charges.—The construction cost shall be paid in accordance with the contracts dated October 14, 1926, and the supplementary contract dated March 16, 1936, between the United States and the Owyhee Irrigation District and the Gem Irrigation District, which contracts are on file in the office of the Construction Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Boise, Idaho, where they may be examined.

21. Water rental and other charges.—Water rental charges shall be payable as follows:

(a) Each successful applicant for any of the farm units described above in the Owyhee Irrigation District, and each prospective entryman on any other farm unit covered by this order which may become subject to homestead entry in that district, shall, before making homestead entry, pay to the United States one dollar ($1.00) for each irrigable acre in the farm unit, as an advance initial payment for the rental of water for the season of 1938. Such payment will entitle him to two and six-sevenths (2⅔) acre-feet of water per irrigable acre. Additional water may be furnished during the same season at the rate of thirty-five cents ($0.35) per acre-foot, payments therefor to be made to the Owyhee Irrigation District in advance of its delivery.

(b) Each successful applicant for any of the farm units described above in the Gem Irrigation District, and each prospective entryman on any other farm unit covered by this order which may become subject to homestead entry in that district, shall, before making homestead entry, pay to the United States thirty-five ($0.35) for each irrigable acre in the farm unit as an advance initial payment for the rental of water for the season of 1938. Such payment will entitle him to one acre-foot of water per irrigable acre. Additional water will be furnished during the same season at the rate of thirty-five cents ($0.35) per acre-foot, payments therefor to be made to the Gem Irrigation District in advance of its delivery. Provided, That, in any case where water rental application is not filed until after June 1, 1938, and no water is used during the irrigation season of 1938, initial water rental payments, made as specified in (a) and (b) above, will be credited on water charges coming due for the succeeding irrigation season in the spring of 1939. Otherwise, such initial payments shall be applied as water rental charges for the season of 1938, whether water is used or not.

(c) In addition to the payment of water rental charges specified in (a) and (b) above, payment must also be made to the irrigation district in which the farm unit is included of the annual assessment or assessments for district administrative purposes at the same rate and in the same manner as for similar lands in private ownership in such district.

(d) Water rental charges for privately owned lands covered by this order shall be in accordance with Article

13 H of contract dated March 16, 1936 between the United States and the Owyhee Irrigation District, the Gem Irrigation District and other subscribing districts of the Owyhee project.

22. Place and manner of payment of water rental charges.—All initial water rental charges must be paid at the office of the Bureau of Reclamation at Boise, Idaho, by cash or bank draft, cashier's check, certified check, or postal or express money order, payable to Bureau of Reclamation.

23. Reservation of rights of way for county highways.—Rights of way are reserved for county highways along all section lines, said rights of way being 30 feet in width on each side of said lines.

24. Effect of relinquishment prior to one year's residence.—In the event that any entry of public land shall be relinquished at any time prior to actual residence upon the land by the entryman for not less than one year, the lands so relinquished shall not be subject to entry for a period of 60 days after the filing and notation of the relinquishment in the local land office. During the 10-day period next succeeding the expiration of such 60-day period, any person having the necessary qualifications may file application for said public land. If, on the tenth day of said 10-day period, prior to 2 p. m., the number of applications filed exceeds the number of available farm units, then the right to make entry for such farm units shall be determined in accordance with the proceedure described in Paragraph 13 of this order.

25. Waiver of mineral rights.—All homestead entries for any of the above-described farm units, and for any lands covered by this order which may become subject to such entry, will be subject to the laws of the United States governing mineral land and all homestead applicants under this order must waive the right to the mineral content of the land, if required to do so by the Land Office, otherwise the homestead application will be rejected or the homestead entry cancelled.

Assistant to the Secretary of the Interior.

RULES FOR THE REGULATION OF SHORT-SELLING

These rules were adopted pursuant to authority conferred upon the Securities and Exchange Commission by the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, particularly Sections 3 (b), 10 (a), and 23 (a) thereof. The rules apply to short-selling of securities on National securities exchanges. Rule X-3B-3 defines the term "short-selling". Rule X-10A-1 prohibits short-selling under certain circumstances and is applicable to all persons whether members of national securities exchanges or the public. Rule X-10A-2 is applicable only to members of national securities exchanges and is designed to prohibit the borrowing of securities for deliveries against "long" sales.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, deeming it necessary for the exercise of the functions vested in it and necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors so to do, pursuant to authority conferred upon it by the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, particularly Sections 3 (b) and 23 (a) thereof, hereby adopts the following rule:

"RULE X-3B-3. Definition of 'short sale'.—The term 'short sale' means any sale of a security which the seller does not own or any sale which is consummated by the delivery of a security borrowed by, or for the account of, the seller":

The Securities and Exchange Commission, deeming it necessary for the exercise of the functions vested in it and necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors so to do, pursuant to authority conferred upon it by the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, particularly Sections 10 (a) and 23 (a) thereof, hereby adopts the following rules:

"RULE X-10A-1. Short sales.—(a) No person shall, for his own account or for the account of any other person, by the use of any facility of any national securities exchange effect a short sale of any security at or below the price at which the last sale thereof, regular way, was effected on such exchange.

"(b) No member of a national securities exchange shall, by the use of any facility of such exchange, execute any sell order unless such order is marked either 'long' or 'short'.

"(c) No member of a national securities exchange shall mark a sell order 'long' unless (1) the security to be delivered after sale is carried in the account for which the sale is to be effected, or (2) such member is informed that the seller owns the security ordered to be sold and, as soon as is possible without undue inconvenience or expense, will deliver the security owned to the account for which the sale is to be effected.

"(d) The provisions of paragraph (a) hereof shall not apply to (1) any sale by any person, for an account in which he has an interest, if such person owns the security sold and intends to deliver such security as soon as is possible without undue inconvenience or expense; (2) any member in respect of a sale, for an account in which he has no interest, pursuant to an order to sell which is marked 'long'; (3) any sale of an odd-lot; (4) any sale by an odd-lot dealer to offset odd-lot orders of customers; or (5) any sale by an odd-lot dealer to liquidate a long position which is less than a round lot, provided such sale does not change the position of such odd-lot dealer by more than the unit of trading."

"RULE X-10A-2. Requirements for covering purchases.—(a) No member of a national securities exchange shall lend, or arrange for the loan of, any security for delivery to the broker for the purchaser after sale, or shall fail to deliver a security on the date delivery is due, if such member knows or has reasonable grounds to believe that the sale was effected, or will be effected, pursuant to an order marked 'long', unless such member knows, or has been informed by the seller, (1) that the security sold has been forwarded to the account for which the sale was effected; or (2) that the seller owns the security sold, that it is then impracticable to deliver to such account the security owned and that he will deliver such security to such account as soon as is possible without undue inconvenience or expense.

"(b) The provisions of this rule shall not apply to the lending of a security by a member through the medium of a loan to another member."

The foregoing rules shall become effective February 8, 1938.

Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

REVISION OF DETERMINATION OF FAIR AND REASONABLE WAGE RATES FOR HARVESTING THE 1937 CROP OF SUGAR BEETS, PURSUANT TO THE SUGAR ACT OF 1937

Whereas Section 301 (b) of the Sugar Act of 1937, approved September 1, 1937, provides as one of the conditions for payment to producers of sugar beets and sugarcane, as follows:

(b) That all persons employed on the farm in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of sugar beets or sugarcane with respect to which an application for payment is made shall have been paid in full for all such work, and shall have been paid wages therefore at rates not less than those that may be determined by the Secretary to be fair and reasonable after investigation and due notice and opportunity for public hearing; and in making such determinations the Secretary shall take into consideration the standards therefor formerly established by him under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, and the differences in conditions among various producing areas: Provided, however, That a payment which would be payable except for the foregoing provisions of this subsection may be made, as the Secretary may determine, in such manner that the laborer will receive an amount, insofar as such payment will suffice, equal to the amount of the accrued unpaid wages for such work, and that the producer will receive the remainder, if any, of such payment.

and

Whereas Section 301 (e) of the said act provides, in part as follows:

The conditions provided in • • • sub-section (b) with respect to wage rates, of this section shall not apply to work performed prior to the enactment of this Act; • • •.

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture has held a number of public hearings in the sugar beet area for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of the 1937 crop of sugar beets.

Now, Therefore, I, Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, after investigation and due consideration of the evidence obtained at the aforesaid hearings and all other information before me, do hereby determine a fair and reasonable wage rate with respect to the harvesting, after September 1, 1937, of the 1937 crop of sugar beets, which rate for any farm shall be not less than 12 cents per net short ton harvested, in addition to the total amount agreed upon between the producer and laborer; Provided, however, That a producer shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of Section 301 (b) of the Sugar Act of 1937 in regard to fair and reasonable wages if rates have been paid of not less than $7.50 per acre for harvesting sugar beets on farms yielding an average of 7 net short tons or less per acre, and in addition thereto 75 cents per net short ton, and fractions thereof in proportion, for each ton harvested per acre for the farm in excess of an average of 7 net short tons per acre; and Provided further, That the foregoing shall not be construed to mean that a producer may qualify for payment who has not paid in full the amount agreed upon between the producer and the laborer.

This determination supersedes the "Determination of Fair and Reasonable Wage Rates for Harvesting of the 1937 Crop of Sugar Beets, Pursuant to the Sugar Act of 1937," made by the Secretary of Agriculture on January 20, 1938.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 25th day of January, 1938. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

[SEAL] H. A. WALLACE,
Secretary of Agriculture.

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

EXECUTIVE ORDER

DOCUMENTS REQUIRED OF BONA FIDE ALIEN SEAMEN ENTERING THE UNITED STATES

By virtue of and pursuant to the authority vested in me by the act of May 22, 1918, 40 Stat. 559, as extended by the act of March 2, 1921, 41 Stat. 1205, 1217, I hereby prescribe the following regulations governing the entry of alien seamen into the United States:

I

Seamen whose occupational status as such is found to be bona fide, entering the ports of the United States solely in the pursuit of their calling as seamen, may be admitted temporarily in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor and under regulations prescribed by the Secretary without passports or visas if arriving in the United States under the following circumstances:

(a) Seamen who were members of the crew of an American vessel which has been sold and delivered abroad, when the contract of employment provides for the return of the crew or the laws of the United States provide for their return to an American port.

(b) Seamen returned to the United States in accordance with the terms of the articles of outward voyage.

(c) Shipwrecked or cast-away seamen rescued by or transferred to a vessel bound to an American port.

(d) Seamen who are American consular passengers, or are repatriated without expense to the United States Government following and in accordance with the terms of their discharge in a foreign port before an American consular officer, but who, for any reason, cannot be considered as serving as seamen on the vessel on which they arrive at an American port.

(e) Seamen arriving in the United States, sent forward by the owners to join a foreign vessel as members of the crew.

II

Masters of maritime vessels (except government vessels and such other vessels as the Secretary of State, in his discretion, may indicate) of all nationalities sailing for a port of the United States must submit for visa a list of all the alien members of the vessel's crew to the American consular officer at the port from which the vessel commences its voyage. If there is no consular officer stationed at that port, but there is one stationed at a nearby place to whom the list may be submitted by mail for visa without delay of the vessel's departure, the list must be so submitted for visa. If there is no consular officer stationed nearby the list must be submitted for visa at the first port of call where a consular officer is stationed but if the vessel does not call at any such port then no visa of the crew list will be required. The visa of a shipping commissioner in the Canal Zone shall be equivalent to the visa of an American consular officer, but consular agents are not authorized to visa crew lists. The visaed crew list must be delivered to the immigration authorities at the vessel's first port of call in the United States.

Alien seamen whose names are not on a visaed crew list when a visaed crew list is required of the vessel on which they arrive at a port of the United States shall not be allowed to land without the permission of the Secretary of State, except that for such seamen arriving at a port in the Virgin Islands the Governor thereof is authorized to grant such permission.

As used in this order, the term "United States" shall include the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

The Secretary of State and the Secretary of Labor are hereby authorized to make such additional rules and regulations, not inconsistent with this order, as may be deemed necessary for carrying out the provisions of this order and the statutes mentioned therein.

This order shall take effect immediately and shall supersede Executive Order No. 6722 of May 26, 1934, entitled "Documents Required of Bona Fide Alien Seamen Entering the United States".

NOTICE OF AND ORDER FOR HEARING

Community Power and Light Company, a registered holding company, has filed an application pursuant to Section 11 (g) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and the Commission's Rule 12E-4 for a report by the Commission upon the Company's plan of recapitalization and has also filed a declaration pursuant to Rule 12E-5 with respect to solicitation of proxies and assents and a declaration pursuant to Section 7 of the beforementioned Act with respect to the new securities proposed to be issued in connection with such plan of recapitalization. The Company's stock now outstanding consists of First Preferred Stock and Common Stock. Such plan of recapitalization provides for a reclassification of the Company's capital stock and a reduction of its capital. By the terms of the proposed reclassification each share of present First Preferred Stock will be changed into four shares of new Common Stock and the Company will issue in full satisfaction of all unpaid accumulated dividends on each share of present First Preferred Stock one share of new $1.50 cumulative convertible First Preferred Stock; provided however that holders of the present First Preferred Stock who do not accept shares of new $1.50 cumulative convertible First Preferred Stock in satisfaction of dividend arrears will receive dividend arrears certificates therefor. By the terms of the proposed reclassification each share of present Common Stock will be changed into eight shares of new Common Stock. The capital of the Company will be reduced in the amount of $5,837,720, being the difference between the aggregate stated value of the present First Preferred Stock and Common Stock ($9,396,200) and the aggregate stated value of the new Common Stock to be initially outstanding ($3,558,480). Certain transfers and charges set forth in the application are to be made from and against the capital surplus resulting from such reduction of capital, existing capital surplus and earned surplus.

It is ordered, That a hearing on such application and declarations be held on February 23, 1938, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the Securities and Exchange Building, 1778 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. Office of the Secretary.

DECISION IN THE MATTER OF THE RECONSIDERATION OF THE MINIMUM WAGE DETERMINATION FOR THE MEN'S HAT AND CAP INDUSTRY

These matters are before me pursuant to Section 1 (b) of the Public Contracts Act (49 Stat. 2036) for a reconsideration of the minimum wage determination of July 28, 1937 for the Men's Hat and Cap Industry. The Public Contracts Board, created in accordance with Section 4 of the said act by Administrative Order, dated October 6, 1936, has held public hearings in the above-entitled matter as follows:

On October 27, 1937, to take testimony upon which findings of fact might be made to assist me in determining whether the prevailing minimum wages for the Men's Hat and Cap Industry should properly be held applicable to contracts for the manufacture of enlisted men's white sailor hats, described in Navy Specifications No. 73-H-1-B, and, in the event such minimum should be held not applicable, in determining the prevailing minimum wages for employees engaged in the manufacture of this article.

On October 27, 1937, to take testimony upon which findings of fact might be made to assist me in determining whether the prevailing minimum wages for the Men's Hat and Cap Industry should properly be held applicable to contracts for the manufacture of Army service, O. D. hats, described in Army Specifications No. 8-22, and, in the event such minimum should be held not applicable, in determining the prevailing minimum wages for employees engaged in the manufacture of this article.

On December 2, 1937, to take testimony and make findings of fact to assist me in determining whether and to what extent I should, under the powers conferred upon me by the Public Contracts Act, permit a variation from the prevailing minimum wage determination of July 28, 1937, for the Men's Hat and Cap Industry to cover the following and similar occupations in the manufacture of men's cloth stitched hats: clippers, cleaners, stampers, binding cutters, band cutters, turners, markers, examiners, packers and bundlers.

On January 14, 1938, to permit interested parties to show cause why a variation from the minimum wage determination of July 28, 1937, for the Men's Hat and Cap Industry should not be allowed, permitting the payment to auxiliary workers in the uniform cap branch of the industry of a minimum of 37.5 cents per hour or $15.00 for a week of 40 hours, arrived at either upon a time or piece work basis.

On January 14, 1938, to permit interested parties to show cause why a variation from the minimum wage determination of July 28, 1937, for the Men's Hat and Cap Industry should not be allowed, permitting the payment to auxiliary workers in the men's felt hat branch of the industry of a minimum of 37.5 cents per hour or $15.00 for a week of 40 hours, arrived at either upon a time or piece work basis.

Invitations to attend these hearings were sent to all known members of the industry and to trade associations and labor unions and were extended through the national press to all other interested parties. Testimony was presented at all these hearings by the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union. At the hearing on October 27, 1937 on enlisted men's white sailor hats testimony was presented by the National Headwear Manufacturers Association, Inc. At the hearings on felt hats, testimony was presented by the Hat Institute. At each hearing testimony was received from individual manufacturers.

The Board has made findings as a result of the testimony taken at the above listed hearings as follows:

1. That the enlisted men's white sailor hats are cloth, stitched hats, properly within the purview of the decision of July 28, 1937.

2. That the information received as a result of the hearing held October 27, 1937, on felt hats, was not of sufficient probative value to warrant the making of any findings as to the necessity for a modification in the 67.5 cents per hour minimum established in the decision of July 28, 1937, as to that article.

3. The prevailing minimum wage of 67.5 cents as originally determined was based on evidence of record, that no workers other than those possessing a high degree of skill were employed and that no learners, handicapped, or superannuated workers were employed.

4. That the newly admitted evidence has disclosed that in the manufacture of hats and caps on government orders workers possessing no high degree of skill, and performing tasks subservient and supplementary to the basic productive processes of the industry, commonly referred to as auxiliary workers have been employed.

5. That generally in the industry not more than 20 per cent of the productive employees in any one plant are auxiliary workers.

6. That the term "auxiliary workers" in the uniform branch and in the stitched hat branch of the industry is best defined as all employees other than cutters or workers in the cutting room, machine workers or workers on any kind of machine, blockers, pressers, or hand sewers.

7. That 37.5 cents per hour represents the minimum wage prevailing in the industry for auxiliary workers.

On the basis of these findings, the Board recommends that a variation from the decision of July 28, 1937 in the matter of prevailing minimum wages in the Men's Hat and Cap Industry be granted to permit the employment in that industry, on contracts subject to the provisions of the Public Contracts Act, of auxiliary workers at a wage of not less than 37.5 cents per hour or $15 per week for a 40 hour week, arrived at either upon a time or piece work basis;

Provided, That not more than 20 per cent of the workers engaged at any one time in any one plant on the government contract shall be classified as auxiliary workers; and

Provided further, That the term "auxiliary workers" when used in connection with employees in the uniform cap and in the stitched hat branches of the industry shall not be interpreted to include cutters or workers in the cutting room, machine workers, or workers on any kind of machine, blockers, pressers or hand sewers.

I have examined these findings and recommendations, and the record of the hearing, and I am of the opinion that such findings and recommendations are correct and I adopt them as my own.

Therefore, I hereby determine

(1) That the minimum wage for employees engaged in the performance of contracts with agencies of the United States Government subject to the provisions of Public Act No. 846, 74th Congress, approved June 30, 1936, for the manufacture or supply of men's hats and caps shall be 67.5 cents per hour or $27.00 per week for a forty hour week to be arrived at either upon a time or piece work basis, and

(2) That a tolerance of not more than 20 per cent of the employees in any one factory whose activities at any given time are subject to the provisions of the Public Contracts Act be granted for auxiliary workers, provided that such auxiliary workers be paid a wage of not less than 37.5 cents per hour or $15 per week for a forty hour week, arrived at either upon a time or piece work basis, and provided further, that the term "auxiliary worker" when used in connection with employees in the uniform cap and in the stitched hat branches of the industry shall not be interpreted to include cutters or workers in the cutting room, machine workers, or workers on any kind of machine, blockers, pressers or hand sewers.

This determination shall be effective and the minimum wages hereby established shall apply to all such contracts awarded on or after February 11th, 1938.

Dated this 24th day of January, 1938.

Also pursuant to the provisions of Section 2 of an Act of Congress, approved October 15, 1914, entitled, "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", commonly known as the Clayton Act, as amended by an Act of Congress approved June 19, 1936, commonly known as the Robinson-Patman Act, the Commission having reason to believe that the respondents named herein have violated the said act, as so amended, the Commission issues this its complaint stating its charges in such respect in Count II hereof.

Count I

PARAGRAPH 1. (a) Respondent The United Fence Manufacturers Association, hereinafter referred to as the "Association", is an unincorporated body having as members eight respondent corporations, individuals and co-partnerships, manufacturers of snow fence, described in sub-paragraphs (b) to (i), inclusive, of this Paragraph One, and sometimes referred to herein as "producer-members." The Association was organized in 1936 and has its headquarters at the offices of the respondent co-partnership H. R. Lindabury and Sons, of Burlington, New Jersey. It operates through its respondent officers and trustees.

(b) Respondent Mattson Wire and Manufacturing Company is an Illinois corporation, having its principal place of business at Joliet, Illinois, and plants at Menominee, Michigan, West Albany, New York, and at points farther west.

(c) Respondent Nebraska Bridge Supply and Lumber Company is a Nebraska corporation, having its principal place of business at 19th Street and Farnum Avenue, Omaha, Nebraska. It has plants at Troy, New York, East Corinth, Maine, and at points in the Middle West and West.

(d) Respondent Rowe Manufacturing Company is an Illinois corporation, having its principal place of business at Galesburg, Illinois. It has plants at Portland, Maine, Candia, New Hampshire, and Horseheads, New York.

(e) Respondents Glenn A. Lindabury, Martin Lindabury and Edgar Lindabury are co-partners doing business under the style of New Jersey Fence Company. They have their principal place of business and a plant at Burlington, New Jersey, and another plant at Cohoes, New York.

(f) Respondents J. M. Denning and J. Wayne Denning are co-partners doing business under the style of Illinois Wire and Manufacturing Company. They have their principal place of business at Market and Pleasant Streets, Joliet, Illinois, and plants at Buffalo, New York, Cumberland Mills, Maine, and several points in the Middle West.

(g) Respondent Margaret C. Larsen is a producer doing business under the style of Buffalo Industrial Company and has her principal place of business at 604 Jackson Building, Buffalo, New York, and a plant also at Buffalo.

(j) Respondents Harry I. Mattson, J. M. Denning and S. Page Scholey are respectively chairman, vice chairman and executive secretary of the Association.

(k) Respondents Harry I. Mattson, J. M. Denning, Glenn A. Lindabury, Lloyd DeKater, Alvin V. Rowe, Carl F. Larsen, Leon L. Hutchinson and Stewart W. Adams are trustees of the Association.

PAR. 2. Snow fence is largely sold in carload lots, eight thousand feet constituting a minimum carload. The carriage charges, on both carload and less than carload lots comprise a substantial element of the average costs of producer-members' snow fence products, sold, as described in Paragraph Five hereof, delivered at customers' locations. Far the greatest part of said snow fence products are sold in standard dimensions and specifications. The fence most in demand is 4 feet in height, with pickets 4 feet by 1½ inches by ½ inch.

PAR. 3. Each producer-member in the regular and ordinary course of his business, in the sale and delivery of snow fence products, causes the same to be shipped from the point of production thereof in one state to customers in other states of the United States. There is competition among producer-members except insofar as it has been hindered, lessened, restricted, frustrated, restrained, or suppressed as alleged in Paragraphs Four to Seven, inclusive, hereof. Respondent Association and its said officers and trustees are not, in their said official capacities, engaged in commerce, but are engaged in aiding producer-members in carrying out the methods of competition and practices alleged in this Count, with the effects set forth in Paragraphs Seven and Eight hereof.

PAR. 4. Respondents have entered into and now maintain an agreement, understanding or conspiracy among themselves unduly to hinder, lessen, restrict, frustrate, restrain or suppress competition in price among producer-members in the course of their commerce within, and to maintain higher initial and resale prices than would otherwise prevail within, the area of the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and Ohio. In the area of said fourteen states, the producer-members sell from 90% to 95% of the snow fence products purchased therein.

PAR. 5. For the purpose and with the effect of making the agreement, understanding or conspiracy, alleged in Paragraph Four hereof, the more effective, respondents have combined or conspired, and continue to combine or conspire to follow and mutually to maintain a system of delivered prices for quotations and sales of snow fence to customers who live within the said fourteen states. Under the said system of delivered prices, each producer-member makes the same prices delivered at the location of every customer within the said fourteen states, from whom said producer-member accepts business, defraying, without additional cost to any such customer, whatever carriage charges, either for carload or for less than carload lots, are necessary for delivery to all such respective destinations.

PAR. 6. For the purpose and with the effect of making the agreement, understanding or conspiracy, alleged in Paragraph Four hereof, more effective, respondents have combined or conspired, and continue to combine or conspire, to follow, in addition to the delivered pricing system, alleged in Paragraph Five, numerous other practices, several of which were employed by respondents, other than the Association and its agents, prior to the formation of the Association. Among these practices, the following are, but by no means exclusively, alleged, to wit:

(a) Each Producer-member has formally agreed to file, and in practice has actually filed, with respondent executive secretary his delivered price list, discounts and terms of sale, the same to be maintained for all sales except where bids are requested by any government or sub-division thereof, until such producer-member shall file with said executive secretary, a revised delivered price list not less than ten days before the same shall become effective. Delivered price changes are not generally made effective by all producer-members on the same day, but, to the extent and for the period that the said agreement, understanding or conspiracy has been effective, producer-members cause their revised lists of delivered prices to be filed for their respective standard snow fence products for delivery in the said 14 states, soon after a revised price list has been filed by a fellow producer-member, in order to maintain the price identity set out in sub-paragraph (b) next herein set forth.

(c) Notwithstanding the exception formally made in favor of governmental purchasers, as set forth in sub-paragraph (a) of this Paragraph Six, respondents have in practice pursued the same price policy as respects public, as well as private, buyers to the end that public and governmental purchasing bodies have been deprived of the benefits of competition in price, among producer-members and among their vendees, in the purchasing of snow fence products.

(d) Producer-members maintain the said filed delivered prices without direct or indirect concession to any buyer.

(e) They abstain from making shipments upon consignment.

(f) They bring instances of price cutting, if deemed to have been indulged in by any producer-member, to the attention of respondent executive secretary, who thereupon undertakes to negotiate the matter with the producer-member charged with price cutting and thus to eliminate further price concessions.

(g) Each producer-member has agreed that, if at any time he shall be charged with a violation of any of respondents' undertakings as to prices averred in Paragraphs Five and Six, among others, he will submit to an investigation and to an examination under oath, conducted by the respondent Board of Trustees; and he has also consented in advance to be bound by such corrective steps as the Board may ordain.

(h) Producer-members have agreed that "distributors" and "dealers" shall have respective discounts, from the aforesaid filed delivered prices, of 20% and 10%.

(i) The definitions of what traders shall belong to the class of "distributors" and of what traders shall belong to the class of "dealers" have been concertedly made by respondents

(j) Producer-members file their respective lists of customers with the Association.

(k) The Association issues to producer-members a list of distributors who only shall be entitled to the standard distributors' discount.

(l) Respondents have taken concerted steps to maintain the resale prices, made by distributors, at list price less 10%, and to maintain the resale prices, of dealers to the public, at list price; each class of said resale price to be without concession and to operate throughout the said fourteen states.

(m) Respondents request and urge distributors and dealers to report instances of price cutting in the distribution of snow fence products with the name of vendor and vendee, the prices and terms offered or charged, and the name of the producer. And respondents have at times succeeded in obtaining such reports.

(n) Respondents bring persuasion, constraint, and coercion to bear upon the vendees of snow fence to the end that the vendees shall maintain the said resale prices required by respondents.

(o) Producer-members have entered into and maintain an understanding that they will not sell to distributors or dealers who quote and charge prices below the prices required by respondents, or to those who make better terms and conditions than are authorized by respondents.

(p) Respondents have at various times threatened to cut off the supplies of snow fence products from vendees who make lower prices or better terms and conditions of sale than those authorized by respondents and have actually at times concertedly refused to continue to sell to such vendees.

(q) Producer-members have at times apportioned among several of themselves large orders awarded to one producer, as the result of proposals and submission of bids, without the consent or knowledge of the purchaser. They have thus lessened the competitive initiative of producer-members and the advantages to the purchaser of competition, through the issuance of proposals for bids. They have thus also effectuated the passing off upon the purchaser of a make of snow fence other than that made by the producer-member in whose favor the award was made.

PAR. 7. The effects of the said agreement, understanding or conspiracy, the said system of delivered prices and the said other practices employed, all as in Paragraphs Four, Five and Six of this Count set forth, during times when they have been operative, are hereby alleged, but not to the exclusion of other effects, to be as follows, namely:

(a) There is no competition in delivered prices, between producer-members, for the business of any private or public buyer located in the above-named fourteen states. All producer-members make delivered prices, identical as respects the customers of each of them, and identical also as respects all producer-members.

(b) In numerous instances producer-members thus sell and deliver their products long distances from their plants to customers located much nearer the plant of one or more other producer-members and susceptible of being, more economically and at lower prices, served from the said other plants.

(c) Each producer-member obtains his highest net return when he sells to customers located at or near the point where his own plant is also located and from which the delivery charge is accordingly at a minimum; but he does not reduce his delivered price in the slightest to hold or to gain this his most profitable actual or prospective business. Instead of doing so, he refrains from any acts of price competition and makes no effort, so far as price is concerned, to bid for such most profitable business. In return for refraining so to do he reciprocally gains the privilege of quoting and selling to customers in the high net return areas of other producer-members. Each producer-member well knows that, so long as other producer-members adhere to the said concerted delivered pricing system, he will nowhere encounter competition in price.

(d) The costs of producing snow fence vary somewhat due to the differing costs, at respective plants, of the lumber, wire and other materials and differing labor costs. By the said pricing system such variations in cost are nullified as an influence or check upon prices. Prices are made by producer-members with no regard to individual costs or to varying local conditions of supply or demand. Said prices are made in terms of the said pricing system and are applied throughout the said fourteen states. Such producer-members maintain an artificial price level little related to and not governed by truly competitive conditions.

(e) Under the said pricing system, producers more efficient, and better financed and equipped, and better located, as respects supplies, markets and transportation, in large measure waive their competitive advantages, in the said respects, among others, by adhering to the said identical delivered pricing system. Thus their incentive toward efficiency and economy is weakened. Any saving that might be effected cannot, under the system, be reflected in price concessions, or in the holding of business in high net return areas, or in the obtaining of increased volume of business. The same delivered prices are adhered to by all producer-members alike.

(f) Under conditions of true price competition, consumers located at or near points of production normally tend to buy from a local plant. If the local prices advance unduly, the competition of the nearest competitor at once becomes more active and restores a more reasonable price. But under respondents' said pricing system the advantages which would normally accrue to buyers located near snow fence plants are destroyed. Each producer-member charges the same delivered price as every other. All buyers pay the same averaged carriage factor irrespective of location or actual carriage costs, a price factor substantially higher than would prevail under normal competitive conditions. Buyers can choose to purchase from among a greater number of producers than would normally quote or sell under true price competition, but the conditions under which they buy are monopolistic, not competitive.

(g) Thus the buying public, as an average, pays prices for snow fence which are enhanced both by freedom from competition and also by an excessive carriage factor.

(h) The channels of distribution of snow fence have been crystallized in favor of certain wholesalers and retailers, who are regarded as meeting the views and definitions of respondents and who, irrespective of the rights of others freely to enter trade and compete for success therein, are given exclusive trade recognition through respondents' said agreement, understanding or conspiracy.

(i) The resale prices of distributors and dealers, customers of producer-members, have been maintained by concert of action among respondents and, in some cases, by concert of action among certain distributors and dealers at the instance and with the cooperation of respondents.

(j) Distributors and dealers in snow fence have been compelled to adhere to sales prices concertedly forced upon them by respondents.

(k) Other important means of price competition, susceptible of being employed in the business, including higher trade and cash discounts and better terms, than those made by competitors, and the gaining as outlets of distributors and dealers sufficiently competent to gain volume of business through competition in price, are waived, and, while respondents' said combination is in effect, are eliminated.

(l) Thus the buying public, while respondents have pursued the acts and things set forth in Paragraphs Four, Five and Six hereof, have lost the benefit of price competition in snow fence products among producer-members, and among their distributors and dealers The public has been obliged to pay artificially enhanced and maintained prices for said products.

(m) Since producer-members control 90 to 95% of the snow fence products sold in the aforesaid fourteen states, the tendency of the acts and things averred in Paragraphs Four, Five and Six, is to give, and said acts and things have nearly availed to give, producer-members a monopoly in said products in the said fourteen states.

PAR. 8. (a) The public interest has been substantially, adversely and unreasonably affected by the agreement, understanding or conspiracy of respondents and the practices and activities in Paragraphs Four, Five and Six averred. Thereby respondents have hindered, lessened, restricted, frustrated and restrained, and still hinder, lessen, restrict, frustrate and restrain the interstate commerce of producer-members in the fourteen states with a direct and substantial tendency to suppress such commerce. Such concerted action exercises a power which individual action could not exercise or possess, and the necessary tendency and the direct and substantial effect of the combination are injury to the public.

(b) The Federal Trade Commission alleges moreover, that the public interest directly involved herein and set out more particularly in Paragraph Seven and the preceding subparagraphs of this Paragraph Eight, is a part of the larger public interest, within the meaning of the Federal Trade Commission Act, in the maintenance of the natural regulatory forces of free competition in industry generally. The economic tendency of the respondents' said agreement, understanding or conspiracy upon the public interest, as thus broadly stated, is to lend encouragement to similar impairment of competition in other industries, the effect of which upon the buying power of consumers, the opportunities for independence in business, the necessity that the government undertake by regulation to protect the public interest, and the fluctuations of national prosperity, must increase in severity as the extent of competition is reduced. The leaving to private industry of monopolistic special privileges and franchises is at the expense of the purchasing power of the masses of the country and results inevitably in reducing the opportunity freely to enter industry and commerce.

PAR. 9. The agreement, understanding or conspiracy, and the practices in this Count set forth are all to the prejudice of the public. They constitute unfair methods of competition in the snow fence industry in interstate commerce, within the effect and meaning of the aforesaid Federal Trade Commission Act.

Count II

PAR. 1 to 5, inclusive. As Paragraphs One to Five, inclusive, of Count II of this complaint the Commission hereby incorporates Paragraphs One to Five, inclusive, of Count I hereof to precisely the same extent as if each and all of them were set forth in full and repeated verbatim in this count.

PAR. 6. (a) Under the pricing system described in Paragraph Five hereof the said delivered prices quoted and charged by each producer-member are in excess of the net or true prices received for snow fence except where the buyer is located in the same city as that of the producer-member making the sale. Delivered prices to all buyers not located in the same city include not only the price of the fence but the price of transportation and delivery. In order to ascertain the net or true price received the actual carriage charges incurred by the producer-member must be deducted from the delivered price which he receives.

(b) Each producer-member receives his highest price from buyers located in the city or town where his plant is also located. As the distances from his plant and the corresponding amounts of the freight charges increase, the net or true prices received by the producer-member diminish. The lowest price received, by any producer-member, is that from the customer to whose location the carriage charge is the highest but from whom, nevertheless, such producer-member accepts business.

(c) Respondents' uniform delivered price system is not a system of uniform true prices made by any given producer member. It is a system under which each producer-member makes as many different prices to his customers as there are destinations, at which he delivers his products for sale, having different carriage charges from the location of his plant.

(d) The said system of delivered prices is a system wherein the regular, constant and substantial discrimination in prices is inherent and inescapable so long as the said system be employed.

PAR. 7. The discriminations described in Paragraph Six of this count are not indulged in merely for convenience nor through custom. Producer-members have no immediate purpose or wish to obtain higher net prices or greater profits from customers who are their neighbors or residents of the same community or locality, wherein they themselves live, than from other customers. They obtain such higher prices and profits from local buyers but through no motive of ill-will towards them as individuals. They discriminate in price in their sales against buyers in their respective home territories with the purpose to destroy competition in price in interstate commerce on the part of each producer-member, which grants the discrimination, with all other producer-members.

PAR. 8. It is through the said system of discrimination in price, adopted and maintained as in Paragraphs Five, Six and Seven set forth, that respondents have put into operation and maintained their agreement, understanding or conspiracy alleged in Paragraph Four. Among the effects of the said price discrimination, thus systematically pursued, are the following:

(a) There is no competition among the producer-members since the delivered prices by them quoted and charged for the business of any private or public buyer located in the above-named 14 states are precisely identical as respects the customers of each of them and identical also as respects all producer-members making or quoting such delivered prices.

(b) Each producer-member obtains his highest price when he sells to customers located at or near the point where his own plant is also located and from which the delivery charge is accordingly at a minimum; but he does not reduce his delivered price in the slightest in order to hold or to gain this his most profitable, actual or prospective business. Instead he refrains from any act of price competition and makes no effort, so far as price is concerned, to bid for such most profitable business. In return for refraining from so doing he reciprocally gains the privilege of quoting and selling to customers in the high net return areas of other producer-members. Each well knows that so long as other members adhere to the same system of discrimination in price through employing the same concerted delivered price system, he will nowhere encounter competition in price.

(c) The cost of producing snow fence varies somewhat in different localities due to the varying costs at respective plants of the lumber, wire and other materials and varying labor costs. By the same system of discriminatory prices such variations in cost are nullified as an influence and check upon prices. Prices are made by producer-members with no regard to individual costs or to varying local conditions of supply and demand. Said prices are made in terms of the said delivered price system and are applied throughout the said 14 states not as identical prices but as identical delivered prices. Thus producer-members maintain an artificial level of prices little related to and not covered by truly competitive conditions.

(d) Under the said system of discriminatory prices, producers more efficient and better financed and equipped and better located, as respects supplies, markets and transportation, in large measure waive their competitive advantages, in the said respects, among others, by adhering to the said system of discriminatory prices. Thus, their incentive towards efficiency and economy is weakened through the identical character of the delivered prices made by them under the system. Any savings, that might be effected cannot, under the system be reflected in price concessions, nor in the holding of business in high net return areas, nor in the obtaining of increased volume of business. The same delivered prices are adhered to by all producer-members alike.

(e) Under conditions of true price competition, consumers located at or near points of production, normally tend to buy from a local plant. If its prices advance unduly, the competition of the nearest competitor having similar costs of production and distribution, becomes more active and restores a reasonable price. But under respondents' said pricing system the advantages which would normally accrue to buyers located near snow fence plants are destroyed. Each producer-member charges the same delivered price as every other. All buyers pay the same average carriage price factor irrespective of location or actual carriage cost, a factor substantially higher than would prevail under normal competitive conditions. Buyers may therefore purchase from a greater number of producers than would normally quote or sell under true conditions of price competition but the conditions under which they buy are monopolistic not competitive.

(f) Thus the buying public has lost the benefit of price competition in snow fence products among producer-members and has been obliged to pay artificially enhanced and maintained prices for said products.

(g) Since producer-members control 90 to 95 per cent of the snow fence products sold in the aforesaid fourteen states, the tendency of the acts and things averred in Paragraphs Four to Seven inclusive hereof is, through the said system of price discrimination, to give producer-members a monopoly in said products in said states.

The effects set forth in this Paragraph Eight are not exclusively alleged. They are set forth as showing some of the effects of the said system of price discrimination upon competition in price in the said industry. The said system of price discrimination, as adopted and maintained by respondents is a vehicle through which they obtain the elimination of price competition and have effectuated a monopoly or near-monopoly in their said industry in the said fourteen states.

PAR. 9. Respondents' agreement, understanding or conspiracy to practice price discrimination and the acts of price discrimination, as alleged in Paragraphs Four to Seven inclusive, are performed in the actual course of interstate commerce in the sale of like grades and qualities of snow fence. These acts not only may substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in said line of commerce; they have availed actually and substantially to lessen competition therein and they tend directly and powerfully to create a monopoly in said products in the said fourteen states of the northeastern section of the country, in favor of producer-members who grant the benefits of such discrimination in price to those customers who are favored by the system. The said acts of discrimination in price constitute unlawful discrimination in price within the intent and meaning of Section 2 of the aforesaid Clayton Act as amended by the aforesaid Robinson-Patman Act.

Wherefore, the premises considered, the Federal Trade Commission on the 18th day of January, A. D. 1938, now here issues this its complaint, comprising Counts I and II, against said respondents, stating its charges in such respect as hereinabove set out.

APPLICATION OF DUTIES PROCLAIMED IN CONNECTION WITH CERTAIN TRADE AGREEMENTS TO PRODUCTS OF AUSTRALIA

THE WHITE HOUSE
Washington, January 25, 1938

The Honorable HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

MY DEAR MR. SECRETARY: I refer to my letter addressed to you on June 26, 1936, notifying you that I had found as a fact that the treatment of American commerce by the Commonwealth of Australia was discriminatory and directing that the duties proclaimed in connection with the trade agreements concluded under the authority of the Act to amend the Tariff Act of 1930, approved June 12, 1934, should cease to be applied to products of Australia entered for consumption or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption on or after August 1, 1936; and to my letter addressed to you on July 3, 1937, and in particular to the fourth (unnumbered) paragraph of that letter, concerning the application of duties proclaimed in connection with the trade agreement signed on November 28, 1936, with Costa Rica and all other duties theretofore proclaimed in connection with trade agreements concluded under the authority of the Act to amend the Tariff Act of 1930, approved June 12, 1934 (48 Stat. 943), as extended by the Joint Resolution approved March 1, 1937 (Public Resolution No. 10, 75th Congress).

You are hereby notified that I find as a fact that the Commonwealth of Australia no longer applies to American commerce the treatment which caused me to suspend the application of the aforesaid duties to products of that country. I therefore direct that the aforesaid duties (with the exception of the duties proclaimed in connection with the trade agreement signed on August 24, 1934, with Cuba) shall be applied to products of Australia entered for consumption or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption on or after February 1, 1938.

The above mentioned letter of July 3, 1937, is modified accordingly, and you will please cause notice of this modification to be published in an early issue of the weekly Treasury Decisions.

Very sincerely yours,

JANUARY 24, 1938.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE LIST OF PRODUCTS ON WHICH THE UNITED STATES WILL CONSIDER GRANTING CONCESSIONS TO THE UNITED KINGDOM, NEWFOUNDLAND, AND THE BRITISH COLONIAL EMPIRE

JANUARY 24, 1938.

Pursuant to section 4 of an Act of Congress approved June 12, 1934, entitled "An Act to Amend the Tariff Act of 1930", as extended by Public Resolution No. 10, approved March 1, 1937, and to Executive Order No. 6750, of June 27, 1934, public notice of intention to negotiate a trade agreement with the Government of the United Kingdom and with that Government on behalf of Newfoundland and the British Colonial Empire was issued on January 8, 1938. In connection with that notice, the Secretary of State published a list of products on which the United States will consider the granting of concessions to the United Kingdom, Newfoundland, and the British Colonial Empire, and announced that concessions on products not included in the list would not be considered unless supplementary announcement were made.

The Secretary of State now announces that the products described below have been added to the list issued on January 8, 1938.

As stated in the announcement of the previous list, only products listed will come under consideration for the possible granting of concessions by the United States. In the case of products ultimately included in the agreement, the existing import duty may be reduced or may simply be bound, without reduction. Moreover, concessions ultimately granted may not apply to all commodities covered by the phraseology of a given description, but may, especially in cases of broad descriptions, be limited to certain specific commodities or groups of commodities of particular interest to the United Kingdom, Newfoundland, or the British Colonial Empire falling within the scope of such phraseology. No further reduction will, of course, be made in any import duty which has already been reduced by 50 percent under the authority of the Trade Agreements Act.

The Committee for Reciprocity Information has prescribed that all information and views in writing and all applications for supplemental oral presentation of views relating to products included in this supplementary list shall be submitted to it not later than 12 noon, February 26, 1938. They should be addressed to "Chairman, Committee for Reciprocity Information, Old Land Office Building, 8th and E Streets, Northwest, Washington, D. C." Supplemental oral statements will be heard at a public hearing beginning at 10 a. m. on March 14, 1938, before the Committee for Reciprocity Information, in the hearing room of the Tariff Commission in the Old Land Office Building. Suggestions with regard to the form and content of presentations addressed to the Committee for Reciprocity Information are included in a statement released by that Committee on December 13, 1937.

Crude petroleum, fuel oil derived from petroleum, gas oil derived from petroleum, and all liquid derivatives of crude petroleum; lubricating oil and gasoline or other motor fuel; and paraffin and other petroleum wax products; any of the foregoing sold for use as fuel supplies, ships' stores, sea stores, or legitimate equipment on vessels of war of the United States or of any foreign nation, or vessels employed in the fisheries or in the whaling business, or actually engaged in foreign trade or trade between the Atlantic and Pacific ports of the United States or between the United States and any of its possessions.	Exempt from taxes imposed in Sec. 601 (c) (4) of the Revenue Act of 1932, as amended.

NOTE.—The "present" rates of duty shown in the foregoing list and in the initial list of January 8, 1938, are, with a few exceptions, those now applicable to products of the United Kingdom, Newfoundland, and the British Colonial Empire. In a few instances where the description is broad, the rates shown do not include certain rates resulting from changes made under the authority of Sections 336 or 350 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended. In such instances, the rates not shown are applicable to only a part of the products covered by the description.

In all instances, however, in the above list and in the list of January 8, 1938, the descriptions of articles as given in the lists are alone controlling in determining whether specific products are or are not included. The references to paragraphs of the Tariff Act of 1930, to sections of the Revenue Acts of 1932 and 1934, as amended, and to rates of duty or tax are given only for convenience of reference and do not qualify in any way the descriptions of articles.

In the event that articles which are at present regarded as classifiable under the descriptions included in the above list are excluded therefrom by judicial decision or otherwise prior to the conclusion of the agreement, the list will nevertheless be considered as including such articles.

[Order No. 204]

AN ORDER PROVIDING FOR A HEARING FOR THE PURPOSE OF RECEIVING EVIDENCE RELATING TO THE COMMISSION'S MOTION TO REVIEW AND REVISE MINIMUM PRICES AND MARKETING RULES AND REGULATIONS RELATING TO SALES OF RAILROAD LOCOMOTIVE FUEL, FIXING THE TIME AND PLACE OF SUCH HEARING AND PRESCRIBING THE GIVING OF NOTICE THEREOF

Pursuant to act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission pursuant to Section 4–II–(b) of the Act, upon its own motion proposes to review and consider a revision of the present established minimum prices and Marketing Rules and Regulations applying to sales of coal for railroad locomotive fuel, as contained in the schedules of minimum prices now in effect and applying to coals of code members produced within the several districts, the modification of such minimum prices and Marketing Rules and Regulations which will be considered by the Commission being set forth in the following proposal:

That minimum prices established for application to sales of railroad locomotive fuel and based upon a value in use for that purpose be rescinded; and all sales and offers for sale of coal for railroad purposes be made at not less than the minimum prices established by the Commission for general application in the market area in which is located the mine from which shipment is made, subject, however, to the following limitations and conditions:

(a) No discount, commission or other allowance or deduction from minimum prices shall be paid or allowed to any sales agent, registered wholesaler or other purchaser of railroad fuel.

(b) No substitution may be made upon any order or contract for railroad fuel, of a grade or size of coal taking a minimum price higher than the price stipulated in the order or contract; that is to say, that in every case of sale and purchase of railroad fuel, the seller shall charge and the purchaser shall pay not less than the minimum price established for the grade and size of coal actually delivered.

(c) No distinction or difference as to minimum price for railroad fuel shall be made between sales of coal to "on-line" railroads and to "off-line" railroads.

(d) Where coal sold for railroad fuel purposes is crushed before delivery (excluding any case where crushing of coal is regularly done preliminary to any cleaning process) the minimum price for such crushed coal shall be the price established for the grade and size of coal before crushing, plus a charge of not less than five cents a ton for crushing.

(e) No reduction shall be made in any minimum price applying to sales of railroad fuel by reason of any difference in cost of transportation from the mine to the point of distribution or consumption in the case of "on-line" railroads, or in the case of "off-line" railroads, because of any difference in the amount of freight charges paid on such coal by the "off-line" railroad as between competing mines and districts.

Now, therefore, the Commission hereby orders and directs:

1. That a hearing be held on the 14th day of February, 1938, commencing at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., in the Hearing Room in the Walker Building, Washington, D. C., at which time all interested parties may submit evidence relating to the proposed revision of railroad fuel prices and Marketing Rules and Regulations, as said proposal is set forth herein.

2. Notice of the time, place and purpose of hearing to be held under this order shall be given by the Secretary of the Commission by causing to be published a copy of this order in a newspaper of general circulation in Districts Nos. 1 to 20, inclusive, and Nos. 22 and 23 and by mailing a copy of this order to the Secretary of each of said District Boards and to all code members in the respective districts and to the Consumers' Counsel and shall cause to be published a copy of this Order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

3. The hearing provided to be held under Order No. 122 of the Commission and now adjourned to the 7th day of February, 1938, is hereby directed to be further adjourned and to be consolidated with the hearing to be held on the 14th day of February, 1938, as herein provided.

4. The proposal hereinbefore contained is not to be construed as an order of this Commission but merely a proposal under consideration and does not permit sales of railway fuel to be presently made at the prices and on the terms and conditions set forth in said proposal. Railroad locomotive fuel prices and Marketing Rules and Regulations heretofore in effect shall continue until further order of the Commission.

By order of the Commission.

The Commission having on the 22d day of September, 1937, granted the application of Smokeless Coal Corporation, for provisional approval as a marketing agency and by further order dated the 9th day of December, 1937, having further continued such provisional approval to and until the 30th day of January, 1938, and the Commission having in the meantime under its Order No. 123 conducted hearings for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Commission to establish permanent rules and regulations governing the organization and operation of marketing agencies under Section 12 of the Act and such permanent regulations not having yet been established.

Now, therefore, pursuant to Act of Congress entitled "An Act to regulate interstate commerce in bituminous coal, and for other purposes" (Public, No. 48, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), known as the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, the National Bituminous Coal Commission hereby orders:

That the provisional approval of Smokeless Coal Corporation, as a marketing agency, be and the same is hereby extended to continue in force until further order of this Commission.

The Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith mail a copy of this order to the petitioner.

By order of the Commission.

[Docket No. 65-FD]

INVESTIGATION OF THE NATURE AND EXTENT OF TRANSACTIONS IN INTRASTATE COMMERCE IN BITUMINOUS COAL IN THE STATE OF VIRGINIA AND THE EFFECT OF SUCH TRANSACTIONS ON INTERSTATE COMMERCE IN SUCH COAL

At a regular session of the National Bituminous Coal Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 27th day of January, 1938.

It appearing, That by Orders Nos. 2 and 50, the Commission upon its own motion entered into and conducted an investigation under the provisions of Section 4–A of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, for the purpose of determining the nature and extent of transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal in the State of Virginia and the effect of such transactions upon interstate commerce in such coal; and

It further appearing, That reasonable public notice of a hearing was provided and that at said hearing interested parties were afforded an opportunity to be heard; that the presiding Examiner duly designated by the Commission having filed his report and recommendations and the Commission having given due consideration to said report and recommendations and to the record of the evidence in this proceeding; and, the Commission having on the 27th day of January, 1938, adopted the Examiner's report and recommendations as its own which said report is hereby referred to and made a part hereof;

Now, therefore, It is by order declared:

That substantially all transactions in bituminous coal in intrastate commerce in the State of Virginia directly affect interstate commerce in such coal; and

That there will be an undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice as between localities in Virginia in such intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate commerce in bituminous coal on the other hand, and an undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate commerce in such coal if such transactions in intrastate commerce or any substantial part thereof are not regulated and subjected to the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937.

Therefore, it is further ordered:

1. That on and after the 15th day of February, 1938, all bituminous coal sold, delivered or offered for sale in transactions in intrastate commerce in such coal in all localities within the State of Virginia, shall be subject to the provisions of Section 4 of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, to the Bituminous Coal Code, as promulgated by the Commission and made effective on the 21st day of June, 1937, and to all relevant orders of the Commission in effect on the date of this order, as well as all further orders which may thereafter be issued by the Commission under Section 4 of said Act, so as to apply to such intrastate commerce in coal within the State of Virginia.

2. That any producer of bituminous coal in intrastate commerce within the State of Virginia, who may believe that his or its particular transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal should be exempted from this order and/or from the provisions of Section 4 and 4–A of said Bituminous Coal Act of 1937, may file application at any time hereafter for exemption pursuant to the second paragraph of Section 4–A of said Act, and be entitled to a hearing and appropriate orders thereon.

3. That the Secretary of the Commission shall give notice to each known producer of bituminous coal within the State of Virginia who is not upon the date of this Order a member of the Bituminous Coal Code, by mailing, within five (5) days from this date, a copy of this Order, together with three (3) copies of the Form of Code Acceptance and rules prescribed by the Commission for filing acceptances, and a copy of the Bituminous Coal Code as promulgated under date of June 21, 1937.

The Secretary shall cause a copy of this Order to be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and shall also publish a copy thereof in a newspaper of general circulation in each county within the State of Virginia known to produce bituminous coal, publication thereof to be made three (3) times within fourteen (14) days from the date of this Order.

By Order of the Commission.

Dated this 27th day of January, 1938.

MODIFICATION OF PARAGRAPHS 12 (C) AND 12 (E) OF THE SHIP RADIOTELEGRAPH SAFETY RULES

The Commission on January 18, 1938 [1] adopted the following:

12 (c) A radiotelegraph transmitter installed on board a vessel of the United States subject to Title III, Part II of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which complies with the following specifications, is approved as meeting the requirements of paragraph 12 (b):

(1) Specifications for a Main Transmitter

Operating radio frequency	Required frequency tolerance	Required type of emission	Minimum permissible modulation percentage	Minimum permissible frequency of modulation	Maximum permissible frequency of modulation	Power required to be developed
500 kc	Plus or minus 0.5 percent [1]	A-2	70	300 cycles per second	1,250 cycles per second	At least 200 watts into an average ship station antenna.
Do	do	A-1				At least 160 watts into an average ship station antenna.
375 kc and one working frequency in the band 350-485 kc.	[1] Plus or minus 0.5 percent	A-2	70	300 cycles per second	1,250 cycles per second	At least 140 watts into an average ship station antenna.
375 kc and one working frequency in the band 350-485 kc.	[1] Plus or minus 0.5 percent	A-1				At least 115 watts into an average ship station antenna.

[1] The Inter-American Radio Conference, convened at Havana, Cuba, November 1, 1937, contains the following provisions with respect to mobile stations: New transmitters of mobile stations operating on frequencies in the band 375-500 kc inclusive, installed and licensed after January 1, 1939, shall maintain a frequency tolerance of plus or minus 0.1 per cent. After January 1, 1942, all transmitters of such mobile stations shall maintain a tolerance of 0.1 per cent.

For the purpose of these specifications, the term "average ship station antenna" means an actual antenna installed aboard ship having a capacity of 750 micro-microfarads and an effective resistance of 4 ohms at 500 kc.

A main transmitter will be considered as capable of developing the above specified power and percentage of modulation if it is demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Commission that the transmitter involved, or a transmitter of the same identical type, will deliver into an artificial antenna having a capacity of 750 micro-microfarads and an effective resistance of 4 ohms at 500 kc, at least 160 watts of A-1 emission, and at least 200 watts of A-2 emission modulated at least 70 per cent, at 500 kc; and at least 115 watts of A-1 emission, and at least 140 watts of A-2 emission modulated at least 70 per cent, at 375 kc and the one required working frequency; provided however, that if deemed necessary this test may be applied to an individual main transmitter installed aboard a ship before initial or continued approval thereof. For the performance of this test, amplitude modulation shall be employed and the power in the antenna shall be determined by the I²R (direct) method.

In addition to the foregoing specifications, a main transmitter shall be provided with an arrangement for conveniently reducing the power supplied to the antenna circuit to approximately one-half of the rated power.

(2) Specifications applicable only to a main transmitter in existence prior to February 1, 1938

Operating radio frequency	Required frequency tolerance	Required type of emission	Minimum permissible modulation percentage	Minimum permissible frequency of modulation	Maximum permissible frequency of modulation	Power required to be developed
500 kc	Plus or minus 1.0 per cent for transmitters licensed prior to Sept. 3, 1931 which consist of a self-excited oscillator supplying power to the antenna circuit. Plus or minus 0.5 per cent for other transmitters.[1]	A-2	50	100 cycles per second	1650 cycles per second	At least 200 watts into an average ship station antenna circuit or at least 400 watts into the plate circuit of the oscillator or amplifier supplying power to the antenna circuit.
375 kc and one working frequency in the band 350-485 kc.	Plus or minus 1.0 per cent for transmitters licensed prior to Sept. 3, 1931 which consist of a self-excited oscillator supplying power to the antenna circuit. Plus or minus 0.5 per cent for other transmitters.[1]	A-2	50	100 cycles per second	1650 cycles per second	At least 140 watts into an average ship station antenna circuit or at least 280 watts into the plate circuit of the oscillator or amplifier supplying power to the antenna circuit.
500 kc, 375 kc and one working frequency in the band 350-485 kc.	Plus or minus 1.0 per cent for transmitters licensed prior to Sept. 3, 1931. Plus or minus 0.5 per cent for other transmitters.	B [2]		100 cycles per second	1650 cycles per second	At least 1000 watts input to the power transformer when the transmitter is supplying power to an average ship station antenna circuit with proper coupling thereto.

[1] The Inter-American Radio Conference, convened at Havana, Cuba, November 1, 1937, contains the following provisions with respect to mobile stations: New transmitters of mobile stations operating on frequencies in the band 375-500 kc inclusive, installed and licensed after January 1, 1939, shall maintain a frequency tolerance of plus or minus 0.1 per cent. After January 1, 1942, all transmitters of such mobile stations shall maintain a tolerance of 0.1 per cent.

[2] The use of a transmitter producing type B emission, which is capable of being operated at a full power input of 300 watts or more, is prohibited after December 31, 1939, by the General Radio Regulations of Madrid, except in cases of distress. See also Commission Rules 209 and 293.

For the purpose of measuring the power developed by a main transmitter in existence prior to February 1, 1938, as specified herein, there may be substituted for an average ship station antenna, an artificial antenna having a capacity of 750 micro-microfarads and an effective resistance of 4 ohms at 500 kc. A transmitter in this classification will be considered as capable of developing the above specified power and percentage of modulation if it is demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Commission that the transmitter involved, or a transmitter of the same identical type, will develop the specified power on the frequencies designated, with the required percentage of amplitude modulation for A-2 emission, when properly coupled either to an average ship station antenna or to an artificial antenna having the values of capacity and resistance herein designated. Power supplied to the antenna circuit shall be measured by the I²R (direct) method. If deemed necessary, this test may be applied to an individual main transmitter installed aboard a ship before initial or continued approval thereof.

(3) A main transmitter which is installed aboard a vessel prior to the effective date of this rule which is not capable of developing the power specified in (2) hereof but which will develop at least 50 watts power, of A-2 emission, into the average ship station antenna circuit or at least 100 watts power into the plate circuit of the oscillator or amplifier supplying power to the antenna circuit, is approved for use in compliance with paragraph 12 (b) until not later than October 1, 1938; provided however, that where two or more transmitters are a part of the radio installation aboard a cargo vessel on the effective date of this rule, one or more of these shall not be removed for the primary purpose of operating the remaining transmitter(s) under the provisions of this rule.

(4) Specifications for Emergency Transmitters

The following specifications must be met when the emergency transmitter is energized by a power supply equivalent to the emergency power supply which is or will be available aboard the type of vessel on which the transmitter is or will be installed and operated.

Operating radio frequency	Required frequency tolerance	Required type of emission	Minimum permissible modulation percentage	Minimum permissible frequency of modulation	Maximum permissible frequency of modulation	Power required to be developed
500 kc	Plus or minus 1.0 percent for transmitters licensed prior to Sept. 3, 1931 which consist of a self-excited oscillator supplying power to the antenna circuit. Plus or minus 0.5 per cent for other transmitters.[1]	A-2	50 for transmitters in existence prior to Feb. 1, 1938. 70 for other transmitters.	100 cycles per second for transmitters in existence prior to Feb. 1, 1938. 300 cycles per second for other transmitters.	1650 cycles per second for transmitters in existence prior to Feb. 1, 1938. 1250 cycles per second for other transmitters.	At least 50 watts into an average ship station antenna circuit or at least 100 watts into the plate circuit of the oscillator or amplifier supplying power to the antenna circuit.
375 kc	Plus or minus 1.0 percent for transmitters licensed prior to Sept. 3, 1931 which consist of a self-excited oscillator supplying power to the antenna circuit. Plus or minus 0.5 per cent for other transmitters.[1]	A-2	50 for transmitters in existence prior to Feb. 1, 1938. 70 for other transmitters.	100 cycles per second for transmitters in existence prior to Feb. 1, 1938. 300 cycles per second for other transmitters.	1650 cycles per second for transmitters in existence prior to Feb. 1, 1938. 1250 cycles per second for other transmitters.	At least 30 watts into an average ship station antenna circuit or at least 60 watts into the plate circuit of the oscillator or amplifier supplying power to the antenna circuit.

[1] The Inter-American Radio Conference, convened at Havana, Cuba, November 1, 1937, contains the following provisions with respect to mobile stations: New transmitters of mobile stations operating on frequencies in the band 375-500 kc inclusive, installed and licensed after January 1, 1939, shall maintain a frequency tolerance of plus or minus 0.1 per cent. After January 1, 1942, all transmitters of such mobile stations shall maintain a tolerance of 0.1 per cent.

An emergency transmitter will be considered as capable of developing the power herein specified if the actual power developed is demonstrated by the same method as expressly set forth in (2) hereof; provided however that, if deemed necessary, this test may be applied to an individual emergency transmitter installed aboard a ship before initial or continued approval thereof.

(5) Each transmitter which was not in existence prior to February 1, 1938, but which is installed after that date aboard a vessel in order to comply with these rules shall be furnished with a durable nameplate with the month and year of its completion permanently inscribed thereon.

(6) Nothing in these specifications for transmitters shall prevent the use of any additional frequencies or any additional type of emission, by a ship radiotelegraph station, in accordance with the terms of its outstanding license(s) granted by the Commission.

12 (e) The Commission, in an exceptional case, for a passenger vessel of less than 600 gross tons, may waive those parts of the provisions of paragraph (c) hereof relating to the minimum acceptable power of main transmitters, if a satisfactory showing is made that an installation of the specified minimum power is highly impracticable.

[Docket No. 3031]

IN THE MATTER OF THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of the Act of Congress entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914, (The Clayton Act), as amended by Section One of the Act of Congress entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes', approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C., title 15, sec. 13), and for other purposes", approved June 19, 1936, (the Robinson-Patman Act), the Federal Trade Commission on January 13, 1937, issued and served its complaint in this proceeding upon The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Respondent herein, charging it with violating the provisions of Paragraph (c) of Section 2 of the said Act as amended. After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of Respondent's answer thereto, testimony and other evidence in support of the allegations of said complaint were introduced by J. J. Smith, Jr., and W. N. Baughman, attorneys for the Commission, before William C. Reeves, an Examiner for the Commission, theretofore duly designated by it, and in opposition to the allegations of the complaint by Caruthers Ewing, Watson, King & Brode and George J. Feldman, attorneys for the said Respondent, and said testimony and other evidence were duly recorded and filed in the office of the Commission.

Thereafter the proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission on the said complaint, answer, testimony and other evidence, briefs in support of the complaint and in opposition thereto, and the oral arguments of the said J. J. Smith, Jr., for the Commission, and the said Caruthers Ewing for the Respondent, and the Commission having duly considered the same and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its Findings as to the Facts and its Conclusions:

Findings

PARAGRAPH 1. The Respondent, The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and maintains its principal office and place of business at 420 Lexington Avenue, in the City of New York, New York.

PAR. 2. The Respondent is engaged in the retail grocery business, and, together with its affiliates, owns and operates more than 14,800 retail grocery stores located in thirty-eight states and in the District of Columbia.

PAR. 3. In the course and conduct of its business the Respondent is engaged in competition with many retail grocery concerns in every city in which it operates a store or stores; and the Respondent purchases for resale at its said stores commodities which it causes to be shipped in interstate commerce from the state in which said commodities are located at the time they are purchased by the Respondent across state lines through and into states other than the state in which said commodities are located at the time they are purchased by the Respondent, and the Respondent ships commodities from its warehouses across state lines to its stores located in states other than the states in which its said warehouses are located.

PAR. 4. The Respondent's organization is divided along geographical lines into a number of divisions, each division being composed of several units, a unit being the territory serviced by a central warehouse operated by the Respondent and from which Respondent's various retail stores in that territory obtain most of the commodities sold to the public by the Respondent at its said stores. The purchasing operations of each division are under the general supervision and control of a purchasing director for that division. Each warehouse or unit, however, has a warehouse buyer, or unit buyer, hereinafter referred to as warehouse buyer, who is authorized to, and does, purchase commodities for distribution from that warehouse to the Respondent's stores located in the territory serviced by it.

PAR. 5. Several years prior to the filing of the complaint herein, the Respondent established, and has since continuously maintained and now maintains, geographically convenient to important sources of supply, a number of central buying offices, located in Rochester, New York; Baltimore, Maryland; New Orleans, Louisiana; San Francisco, California; Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and other cities. These central buying offices continuously have been and now are in charge of and operated by agents employed by the Respondent. The duties of said agents continuously have been and now are to find scurces of supply for the Respondent, to furnish the Respondent with market information, and to purchase commodities for the Respondent.

PAR. 6. Both before and after June 19, 1936, the agents in charge of said central buying offices were, and now are, employed by the Respondent on a salary basis, and all of their office expenses were and now are paid by the Respondent. Prior to June 19, 1936, Respondent called said agents "brokers," thereafter, "purchasing agents," "field buying agents" or "buyers," but this change in name involved no change in said agents' aforesaid duties to the Respondent or in their methods of operating in performing those duties. Said agents are hereinafter referred to as field buying agents.

PAR. 7. At all times during the period in which said field buying agents have been employed by Respondent said field buying agents have been, and are now, employed solely by Respondent, and by no individual, partnership, or corporation whatsoever other than Respondent, and in all matters and transactions participated in by said field buying agents relative to or in connection with the business of Respondent or the purchase of commodities by, or the sale thereof to, the Respondent, said field buying agents acted, and now act, in fact for and in behalf, and as the agents and representatives of Respondent only, and in such matters and transactions said field buying agents did not, and no not now, act in fact for or in behalf, or as the agents or representatives, of any individual, partnership, or corporation whatsoever other than Respondent.

PAR. 8. At all times during the period in which said field buying agents have been employed by Respondent said field buying agents were, and are now, subject to and under the sole control of Respondent in all matters and transactions participated in by said field buying agents relative to or in connection with the business of Respondent or the purchase of commodities by, or the sale thereof to, the Respondent, and in such matters and transactions said field buying agents were not, and are not now, subject to or under the control of, or controlled by, any individual, partnership, or corporation whatsoever other than the Respondent.

PAR. 9. The loyalty and allegiance of Respondent's field buying agents are due solely to the Respondent, and in all matters and transactions participated in by said field buying agents relative to or in connection with the business of Respondent or the purchase of commodities by or the sale thereof to the Respondent, said field buying agents devote their loyalty and allegiance solely to the Respondent.

PAR. 10. The Respondent is the sole direct and intended beneficiary of all activities of said field buying agents in connection with negotiations for the purchase and the purchase of commodities by, or the sale thereof to, the Respondent, and the benefits to sellers from such activities are incidental to the services rendered by said field buying agents to the Respondent.

PAR. 11. The field buying agents of the Respondent operate as follows, to-wit: From persons engaged in the business of manufacturing and selling commodities in the respective territories in which said field buying agents are located, such persons being hereinafter referred to as sellers, the field buying agents obtain prices on commodities being offered for sale by said sellers. If the price and quality of the commodities offered for sale by said sellers meet the approval of said field buying agents they communicate their information to the Respondent's divisional purchasing directors, warehouse buyers and others in the Respondent's employ. If a field buying agent thinks that commodities offered for sale by sellers are not of proper quality or are not offered at a satisfactory price or that it would not be to the interest of the Respondent to purchase said commodities, he either so informs the Respondent's purchasing directors and warehouse buyers or he does not communicate those sellers' offerings to them. When a purchasing director or warehouse buyer desires any commodities concerning which he has received information from a field buying agent, or which he knows a field buying agent can purchase for him, he communicates that fact to the field buying agent whom he instructs to purchase the desired commodities. The field buying agent then negotiates with various sellers of said commodities for price and terms satisfactory to the Respondent, and, if able to come to an agreement with a seller on such price and terms, purchases the desired commodities for the Respondent. Having purchased commodities from a seller, the field buying agent usually confirms his purchase by executing a purchase order or contract which he signs for and on behalf of the Respondent and as its agent and forwards to the seller.

PAR. 12. In the course of performing their duties to the Respondent its field buying agents exchange with sellers, as is customary in the trade, information of all kinds affecting market conditions. At times said field buying agents visit the manufacturing establishments of sellers and advise sellers how to improve the quality of sellers' commodities and in what size containers said commodities should be packed. Said field buying agents also furnish sellers with traffic information concerning the routing of commodities purchased by the Respondent. At times when sellers have made special drives to dispose of carry-overs or surplus commodities which have threatened to unstabilize markets, and at times when some sellers have needed immediately to dispose of large quantities of their commodities to avoid incipient bankruptcy or other acute financial embarrassment, the Respondent's field buying agents, when not contrary to the interests of the Respondent, have brought such matters to the attention of Respondent's divisional purchasing directors and warehouse buyers, requesting them to cooperate with sellers in sellers' efforts to sell said commodities, and on instructions from said divisional purchasing directors and warehouse buyers have purchased for the Respondent large quantities of commodities from such sellers. While sellers benefit from the information and advice of Respondent's field buying agents with respect to market conditions, routing of shipments, improving the quality of commodities, and size of containers, and the activities of said field buying agents in cases of carry-overs, surpluses, and financial distress, it is the duty of Respondent's field buying agents, and it is to the interest of the Respondent, to develop and maintain adequate sources of supply of commodities of good quality packed in popular size containers and to have shipments of commodities routed as desired by the Respondent; it is also to the interest of the Respondent to avoid carry-overs and surpluses which threaten to unstabilize markets. The activities of Respondent's field buying agents in connection with furnishing information and advice to sellers and in bringing to the attention of Respondent's divisional purchasing directors and warehouse buyers sellers' desires or necessities in connection with disposing of large quantities of their commodities and requesting their cooperation with such sellers said field buying agents are rendering services to, and promoting the interest of, the Respondent and are not performing or rendering to sellers any selling of brokerage service or any services whatsoever in connection with the sale of goods by said sellers to the Respondent or the purchase thereof by the Respondent from said sellers.

PAR. 13. On said field buying agents' purchases of commodities for Respondent prior to June 19, 1936, the sellers of such commodities paid monthly to said field buying agents brokerage in the same amount paid by said sellers to brokers who sold commodities as agents of and for said sellers, which brokerage the said field buying agents received for and on behalf of Respondent, and as the property of Respondent, and paid over to the Respondent, said field buying agents neither having nor claiming any right, title or interest therein whatsoever.

PAR. 14. Shortly after June 19, 1936, the Respondent instructed its field buying agents to accept no more brokerage on their purchases of commodities for Respondent, and to make all future purchases of commodities for Respondent on one of the following bases, to which instructions said field buying agents conformed, to-wit:

(a) To purchase commodities for Respondent on a net basis reflecting a reduction from sellers current prices to other customers, or from the general market prices at which commodities were being sold by said sellers, of the amount of brokerage paid by said sellers to said field buying agents prior to June 19, 1936, as aforesaid in Paragraph Thirteen, supra, and currently being paid by said sellers to their brokers.

(b) To execute so-called "quantity discount agreements" with sellers upon the form appearing in the record herein as Respondent's Exhibit 18–C. Said agreement forms were filled in to provide for the payment to the Respondent monthly, as a so-called "quantity discount", of an amount equal to the brokerage paid monthly by said sellers to said field buying agents prior to June 19, 1936, as aforesaid in Paragraph Thirteen, supra, and currently being paid by said sellers to their brokers. In some instances said agreements were made retroactive from the date of execution to June 19, 1936, and in some instances where said agreements purported to require the Respondent to purchase a stipulated quantity of commodities during the existence of the agreement in order to earn the "discount" for which provision was therein made, it was understood and agreed between the Respondent's said field buying agents and the sellers that the Respondent was to receive said "discount" regardless of the provisions of said agreements with respect to the quantity of commodities to be purchased by the Respondent thereunder.

(c) To make with sellers unwilling to sell on either of the two preceding bases an agreement providing that said sellers were to keep a record of all brokerage which but for the Robinson-Patman Act said sellers would have paid to said field buying agents as aforesaid in Paragraph Thirteen, supra, and to pay said brokerage in escrow, or set it up as an "abeyance account" on the sellers' books, said brokerage to be paid to the Respondent when, as, and if, the legality of the payment thereof should be determined.

Since June 19, 1936, the Respondent has purchased commodities in interstate commerce on each of said bases.

PAR. 15. Subsequent to the effective date of the Robinson-Patman Act the said field buying agents of the Respondent knew the current prices at which sellers from whom they were purchasing commodities for the Respondent were selling those commodities to their customers other than Respondent, and were at all times well posted and informed of the general market prices at which commodities being purchased by them for the Respondent were being sold. In computing the net prices at which the said field buying agents purchased commodities for the Respondent subsequent to the effective date of the Robinson-Patman Act, said field buying agents deducted from sellers' current prices to their customers other than Respondent, or from the general market prices at which commodities were being sold, as the case might be, an amount equal to the brokerage which but for the Robinson-Patman Act said sellers would have paid to said agents as aforesaid in Paragraph Thirteen supra.

PAR. 16. The Respondent feared the loss of brokerage upon purchases of commodities made other than on the net basis, or on the quantity discount basis, as described respectively in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) of Paragraph Fourteen, supra, and instructed its field buying agents to make all purchases possible on said net basis or on said quantity discount basis. On purchases of commodities made on said net basis or on said quantity discount basis the Respondent did not request that brokerage be paid in escrow or set up as an "abeyance account" on sellers' books as aforesaid in sub-paragraph (c) of Paragraph Fourteen, supra, but on all purchases not made on one of said bases the Respondent did request sellers to pay brokerage in escrow, or set brokerage up on their books as an "abeyance account" as aforesaid in sub-paragraph (c) of Paragraph Fourteen, supra.

PAR. 17. Not all of the net prices at which the said field buying agents purchased commodities for the Respondent subsequent to June 19, 1936 reflected a reduction of the exact amount of brokerage which but for the Robinson-Patman Act said sellers would have paid to said field buying agents as aforesaid in Paragraph Thirteen, supra, because an exact reduction frequently resulted in a sale price involving fractions which were not used in the trade, and the Respondent instructed its said field buying agents to avoid the use of such fractions wherever possible in agreeing upon the net price to be paid for commodities by the Respondent so that said net prices would not appear to involve any allowance in lieu of brokerage.

PAR. 18. Other customers of sellers who sold commodities to the Respondent on the bases outlined in Paragraph Fourteen, supra, purchased from those sellers in individual quantities as large as those in which the Respondent purchased, but with extremely few exceptions, in no wise affecting the facts in this matter, the Respondent was the only customer of said sellers to whom said sellers sold commodities on said bases and the Respondent's purchases from said sellers were made on one of said bases regardless of the quantity of commodities purchased by it.

PAR. 19. When the Respondent's field buying agents purchase from sellers commodities for the Respondent the services of no brokers are used or invoked by sellers or by the Respondent, and said sellers do not receive or have the benefit of any selling or brokerage services rendered by any broker or by the Respondent or by any agent or employee of the Respondent, but in purchasing commodities on the net price and quantity discount bases above referred to in Paragraph Fourteen the Respondent obtains, receives and accepts the equivalent of brokerage currently paid by sellers to their brokers for brokerage services actually rendered to said sellers by their said brokers in selling commodities for said sellers.

PAR. 20. Some sellers effect savings other than brokerage on purchases made for the Respondent by the Respondent's field buying agents, but the only savings represented by the net prices and quantity discounts above referred to in Paragraph Fourteen were brokerage savings accruing to sellers as a result of having themselves made sales to the Respondent without invoking or using the selling or brokerage services of another, and no savings other than brokerage savings were intended to be, or were, passed on by sellers to the Respondent or received by the Respondent from sellers.

PAR. 21. The function of, and the services performed by, brokers representing sellers in connection with the sale of commodities is to find customers for sellers and, acting under and subject to the control of sellers, to sell commodities to those customers for and on behalf of sellers and as the agents of said sellers; the brokers' function in such cases is a selling function, and the service rendered by them is a selling service rendered to sellers.

PAR. 22. In all matters and transactions wherein the Respondent's field buying agents purchase commodities for Respondent or negotiate or deal with sellers in connection with the purchase of commodities by or the sale thereof to the Respondent all of the services of said field buying agents are intended to be and in fact are rendered to the Respondent solely, and in said matters and transactions said field buying agents intend to and in fact do represent the Respondent solely as its purchasing agents and intend to and in fact do act for and in behalf of the Respondent only and under its sole control, and in said matters and transactions said field buying agents do not intend to and in fact do not represent sellers as their agents or act for or in behalf or under the control of sellers and do not intend to and in fact do not render to sellers any brokerage or selling services whatsoever or any other form of services in connection with the sale of commodities to or the purchase thereof by the Respondent.

PAR. 23. No brokerage or selling services whatsoever, or any other form of services in connection with the purchase of commodities by, or the sale thereof to, the Respondent are intended to be or are rendered to sellers by the Respondent or by any agents or employees of the Respondent.

PAR. 24. Subsequent to June 19, 1936, for resale in its above-mentioned retail grocery stores, the Respondent has purchased commodities in interstate commerce on the basis referred to in sub-paragraph (a) of Paragraph Fourteen, supra, from many sellers who are engaged in selling commodities through brokers in interstate commerce in competition with other sellers of similar commodities, and in so doing the Respondent has received and accepted allowances and discounts in lieu of brokerage.

PAR. 25. Subsequent to June 19, 1936, for resale in its above-mentioned retail grocery stores, the Respondent has made purchases of commodities in interstate commerce on the basis referred to in sub-paragraph (b) of Paragraph Fourteen, supra, from many sellers who are engaged in selling commodities through brokers in interstate commerce in competition with other sellers of similar commodities and has received and accepted on said purchases payment of the so-called "quantity discount" referred to in said sub-paragraph (b) of Paragraph Fourteen, supra, and in receiving and accepting payment of said so-called "Quantity discounts" the Respondent has received and accepted allowances and discounts in lieu of brokerage.

PAR. 26. The effect of the receipt of allowances and discounts in lieu of brokerage by the Respondent has been, and will continue to be, to cause substantial injury to competition between those sellers who have granted and paid such allowances and discounts to the Respondent and those sellers who have refused to do so, in that there has been and there will continue to be a diversion of Respondent's business from the latter to the former, and the effect of the receipt of allowances and discounts in lieu of brokerage by the Respondent has a direct and immediate tendency substantially to injure, destroy and prevent competition between Respondent and Respondent's competitors in the resale of commodities upon the purchase of which the Respondent receives discounts and allowances in lieu of brokerage in that the Respondent, by the receipt of such discounts and allowances in lieu of brokerage, is enabled to and does purchase commodities at prices substantially lower than the prices at which its competitors can and do purchase the same commodities from the same sellers and the Respondent is thereby enabled to resell said commodities at prices substantially lower than the prices at which its competitors can resell said commodities.

Conclusion

The Respondent takes the position: First—That it has accepted no discounts or allowances in lieu of brokerage. Second—That if it be held to have accepted allowances or discounts in lieu of brokerage it rendered to sellers services therefor within the meaning of Paragraph (c) of Section 2 of the Clayton Act, as amended by the Robinson-Patman Act. Third—That the provisions of Section 2 (c) of said Act, as amended, must be held to be limited by the cost proviso or differentials provisions of Paragraph (a) thereof, which should be construed to permit the passing on of brokerage savings by way of a net price differential or quantity discount.

The Commission is unable to adopt this reasoning, and concludes and finds that the Respondent has received discounts and allowances in lieu of brokerage in violation of said Paragraph (c) of Section 2 of the Clayton Act as amended.

The Respondent contends that there is a vast difference and valid distinction between a differential which merely reflects or is the equivalent of brokerage savings and a discount or allowance in lieu of brokerage; that a discount or allowance made as a part of the price of goods can not come within the scope of Paragraph (c), although equivalent to brokerage and intended to reflect it.

We cannot accept this argument. The supposed distinction between a discount or allowance equivalent to brokerage, made as a part of the price of goods, and a discount or allowance in lieu of brokerage reflected by the price of goods appears to us as too tenuous for approval.

The argument assumes one of the fundamental issues in this case, namely, whether or not brokerage may be passed on to buyers as a savings in cost under the cost proviso or differentials provisions of Paragraph (a) of Section 2 of the Act.

If that may not be done, it cannot successfully be contended that there is any difference between a price reflecting an allowance in lieu of brokerage and a price reflecting brokerage savings—in each instance the price is mathematically the same, and the lower price is lower, by an amount wholly or partly equivalent to brokerage, for no other reason than that that price is given instead of brokerage being paid on the basis of a higher price.

The words "in lieu of," "discount," and "allowance" are well understood and there can be no dispute as to their respective definitions.

"In lieu of" means instead of, in place of, or in substitution for.

"Allowance" means abatement, deductions, or concession.

"Discount" means deduction, allowance from a price asked, or deduction from the usual price made for some special reason.

Taking the plain and simple meaning of these words, it seems impossible to say that a net price arrived at by deducting from a regular price an amount equal to brokerage formerly paid, and now currently paid to brokers, because that brokerage is no longer to be paid, is a price which does not involve a discount or allowance in lieu of brokerage.

If and insofar as intent is an element of an allowance or discount in lieu of brokerage, the intent necessary to characterize as such the Respondent's net prices and quantity discounts, referred to in Paragraph Fourteen, supra, existed here. The net price differentials and the quantity discounts in question were generally equal in amount to brokerage paid to the Respondent's field buying agents prior to June 19, 1936, and currently being paid by sellers to independent brokers and were passed on by the sellers and accepted by the Respondent to take the place of, and in substitution for, brokerage paid to the Respondent's field buying agents prior to that date. Counsel for the Respondent conceded in their brief that the net prices and quantity discounts allowed Respondent did not represent any form of savings to sellers whatsoever other than the brokerage savings accruing to sellers as a result of having themselves made sales to the Respondent without incurring any obligation to pay brokerage thereon to an independent broker. The Commission concludes that such net price differentials and quantity discounts were allowances and discounts in lieu of brokerage and were affirmatively intended as such by both sellers and the Respondent.

The Clayton Act, as amended by the Robinson-Patman Act, has a dual purpose which is apparent both from the form of the Act itself and from the reports of the several Congressional Committees which considered and commented upon it. The Act was directed not only at price discriminations but also at certain practices which involved both price discriminations and unfair methods of competition.

Paragraph (a) generally prohibits both direct and indirect discriminations in price. If discriminations in price were the only evils sought to be terminated by the Act there was no necessity for including in it Paragraphs (c), (d), or (e) because the practices thereby condemned, themselves involving indirect price discriminations, could have been terminated under Paragraph (a) insofar as they could be shown injuriously to affect competition in particular cases. By directing those particular paragraphs at those particular practices, it is believed that Congress manifested a purpose and intent to condemn and proscribe such practices, not merely and simply because they involved price discriminations, but because they were considered by Congress to be inherently unfair methods of competition which were per se injurious to commerce.

As stated by the report of the House Committee on the Judiciary in reporting the Robinson-Patman Act its purpose was "• • • to restore, so far as possible, equality of opportunity in business • • • by protecting trade and commerce against unfair trade practices and unlawful price discriminations, and also against restraint and monopoly for the better protection of consumers, workers, and independent producers, manufacturers, merchants, and other businessmen.

"To accomplish its purpose, the bill amends and strengthens the Clayton Act • • •

"More than 20 years' experience and observation with respect to the operation of the Clayton Act, together with new methods of trade and industrial organization that have since developed, have convinced your committee of the shortcomings of existing legislation, and of the need for strengthening existing laws and of fitting them more perfectly to the methods and needs of today. This your committee has striven to do with a careful regard to the preservation of full freedom and sound and honest business methods • • • but with a firm resolve not to permit the desire of privilege to masquerade under the claim of right."

(Report of House Committee on the Judiciary 74th Congress, 2nd Session, House of Representatives Report Number 2287, Pages 3, 6.)

It is thus apparent that the Act is directed at a multiplicity of evils which may be classified generally as price discriminations and unfair trade practices.

The Commission concludes that it was the intention of Congress to proscribe absolutely and unconditionally as an undesirable and unfair trade practice and method of competition, the payment of brokerage and the granting of any allowance or discount in lieu thereof by sellers to buyers on the latters' own purchases of goods, and that the inclusion in Paragraph (c) of the clause "except for services rendered in connection with the sale of goods" was not intended to set up a condition upon which such brokerage could be paid or such allowance or discount be granted. This conclusion is sustained and, indeed, required by the reports of the various committees which dealt with the Act.

As originally introduced in the House and Senate Paragraph (c) (Paragraph (b) at that time) unqualifiedly prohibited the payment of brokerage by a seller to any intermediary acting for the buyer or subject to the buyer's control. It did not prohibit the payment of brokerage directly to a buyer, however, or make any reference to "services rendered." The Paragraph then read:

"(b) That it shall be unlawful for any person engaged in commerce, in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation to an agent, representative, or other intermediary in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, where such intermediary is acting therein for or in behalf or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such purchase and sale transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid."

Upon being referred to the Committee on the Judiciary of the respective houses the Paragraph was amended to read exactly as it now reads, except that the "services rendered" clause was not inserted by the Senate Committee.

The Senate amendment merely added to the existing prohibition of Paragraph (c) an additional prohibition against the payment of brokerage direct to the buyer, reenforcing the Paragraph with a provision that no discount or allowance in lieu of brokerage should be permitted. The Paragraph as thus amended was reported to the Senate on February 3, 1936, as follows:

"In section (b) the phrases 'or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof', and 'either to the other party to such transaction' are added by your committee's recommendation. As so revised, this section forbids the payment or allowance of brokerage, either to the other principal party, or to an intermediary acting in fact for or under the control of the other principal party, to the purchase and sale transaction.

"Among the prevalent modes of discrimination at which this bill is directed, is the practice of certain large buyers to demand the allowance of brokerage direct to them upon their purchases, or its payment to an employee, agent, or corporate subsidiary whom they set up in the guise of a broker, and through whom they demand that sales to them be made. Whether employed by the buyer in good faith to find a source of supply, or by the seller to find a market, the broker so employed discharges a sound economic function and is entitled to appropriate compensation by the one in whose interest he so serves. But to permit its payment or allowance where no such service is rendered, where in fact, if a 'broker,' so labeled, enters the picture at all, it is one whom the buyer points out to the seller, rather than one who brings the buyer to the seller is but to permit the corruption of this function to the purposes of competitive discrimination. The relation of the broker to his client is a fiduciary one. To collect from a client for services rendered in the interest of a party adverse to him, is a violation of that relationship; and to protect those who deal in the streams of commerce against breaches of faith in its relations of trust, is to foster confidence in its processes and promote its wholesomeness and volume." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, Senate Report Number 1502, Page 7.)

It is clear that Paragraph (c), as it then stood, prohibited the payment of brokerage by a seller to a buyer, and the grant of any discount or allowance in lieu thereof, under all circumstances and without regard to any question of services rendered, and that the Senate so construed it.

On March 31, 1936, the House Committee on the Judiciary, having amended Paragraph (c) to conform to the Senate amendment and added the services rendered clause thereto, reported the Bill to the House with the following comments, the underscored parts of which were adopted word for word from the Senate Report quoted above:

"Section (b) deals with the abuse of the brokerage function for purposes of oppressive discrimination. The true broker serves either as representative of the seller to find him market outlets, or as representative of the buyer to find him sources of supply. In either case he discharges functions which must otherwise be performed by the parties themselves through their own selling or buying departments, with their respective attendant costs. Which method is chosen depends presumptively upon which is found more economical in the particular case; but whichever method is chosen, its cost is the necessary and natural cost of a business function which cannot be escaped. It is for this reason that, when free of the coercive influence of mass buying power, discounts in lieu of brokerage are not usually accorded to buyers who deal with seller direct since such sales must bear instead their appropriate share of the seller's own selling cost.

"Among the prevalent modes of discrimination at which this bill is directed is the practice of certain large buyers to demand the allowance of brokerage direct to them upon their purchases, or its payment to an employee, agent, or corporate subsidiary whom they set up in the guise of a broker, and through whom they demand that sales to them be made. But the positions of buyer and seller are by nature adverse, and it is a contradiction in terms incompatible with his natural function for an intermediary to claim to be rendering services for the seller when he is acting in fact for or under the control of the buyer, and no seller can be expected to pay such an intermediary so controlled for such services unless compelled to do so by coercive influences in compromise of his natural interest. Whether employed by the buyer in good faith to find a source of supply, or by the seller to find a market, the broker so employed discharges a sound economic function and is entitled to appropriate compensation by the one in whose interest he so serves. But to permit its payment or allowance where no such service is rendered, where in fact, if a 'broker', so labeled, enters the picture at all, it is one whom the buyer points out to the seller, rather than one who brings the buyer to the seller, would render the section a nullity. The relation of the broker to his client is a fiduciary one. To collect from a client for services rendered in the interest of a party adverse to him, is a violation of that relationship; and to protect those who deal in the streams of commerce against breaches of faith in its relations of trust, is to foster confidence in its processes and promote its wholesomeness and volume.

"Section (b) permits the payment of compensation by a seller to his broker or agent for services actually rendered in his behalf; Likewise by a buyer to his broker or agent for services in connection with the purchase of goods actually rendered in his behalf; but it prohibits the direct or indirect payment of brokerage except for such services rendered. It prohibits its allowance by the buyer direct to the seller, or by the seller direct to the buyer; and it prohibits its payment by either to an agent or intermediary acting in fact for or in behalf, or subject to the direct or indirect control, of the other." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, House of Representatives Report number 2287, Pages 14, 15.) [Italics supplied.]

This report shows on its face that Paragraph (c) as it now stands, containing the "services rendered" clause, was given the same construction by the House Committee as it had heretofore been given by the Senate Committee before that clause was inserted. This in itself seems sufficient to require the conclusion that the House did not intend the "services rendered" clause to be construed as a condition upon which brokerage could be paid by sellers to buyers. Definite support for this conclusion is found in the Conference Report of the Committee of Conference of the House and Senate which considered the bills passed by each and reported out the Robinson-Patman Act in the form in which it was enacted. That Report states:

"Subsection (c) deals with brokerage. It is the same as subsection (b) in the House bill, which in turn is the same as sub-section (c) in the Senate amendment, except that the words 'except for services rendered,' as contained in the House bill, do not appear in the Senate amendment. In the conference report these words are retained * * *. With the words of the House bill thus retained, this subsection permits the payment of compensation by a seller to his broker * * * for services actually rendered in his behalf; * * * but it prohibits the direct or indirect payment of brokerage except for such services rendered. It prohibits its allowance * * * by the seller direct to the buyer * * *." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, House of Representatives Report Number 2951, Page 7.)

In line with this Report Representative Utterback, one of the House managers of the Conference Committee, said of Paragraph (c) in reporting the Act from that Committee to the House:

"* * * it prohibits the payment or allowance of * * * brokerage on the purchase * * * of goods * * * to the other party to the transaction * * * that is, the party other than the one who pays the * * * brokerage * * *." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, 80 Congressional Record, Part 9, Page 9418.)

He further stated:

"* * * where sales are made from buyer to seller, in the nature of the case no brokerage services are rendered by either, and no payment or allowance on account thereof can be made * * *." (Id.)

It thus seems entirely clear that Paragraph (c) was intended by Congress to prohibit without qualification the payment of brokerage, and the granting of any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, by a seller to a buyer on the latter's purchases, and that the "services rendered" clause was not meant to limit that prohibition in any manner or to any degree whatsoever.

Legislative intent notwithstanding, however, it is urged that this clause must be construed to permit the payment of brokerage to a buyer in return for services rendered to a seller. The arguments are that since Paragraph (c) as originally drawn, without the words "except for services rendered," prohibited only the payment of brokerage by sellers to buyers' agents, the exception to that limited prohibition must be held not to extend the prohibition but to relax it within its original limitations; and, as urged by the Respondent, by writing the exception into Paragraph (c) Congress in fact asserted a belief that a buyer could render services to a seller because the exception of a particular thing from general words proves that, in the opinion of the legislature, the thing excepted would be within the general clause had the exception not been made.

In the light of clear Congressional intent to the contrary, the Commission cannot accept these arguments. Moreover, they ignore the well-established rule of statutory construction that exceptions are to be strictly construed, all doubts being resolved in favor of general provisions rather than exceptions, and the premise of the argument first stated is not entirely accurate.

It will be recalled that Paragraph (c) as originally drawn, without the "services rendered" exception, prohibited the payment of brokerage not simply to anyone acting for the buyer but to any "intermediary * * * acting * * * for or in behalf or * * * subject to the direct or indirect control" of the buyer.

The Commission, in the exercise of its knowledge of the manner in which ordinary business affairs are transacted, knows that the language quoted was susceptible of a construction which might have prohibited in many cases the payment of brokerage by a seller to an independent broker for brokerage services actually rendered. A broker (and the reference is to selling brokers, as distinguished from buying brokers, so to speak) occupies an anomalous position in commerce and in law. He is an independent business man in the sense that he is engaged in business for himself. But the business in which he is engaged is that of acting as a local sales representative for manufacturers. A broker pays the expenses of operating his business and is dependent for his income upon a commission, called "brokerage," paid to him on and measured by sales which he makes for the manufacturers whom he represents. The essential service which he performs for manufacturers, and the only service for which he is paid, is a selling service, although he renders many other services.

In the course of conducting his business a broker must and does also render services to buyers—but those services, unlike the services rendered to the Respondent by its field buying agents, are not buying services. A broker is not employed by buyers. He is employed and paid by sellers as their selling agent and he represents his seller-principals only. His activities in connection with his representation of his seller-principals are controlled by them, but, paradoxically, because of the broker's anomalous position as an independent sales agent in business for himself, he does act for buyers in a sense and he is subject to a degree of control on their part.

This results from requests by buyers that brokers report complaints to their seller-principals, that brokers communicate cancellations of orders to their seller-principals, that brokers submit to their seller-principals offers of buyers to purchase commodities at prices stipulated by buyers, that brokers endeavor to make up "pool" cars of merchandise among several buyers so that the buyers may obtain the advantage of quantity prices and carload rates of freight, that brokers obtain quotations of prices from their seller-principals for the consideration of buyers, and perhaps, in other ways. Naturally it is to the mutual interest and advantage of brokers and sellers to maintain the good will of their common customers, and brokers generally endeavor to comply with the reasonable requests of buyers along the lines indicated. In the course of negotiating sales from seller to buyer and bringing them into agreement brokers are necessarily guided somewhat by instructions from each, but in the essential particular of selling commodities and consummating sales they act for and are controlled by the latter alone, who in the absence of a contract may discharge them and substitute new brokers in their places at any time.

It is therefore apparent that Paragraph (c) of the Robinson-Patman Act, as originally drawn, broadly prohibiting the payment of brokerage to anyone "acting * * * for or in behalf or * * * subject to the direct or indirect control" of buyers, without qualification as to the manner of acting or the degree or importance of control, and irrespective of services rendered to the seller, might possibly have been given a construction prohibiting the payment of brokerage to bona fide independent brokers—a construction which Congress manifestly did not intend it to be given.

Thus it is seen that Paragraph (c) was susceptible of a construction extending its prohibitions to others than persons acting for and as agents of buyers. The insertion of the "except for services rendered" clause therein, it is believed, was intended by Congress not to permit the payment of brokerage to a buyer, but to make it clear that payment of brokerage to a bona fide broker in return for selling services rendered was not proscribed, thereby performing a legitimate function of a proviso "to exclude some possible ground of misinterpretation."

This view finds affirmative and authoritative support in the above cited Conference Committee Report on the Robinson-Patman Act and in the remarks of Representative Utterback in reporting the Act to the House.

The Conference Report, after referring to the retention of the words "except for services rendered," stated:

"With (these) words of the House Bill thus retained, this subsection permits the payment of compensation by a seller to his broker * * * for services actually rendered in his behalf * * *."

Mr. Utterback said:

"The bill prohibits payment or allowance of brokerage * * * except for services rendered * * * this refers to true brokerage services rendered in fact for the party who pays for them * * *." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, 80 Congressional Record, Part 9, Page 9418.)

It does not appear that Congress thought a buyer capable of rendering "services" to a seller in connection with the buyer's own purchases of goods. In writing the "services rendered" clause into Paragraph (c) Congress clearly had in mind true brokerage services rendered by bona fide independent brokers employed by sellers as their selling agents. In the opinion of the Commission that clause was inserted not by way of relaxing the limitations of Paragraph (c) insofar as they applied to buyers or buyers' agents, but by way of excluding a possible misinterpretation that the Paragraph might be held to prohibit the payment of brokerage for true brokerage service rendered by bona fide independent brokers.

Even if it were possible to hold that the payment of brokerage to buyers or the granting of any discount or allowance in lieu thereof is permissible under the "services rendered" clause, the services referred to therein, as plainly appears from the Committee Reports heretofore quoted, are brokerage or selling services rendered to the seller, and the Commission finds and concludes no such services were rendered to sellers by the Respondent or by any agent or employee of the Respondent. Whatever character may be ascribed to the various activities of the Respondent's agents from which benefits were derived by sellers, those activities were not selling services nor were any services in connection with the sale of goods to the Respondent rendered to sellers. The Respondent's field buying agents and other employees acted in every case as agents of the Respondent, having in mind and intending to serve and promote its interest, and not acting except when, and as they felt those interests could be served and promoted. The services thus rendered by the Respondent's field buying agents and other employees were not selling services in character, nor were they rendered to sellers; their services were rendered to the Respondent and to no one other than the Respondent, and the benefits derived by sellers from such services were purely incidental.

Passing now to the third point made by the Respondent, the Commission does not believe that Congress intended to permit brokerage savings to be passed on by sellers to buyers under that part of Paragraph (a) of Section 2 of the Clayton Act, as amended, which provides as follows:

Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered.

While Paragraphs (a) and (c) have in common the purpose of eliminating unfair price discriminations, the Commission is of the opinion that the paragraphs were intended by Congress to be separately and independently applied, and that the former was not meant to limit or qualify the prohibitions of application of the latter.

Paragraph (c) is complete on its face. It contains no ambiguous language necessitating reference to Paragraph (a) for the purpose of determining its meaning. It deals specially with a particular trade practice which was regarded by Congress as an unfair method of competition, per se injurious to commerce, and therefore to be prohibited. The intention of Congress to treat Paragraph (c) as independent of Paragraph (a) is apparent from both the form of the Robinson-Patman Act and from its legislative history.

As heretofore mentioned, since Paragraph (a) prohibits both direct and indirect discriminations in price, if discriminations in price as such, were the only evils at which the Act was directed there was no necessity for Congress to have enacted Paragraphs (c), (d) or (e). Looking at the Act as a whole it seems evident that the purpose of Congress was not merely to terminate the price discriminations effected by the practice of paying brokerage to buyers but to terminate the practice itself because it was an undesirable practice and constituted an inherently unfair method of competition. Paragraph (c) is expressly limited in its application solely to transactions occurring in course of interstate commerce, while Paragraph (a) is not so limited. In addition to this, Paragraph (b), relating to the burden of proof applies to proceedings instituted under Paragraphs (a), (d) and (e) but, significantly, does not apply to proceedings under Paragraph (c).

There is more than mere form, however, to indicate the independence of Paragraph (c).

Upon reference to the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, the Act was amended in Committee by the addition to Paragraph (a) of the words "other than brokerage" following the above quoted language therein permitting differentials based on differences in cost. In reporting the Bill the Senate Committee stated that the quoted words had been added to "harmonize this subsection (Paragraph (a)) with (the) subsection * * * which deals directly with the question of brokerage." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, Senate Report Number 1052, Page 5.) It is noted that it was Paragraph (a) which was amended to harmonize it with the provisions of Paragraph (c), and that the latter was referred to as the subsection which dealt directly with brokerage. By thus adding to Paragraph (a) an amendment having no other purpose whatsoever than expressly to exclude the cost proviso or differentials provision thereof from application to Paragraph (c), the Committee evidenced an unmistakable intention to subordinate the former to the latter, leaving Paragraph (c) to deal with the question of brokerage irrespective of and unaffected by the contents of Paragraph (a).

Additional affirmative evidence of this legislative intent is found in the action taken by the Committee of Conference of the House and Senate. That Committee struck from the bill as passed by the Senate the words "other than brokerage" inserted in Paragraph (a) as just mentioned. Its reason for doing so was that "the matter of brokerage is dealt with in a subsequent subsection of the bill." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, House of Representatives Report Number 2951, page 6.)

The words "other than brokerage" had never been inserted in Paragraph (a) of the House Bill. Paragraph (c) standing alone clearly was not open to a construction permitting brokerage to be passed on to buyers by way of an allowance or discount based on savings in cost. By striking from Paragraph (a) of the Senate Bill the words "other than brokerage" for the reason stated in the Conference Report, it appears to the Commission that Congress thereby exhibited not only a plain intention that Paragraph (c) exclusively should govern questions of brokerage without regard to the contents of Paragraph (a) but also the view that the words of Paragraph (c) were, in themselves alone, sufficiently broad without the aid of the Senate Amendment of Paragraph (a) to prevent brokerage from being transmitted to buyers in the form of allowances based on savings in cost. Thus the Senate Amendment was struck, in the opinion of the Commission, not for the purpose of changing the meaning of either Paragraph (a) or Paragraph (c), but because it was tautological. This legislative construction of Paragraphs (a) and (c) as mutually independent is binding upon the Commission as a clear manifestation of legislative intent.

The Commission has not overlooked the fact that in reporting the Robinson-Patman Act to the Senate, after the Senate Committee on the Judiciary had amended Paragraph (a) by the insertion of the words "other than brokerage," Senator Logan said:

"In the second section of the Committee amendment there is a provision that in making discriminations or differentials, or whatever we may choose to call them, all costs other than brokerage shall be allowed; and it has been said that the words 'other than brokerage' in that section ought to go out.

"I have thought a good deal about that suggestion. I think perhaps legitimate brokerage ought to be allowed as a part of the costs; and I think when the bill was drafted * * * perhaps in the amendment which was inserted by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate we had in mind dummy brokerage, sham brokerage." (74th Congress, 2nd Session, 80 Congressional Record, Part 6, Page 6285.)

This statement, however, appears to support rather than to oppose the view that Paragraph (c) is not susceptible of a construction permitting the passing on of brokerage savings as differentials in cost. It demonstrates effectively that the obvious intention and only purpose of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary in adding the words "other than brokerage" to Paragraph (a) was to refute any possible contention that the differentials provisions of that Paragraph could be read into Paragraph (c). That action was thus affirmatively taken by the Committee is clearly indicative of the fact that it was not ever intended that the differentials provisions of Paragraph (a) should be construed as qualifying the scope and application of Paragraph (c). Recognizing an ambiguity inherent in the incompatability of those Paragraphs, the Committee acted to resolve that ambiguity in favor of their incompatability. Had it been intended originally that Paragraphs (a) and (c) were to be construed as interdependent, it seems clear that the Committee would have left the former unaltered or would have taken action to confirm, rather than to refute, their mutuality.

In addition to this primary evidence that Congress intended Paragraph (c) as absolute, a further, and perhaps in itself sufficient and controlling, reason why that Paragraph must be so construed lies in the duty of the Commission to apply a simple and fundamental rule of statutory construction. That rule is that as between general and specific provisions, in apparent contradiction, whether in the same or different statutes, the specific qualifies and overrules the general, that special provisions prevail over general ones which, in the absence of the special provisions, would control.

As heretofore stated, Paragraph (a) is the general paragraph of the Robinson-Patman Act. Paragraph (c) is a special paragraph dealing with the matter of brokerage only. Unquestionably the provisions of Paragraph (c) prohibit without qualification, and without reference to competition or differentials based on savings in cost, every form of concession whatsoever based on brokerage. To the extent that Paragraph (a) requires a showing of injury to competition and permits all differentials based on savings in cost it obviously conflicts and inconsistencies between them must be resolved in favor of the enforcement of the special provisions of the latter unqualified by the general provisions of the former.

If this construction of Paragraphs (a) and (c) as mutually independent and absolute were not adopted, Paragraph (c) would be deprived of all substance. Manifestly there is no difference between paying brokerage to a buyer and giving him credit for it, by way of a net price, on the purchase price of the commodities which he buys. Sellers ordinarily selling through brokers who do their own selling in particular cases always save brokerage in such cases, because no one else having performed a selling service which entitles him to receive brokerage the sellers incur no obligation to pay it. If they are permitted to pass that saving on to buyers Paragraph (c) will be completely eviscerated, and the efforts of Congress to protect commerce against a practice by which it found that price concessions were being transmitted to buyers by way of an inherently unfair method of competition will be rendered vain and useless.

While the Commission finds as a fact in this proceeding that the acceptance of discounts in lieu of brokerage by the Respondent tends to injure competition between the Respondent and its competitors and does injure competition between sellers who grant such discounts and allowances to the Respondent and those who do not, that fact has not been considered by the Commission in arriving at its conclusion herein, for the reason that the Commission concludes as a matter of law that it is unnecessary for an injurious effect upon competition to be shown in proceedings instituted under Paragraph (c).

The Commission concludes that in accepting net prices and quantity discounts, as heretofore referred to Paragraph Fourteen, supra, the Respondent, The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, has been and is now accepting discounts and allowances in lieu of brokerage in violation of Paragraph (c) of Section 2 of an Act of Congress approved October 15, 1914, entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies and for other purposes" as amended by an Act of Congress approved June 19, 1936, entitled "An Act to amend Section 2 of the Act entitled 'An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies and for other purposes' approved October 15, 1914, as amended (U. S. C. Title 15, Sec. 13) and for other purposes."

By the Commission.

LIST OF PRODUCTS OF WHICH CANADA IS THE CHIEF OR AN IMPORTANT SOURCE OF SUPPLY

Including all products on which concessions (including bindings) were granted by the United States in the trade agreement with Canada, signed on November 15, 1935.

NOTE.—The rates of duty indicated are those now applicable to products of Canada. Where the rate is one which has been reduced pursuant to a previous trade agreement by 50 percent (the maximum permitted in the Trade Agreements Act) it is indicated by the symbol MR. Where the rate represents a reduction pursuant to a previous trade agreement, but less than a 50 percent reduction, it is indicated by the symbol R. Where a rate has been bound against increase, but has not been reduced, in a previous trade agreement, it is indicated by the symbol B; likewise, items which have been bound free of duty are indicated by the symbol B.

For the purpose of facilitating identification of the articles listed, reference is made in the list to the paragraph numbers of the tariff schedules in the Tariff Act of 1930, or, as the case may be, to the appropriate sections of the Revenue Act of 1932, as amended. The descriptive phraseology is, however, in many cases limited to a narrower field than that covered by the numbered tariff paragraph or section in the Revenue Act. In such cases only the articles covered by the descriptive phraseology of the list will come under consideration for the granting of concessions.

In the event that articles which are at present regarded as classifiable under the descriptions included in the above list are excluded therefrom by judicial decision or otherwise prior to the conclusion of the agreement, the list will nevertheless be considered as including such articles.

DECISION IN THE MATTER OF EXTENSION OF MINIMUM WAGE DETERMINATION FOR THE COTTON GARMENT AND ALLIED INDUSTRIES TO THE MANUFACTURE OF BARRACK BAGS AND BANDOLEERS

This case is before me pursuant to Section 1 (b) of the Public Contracts Act (49 Stat. 2036). The Public Contracts Board, created in accordance with Section 4 of the said Act by Administrative Order dated October 6, 1936, held open hearing on December 16, 1937 to afford an opportunity to interested parties to show cause why the Secretary of Labor's decision of July 28, 1937 in the matter of determination of prevailing minimum wages in the Cotton Garment and Allied Industries should not be extended to include the manufacture of Barrack Bags, as described in War Department Specifications No. 6-245, and Bandoleers, as described in War Department Specifications No. 50-1-13-A.

Invitations to attend the above hearing were sent to all known trade associations and labor unions, and to the approximately sixty manufacturers who at any time in the past five years bid upon government contracts, and invitations were extended through the national press to all employers and employees interested.

Representatives of the Division of Public Contracts gave evidence at the hearing with respect to the question at issue, and submitted to the Board a number of letters which the Division had received from members of industry and representatives of organized labor in response to the notice of hearing.

On the basis of this evidence, the Board has submitted findings of fact on the issues presented to it in the above mentioned notice. The Board has found that the Barrack Bags, as described in War Department Specifications No. 6-245, are made from cotton braided sash cord and blue denim material, and that the Bandoleers, as described in War Department Specifications No. 50-1-13-A, are made from cotton material; that both products are manufactured in plants which are included within the scope of the minimum wage determination for cotton garment and allied industries, or in closely similar plants; that in the manufacture of the products the productive processes and the labor requirements are essentially the same as in the manufacture of the products included within the scope of the minimum wage determination for the cotton garment and allied industries; that in the manufacture of these products the prevailing minimum wage corresponds with the minimum wage determination made by the Secretary of Labor for cotton garment and allied industries.

On the basis of these findings the Board recommends that the decision of the Secretary of Labor, dated July 28, 1937, in the matter of the determination for the cotton garment and allied industries be extended to include the manufacture of Barrack Bags as described in War Department Specifications No. 6-245, and Bandoleers as described in War Department Specifications No. 50-1-13-A.

I have examined these findings and recommendations, and the record of the hearing, together with the recommendation of the Administrator of Public Contracts, and I am of the opinion that such findings and recommendations are correct and I adopt them as my own.

Therefore, I hereby proclaim:

That the minimum wage determination of July 28, 1937 for the cotton garment and allied industries is extended to the manufacture of Barrack Bags of the type described in War Department Specifications No. 6–245, and to Bandoleers of the type described in War Department Specifications No. 50–1–13–A. This decision shall become effective on and after February 14, 1938.

Dated this 29th day of January, 1938.

STATEMENTS OF AGE ON IMPORTED DISTILLED SPIRITS

FEBRUARY 1, 1938.

To All Importers and Bottlers of Distilled Spirits:

Section 39 (b) (2) of Regulations No. 5, requires that, if the age is stated upon labels for rum or brandy, or Scotch, Irish or Canadian whiskey, it shall be stated in substantially the following form: "This rum is ------ years old", "This brandy is ------ years old", or "This whiskey is ------ years old", the blank to contain the age of the youngest distilled spirits in the product.

Under this section of the regulations, the Administration has heretofore permitted imported rums, brandies and whiskeys to be marketed with age statements reading "All over ------ years old", "All more than ------ years old", or "All ------ years or more old", provided the statement is substantiated by an appropriate governmental certificate conforming thereto. It has, however, been brought to the attention of the Administration that the use of statements of this nature has tended to create, in the retail market, a false impression as to the true age of the product.

In view of these facts, the Administration has now concluded that age statements reading "All over ------ years old", "All more than ------ years old", "All ------ years or more old" and similar statements, will no longer be authorized, regardless of the language of the governmental certificate accompanying the importation. In order to bring the age statement into conformity with Section 39 (b) (2) of Regulations No. 5, it will be necessary to eliminate the words "over", "more than", "or more" and similar words, so that the statement in all instances will read "------ years old", "All ------ years old", "This whiskey is ------ years old", etc.

This ruling is not applicable to products now in customs custody or to products entering customs custody prior to May 1, 1938. It will, however, be strictly applied to all imported distilled spirits entering customs custody on and after May 1, 1938.
